RAIN, HAIL, WIND

Weekend Storm Rips Roofs, Cuts Off Power

A weekend storm moved in with abandon, tearing off roofs, stopping power and pouring more than two inches of rain and hail in parts of Marin.

The storm moved down the coast from the Gulf of Alaska, battering all of California with heavy rain or snow and high winds.

The weatherman predicted the gloomy, wet weather would continue through tomorrow and temperatures would be slightly cooler.

Gale force winds, reported gusting up to 80 miles an hour, on Mount Tamalpais, blew in a 4 by 16 foot window at the home of Bruce Moody, 88 Mount Tamalpais Boulevard, and a sliding glass door at the home of Mrs. Jesse Thomas, 1 Tara View Drive, both about 2:45 a.m.

The living room of the Stanton G. Ware residence, 45 Spring Lane, was flooded at 2:45 a.m. when winds blew tar paper off half the roof.

In Belvedere, at 3 a.m., a large tree fell through the living room roof of the R. L. Stevenson home, 101 West Shore Road, and two trees caught fire in front of 170 Madrone Avenue when power lines fell at 4:37 a.m.

At 12:25 a.m., a 25-foot boat, the Gwenn II, owned by Frederick C. Lang of San Francisco, was washed aground with a broken mast and split bottom on the beach in front of 38 Beach Road, Belvedere.

The main dock of the Kappas Yacht Harbor was broken up by high waves at 3 a.m. during the height of the storm. A Kappas spokesman said no house-

Nixon Vows Talks With Soviet Union

Would Consult Allies, President Says On Tour

LONDON (AP) — President Richard Nixon arrived in London today on the second leg of his five-nation European tour, declaring he was here "on a working visit, not a ceremonial occasion."

Alighting from his silver and gray jet after the flight from Brussels, the President shook hands with Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other British leaders at the airport. (See picture, page 5.)

"Our purpose is to broaden our perspectives and to discuss firsthand the problems that require joint action and the opportunities that call for fresh initiatives," Nixon said in a prepared statement.

The weather remained threatening but there was no sign of the earlier fog that had prompted British officials to prepare Gatwick and Manchester airports as alternative landing spots in case the presidential plane could not touch down at London.

Queen Elizabeth II's private train was sent to Manchester in case the Nixon party landed there. A second train stood ready at Gatwick to bring the President to London's Victoria Station if need be.

British welcoming parties were hurriedly assembled and rushed to both places in the event the Nixon plane was forced to land at either.

Before leaving Brussels, capital of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Common Market, Nixon pledged to work for "negotiations with the Soviet Union on a wide range of issues. He also promised to consult with his Western allies before and during such talks.

Dissidents At U.C. Plan Open Air Protest Talks

BERKELEY (AP)—A handful of striking assistant instructors picketed at the main entrance to the University of California today as rain put a damper on dissident activities.

Minority student strikers insisted they planned to hold an open air meeting on the campus in the afternoon despite administration refusal to sanction it.

The administration yesterday announced that "because of conditions on campus" it had rejected a request for use of the Greek Theater for the convocation to discuss student strike issues.

Third World Liberation Front leaders late last night issued a statement declaring that oral permission had been granted but had been "rescinded." They announced the convocation "will be held . . . as planned."

University officials said permission had never been granted and that the dissidents held their news conference only minutes after submitting the request for the convocation.

They charged the university is "no longer able to provide to its faculty and students protection of their constitutional rights to peaceably assemble and speak. . ."

They added that "the weight of difficulties incurred by the exercise of their human and civil rights by Third World people rests solely with the administration and the police. This is only the last in an unbroken string of unkept promises and bitter denials . . . "

Third World is a loose coalition of students and faculty members which demands an autonomous minorities studies program and removal of police from campus.

A separate strike is under way by some teaching assistants, who support the Third World demands.

The teaching assistants' strike began a week ago. The Third World strike, marked on occasions by violence, started Jan. 22.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of emergency on the Berkeley campus, sent in California Highway Patrolmen to beef up Alameda County sheriff's deputies and last week alerted the National Guard.

About 1,000 guardsmen were in battle gear at an armory five miles away in case they were needed Friday during a meeting of the U.C. Board of Regents which Reagan attended.

But only a "skeleton administrative force" of guardsmen went on campus.

About 3,000 students confined their Friday activity to shouting across the street from University Hall, where the regents met and voted 18-3 to suspend disruptive students.

Regents acted after a wild three hours of violence Thursday when police were bombarded with rocks, bottles, and cherry bombs. Police retaliated with extensive use of tear gas.

CLOSED SESSION

Only A Discussion, Commissioner Says

The four old-line members of the Bolinas Harbor District board yesterday set up a secret meeting with a state Harbors official and possibly other state officials, freezing out the board's newly elected conservationist member and the public in violation of state law.

Board President Thomas J. Barfield today admitted that four members met for lunch at his home and at the Bolinas Rod and Boat Club, and that they discussed district business — but denied that it was a meeting.

When told that the meeting appeared to be a violation of the Ralph M. Brown Act, Barfield said he would sue if a story ran to that effect.

The meeting violated the Brown Act on two grounds — the board met with no public notice, and the topics discussed were not those permitted in a closed meeting. Public boards may meet in a closed session to discuss hiring, firing and hearing complaints against personnel.

Commissioner Frances B. Stewart, elected in November on a conservation platform opposing current district policies, was not told of the meeting nor invited to it, but learned of it through a friend.

Barfield said "Mrs. Stewart's phone was busy" when he tried to reach her.

The board met with Frank M. Woods, member of the state harbors and watercraft commission.

Woods told Mrs. Stewart today the board presented its arguments against dissolution of the district, advocated dredging Bolinas channel as soon as possible, and told him that opposition to the dredging had been overcome.

The district faces an election March 11 on dissolution. Supervisors ordered the election because of dissatisfaction with a

Steady Recovery For Ike After Intestinal Surgery

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making a steady recovery from major surgery to relieve an intestinal blockage, doctors said today.

The executive officer of Walter Reed Army Hospital said at mid-morning the 78-year-old general "is resting as comfortably as can be expected."

"His life signs are stable," Col. John L. Bradley said, "And his cardiac condition is stable."

The former Chief Executive underwent the high-risk, two-hour, 20-minute operation last night after physicians had tried unsuccessfully to unblock an intestinal obstruction by other means.

The blockage was reported caused by tough scar tissue from earlier surgery which was binding over an intestinal tract.

Doctors told reporters today they could not tell whether the scar tissue was from a 1923 appendectomy or a 1966 gall bladder operation. They ruled out a 1956 operation for ilietis, an intestinal blockage, saying an examination showed that scar tissue to be in satisfactory condition.

The general's wife, Mamie, was at the hospital during the operation, which ended shortly before midnight.

Officials said both Eisenhower and his wife accepted "with equanimity" the decision to operate.

Brig. Gen. Frederick J. Hughes Jr., commanding general of the Walter Reed Medical Center, made the announcement one hour after completion of the operation that Eisenhower had come through it all right.

The operation was a risky undertaking in view of Eisenhower's advanced age and especially his cardiac history. Eisenhower has suffered seven heart attacks and has been

Quentin Inmate Skips Out On Training Job

A 25-year-old San Quentin Prison inmate, due for parole in nine weeks, disappeared last night from a San Rafael gas station where he was working under the prison's new work furlough program. Also missing, police reported, was $70.

The inmate, William J. Arrowsmith, who had been working since Jan. 28 on the 3 p.m. to midnight shift at Spinner's Mobil Gas Station, 575 Third Street, failed to return to the prison as required at 1 a.m., the prison reported. He normally had the use of a car furnished by the owner of the station, Romane E. Walker of Woodacre, but the car was left behind at the station.

The disappearance of the $70 in yesterday's receipts from a cash drawer was discovered when the station reopened early today, police said.

Arrowsmith was one of the two inmates now in the furlough program, which started at the prison in November. He was serving a sentence of six months to 15 years for a 1967 burglary in Ventura County, and had been at San Quentin since March 1968.

Prison officials described Arrowsmith as five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, with ruddy brown hair and brown eyes.

Reagan Appoints Two To Board

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Henry T. Gunderson, a San Jose Democrat, was appointed to a four-year term on the State Board of Education by Gov. Reagan today.

Reagan also reappointed Dr. John R. Ford, San Diego Republican, to the board.

Few Pickets Brave Rain At State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Cautious expressions of hope in strikes by both students and faculty at San Francisco State College appeared today during a dismal drizzle that soaked the campus and the few tiny groups of pickets.

Negotiations involving teachers, some of whom went on strike Jan. 6, were apparently in such a delicate stage that no one was talking about them.

However, pickets from the American Federation of Teachers handed out flyers to those coming on the campus that thanked the students who registered in the classes of striking professors.

"This student support has contributed to the fact that the trustees, for the first time in the history of the state College System, are now bargaining in good faith with a teachers' organizations such as the AFT," they said. "It has contributed to the fact that there is now some hope that the Third World strike will be settled."

$411,000 Price Tag On Damage To Roads

Road damage suffered by Marin County during this winter's storms totals $411,000, Supervisor Chairman John F. McInnis has reported to Gov. Ronald Reagan. Another $400,000 in damage to private property was claimed.

Last Tuesday, when the supervisors declared a state of disaster in Marin, public works officials reported road damages totalling $200,000.

Deputy Public Works Dir. Michael King explained today that the $200,000 was damage which would have to be let out to contractors, and the additional $211,000 is the maintenance work such as patching of roads and slide removal, which can be done by county crews.

Chairman McInnis wired the governor, asking that a state of disaster be recognized in Marin so that the county will be eligible for federal aid.

"The amended estimated damage in the entire County of Marin as of today's date is public, $411,000, and private, $400,000," McInnis wired the governor Friday.

Flu Hits Hard At Two Schools

Flu, which has been epidemic at Tomales Elementary School since the middle of last week, has caused that school and Tomales High School to go on minimum-day schedules.

The shortened school day, to continue through Wednesday, was announced today by Supt. Ralph E. Nixon of the elementary school. He reported 84 of his 240 pupils absent today, a new high. The high school today had 40 absent out of 210, according to Nixon.

The minimum-day will eliminate recess and shorten lunch periods so that schools will be out at 1:30 p.m. for the three-day period, Nixon said.

This does not affect the other elementary schools in the Tomales High School District, Bodega Bay and West Marin, Nixon said.

Pueblo Crewman Weeps Openly In Presenting Story Of Prison

COMBINED AP & UPI

CORONADO — With tears streaming, the chief engineman on the USS Pueblo said today he was proud of what skipper Lloyd M. Bucher "went through with us and that he did bring us back home."

He also said Bucher was treated brutally by the North Koreans and was forced to exercise when "it was all he could do to stand up."

Bucher arose from his chair at a Navy court of inquiry and put an arm around the shoulders of Monroe O. Goldman, an 18-year veteran.

With Goldman sobbing and wiping his eyes, the two men walked out of the courtroom together and Bucher spent several moments comforting the enlisted man in a hallway.

Goldman, of Lakewood, Los Angeles County, had told earlier how the North Koreans made him strip naked and crawl around on the floor as they kicked him until he gave them his personal history.

The court is in its sixth week of hearing testimony from Pueblo crewmen on the capture of their intelligence ship last year and how they conducted themselves during 11 months in prison.

The Navy said it would hear about eight crew members a day until the court has heard captivity stories from nearly all 82 of them.

Also summoned was one of the two civilians aboard the vessel at the time it was seized in international waters off North Korea. He is Harry Iredale III, 26, Balmes, Pa., a civilian oceanographer.

The decision to call large numbers of men to testify is one of two major changes in the Pueblo inquiry revealed last week. The Navy denies they are connected.

In a seeming reversal of the Navy's earlier position, Capt. William R. Newsome, the court's chief counsel, announced the Code of Conduct is going to be a major issue in the inquiry.

The code sets the ground rules for Americans taken prisoners of war. It forbids them to cooperate with the enemy, and warns them to tell only their name, rank and service number.

At the outset of the hearing the Judge Advocate General's office ruled the code did not apply to Pueblo personnel because the U.S. and North Korea were not legally at war at the time the Pueblo was captured.

Newsome says he now thinks the code applies to the Pueblo crew in a "moral" sense rather than as a law.

Newsome denies that the appearance of the code as a major issue is linked to an impending congressional investigation of the Pueblo affair. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee called the congressional inquiry last week with the Code of Conduct as the central theme.

The minimum-day will eliminate recess and shorten lunch periods so that schools will be out at 1:30 p.m. for the three-day period, Nixon said.

This does not affect the other elementary schools in the Tomales High School District, Bodega Bay and West Marin, Nixon said.

In a seeming reversal of the Navy's earlier position, Capt. William R. Newsome, the court's chief counsel, announced the Code of Conduct is going to be a major issue in the inquiry.

The code sets the ground rules for Americans taken prisoners of war. It forbids them to cooperate with the enemy, and warns them to tell only their name, rank and service number.

At the outset of the hearing the Judge Advocate General's office ruled the code did not apply to Pueblo personnel because the U.S. and North Korea were not legally at war at the time the Pueblo was captured.

Newsome says he now thinks the code applies to the Pueblo crew in a "moral" sense rather than as a law.

Newsome denies that the appearance of the code as a major issue is linked to an impending congressional investigation of the Pueblo affair. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee called the congressional inquiry last week with the Code of Conduct as the central theme.

New Name In Pakistan Race

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, East Pakistani leader of the Awami League party, emerged today as another potential presidential candidate to succeed Mohammed Ayub Khan. He was released Saturday after two years of imprisonment.

Bhutto

Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of the People's Party, the favorite in West Pakistan, said yesterday he would be willing to step aside and serve as Mujibur's "subordinate" in the interests of Pakistani unity.

Bhutto is relatively unknown in East Pakistan, which has 60 per cent of the nation's 120 million people.

Mujibur conferred with Bhutto yesterday and announced afterward he would go to Rawalpindi for talks with Ayub, who has said he will step down when his term ends next year.

Bomb Unearthed

TOKYO (AP) — An unexploded bomb, which officials said was dropped by a U.S. B29 bomber during World War II, was unearthed at a park in suburban Tokyo today.

U.S. bomb disposal specialists safely removed the ignition cap of the 550-pound bomb in the hole where the bomb was found, military officials said.

The discovery of the bomb, 47 inches long and 14 inches in diameter, ended more than five months of searching in the park by the Tokyo government. The park was declared off limits since an unexplained explosion there last August.

Heart Patient Is Showing Progress

TORRANCE (UPI) — Richard Charles Newell, Southern California's first heart transplant recipient was "progressing satisfactorily" but was still listed in "guarded" condition, a spokesman for Harbor General Hospital reported early today.

Newell, 58, the operator of a food market in Oxnard north of here, received the heart of a 23-year-old woman who shot herself to death last Thursday. An 18-member transplant team conducted the eight-hour operation.

Red Troops Hit 50 Viet Towns

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops raked more than 50 towns and military posts with rockets, mortars and light ground attacks today in the second day of countrywide attacks.

American officers said the enemy had started a spring offensive intended to generate pressure from the American public for concessions at the Paris peace talks.

President Nugyen Van Thieu said the offensive had been "completely foiled" with heavy losses to the enemy. The U.S. Command announced that more than 1,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had been killed since the attacks began Saturday night.

U.S. DEATHS

Allied casualties include about 100 American soldiers and an equal number of South Vietnamese troops killed, at least 146 American soldiers and more than 100 South Vietnamese troops wounded, and at least 66 civilians killed and another 250 wounded.

Military spokesman said enemy gunners had shelled Saigon and Da Nang, South Vietnam's two largest cities, 20 provincial capitals, and 29 district capitals. Some towns were hit several times.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, taking a plane to return to the Paris peace talks, said he would recommend a resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam if shelling of South Vietnam's cities continued. He said his South Vietnamese air force could do the job alone if necessary — "they are ready."

DAMAGE REPORT

Allied spokesmen said the second round of attacks today was considerably less than the opening onslaught and caused only light casualties and damage. But it was felt the enemy might try to keep up the effort for as much as 10 days.

At the outset, more than 150 towns, bases and outposts came under attack Saturday night and yesterday. It was the heaviest enemy blow since last May.

U.S. headquarters also announced that enemy gunners shot down and destroyed two big U.S. Marine CH47 helicopters supporting Marine infantrymen sweeping near the Laotian frontier yesterday in an operation to cut enemy supply lines. There were no casualties, but the two losses raised to 2,362 the number of American helicopters lost in the war.

The bulk of the fighting occurred north and northwest of Saigon, around the big American bases at Long Binh, Bien Ioa and Dau Tieng.

Long Binh and Bien Hoa are only 15 miles northeast of Sigon, and elements of the North Vietnamese 5th Division are reported trying to push past them.

Sources said allied defenses have been bolstered around Long Binh and Bien Hoa, and to the south of Tay Ninh City, near the Cambodian border, to meet a threat by the North Vietnamese Ninth Division.

U.S. B52 bombers kept up their intensified strikes around Saigon, dropping more than 1,000 tons of bombs on enemy bases and infiltration corridors. The heaviest of the strikes were concentrated 24 and 25 miles west and northwest of the capital.

Saigon was shelled twice yesterday, for the first time since the halt in the bombing of North Vietnam last Nov. 1. Fifteen civilians were killed and 48 were wounded. But the capital was spared any shelling today.

An American official said the rocket attacks on the capital "were a brazen type thing showing he could put some rounds in Saigon.

If he wanted tactically to do something he would put a lot more rounds in, if he could."

Ten rounds of big Russian 100-pound rockets slammed into the capital in two separate volleys Sunday morning and later in the afternoon.

One of the heaviest attacks yesterday occurred when the enemy shelled and then charged into a refugee camp at Que Son, 30 miles southwest of Da Nang. Thirty Civilians were reported killed, 50 wounded and 85 houses destroyed. At least 141 Americans and 78 government soldiers were wounded.

36 Die In Air Crash In Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A twin-engine Nationalist Chinese airliner crashed today at a sugar cane farm in southwestern Formosa and police said all 36 persons aboard were killed. They included five Americans.

The Far East Air Transport prop jet Dart Herald was on a regular flight from the southwest port of Kaohsiung to Taipei. Officials said it crashed 24 miles north of Kaohsiung, after reporting engine trouble. The airline said the plane carried 32 passengers and a crew of four.

The five Americans included three U.S. servicemen, identified as Dr. C. E. Lafran and a Christian missionary woman identified as P. J. Borges, 33.

Home addresses were unavailable.

The plane took off from Kaohsiung's airport at noon and messaged 18 minutes later that it had developed engine trouble and was trying an emergency landing. Witnesses saw it catch fire in the air and crash.

It was the second air disaster in Formosa this year. A C47 of the China Airlines crashed on a mountain top in South Formosa on Jan. 2, killing all 19 passengers and five crew.

Saudi Arabia Ex-King Saud Is Dead At 67

By GEORGE ANDREWS

ATHENS (London Express) — Saud Ibn Abdul Azis the 67-year-old former king of Saudi Arabia, died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon in the Athens suburb of Kavouri.

His coffin was to be transported by special plane to Riyadh today where his funeral will take place on a later date to be fixed there.

Saud had been suffering from heart disease for a long time. He was under constant and vigilant medical care. In the last few days his condition deteriorated seriously.

Immediately after his death, his half brother, Faisal, present king of Saudi Arabia, was informed and gave orders for the coffin to be ready for transportation to Riyadh.

Saud's entourage of 30 persons, including several wives, children and personnel, will travel to Riyadh as well.

The late ex-king had been living in Greece since 1965. He had hired two floors in a hotel at Kavouri, 20 miles south of Athens on the seafront. He liked the climate of Greece and believed it was helping him towards improving his health. He was leading a quiet life with occasional trips abroad, particularly to Vienna to consult doctors.

He became renowned for his generosity and often contributed considerable sums to Greek welfare societies.

Saud had succeeded his father in 1953 but was stripped of his powers after a family council in March 1964 although he was allowed to retain his title.

Crown Prince Faisal, the king's half brother, assumed the title of viceroy in November 1964 and was later named king in place of Saud.

Condition Good

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S Truman is recovering from a bout with influenza, his doctors say, but will remain in Research Hospital for an undetermined period for a series of routine tests.

The 84-year-old Truman was brought to the hospital Thursday night from his home in Independence, Mo., for treatment of intestinal flu.

Mariner 6 Launching Set Tonight

Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart plan several hours with space agency doctors, who want to be certain they are fit. The trio's mission will be to circle the earth for 10 days after their Saturn 5 rocket blasts off at 11 a.m. EST Friday.

The physical exam also provides medical data for in-flight and postflight comparison.

Seeking clues to possible life on Mars, Mariner 6 is to rocket toward that distant planet at 8:14 p.m. tonight. After an interplanetary voyage of nearly five months, it is to sweep within 2,000 miles of the Red Planet, snapping pictures and gathering scientific data.

Sandwiched between Mariner and Apollo will be the launching of the ESSA 9 weather satellite at 2:34 a.m. Wednesday.

War-Injured Vietnam Boy Finds Warm Marin Home

By ANNE BARDWELL

A small, frail Vietnamese boy arrived in San Francisco last September with a shattered jaw complicated by severe bone infection and scar tissue, his body covered with scabies, lice in his hair and suffering from a severe attack of worms.

Today, he rides his bike through the Mill Valley hills, his skin clear, his body healthy inside and out, and his jaw healing following a series of operations and therapy treatments at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Le A is one of 50 Vietnamese children, injured during the Vietnam War, who have been brought to the United States by the San Francisco Committee of Responsibility during the past two-and-one-half years for specialized medical treatment unavailable in Vietnam.

Injured three years ago in a Da Nang bombing raid which killed his father and sister, A spent the next two years in several Saigon hospitals undergoing a series of operations to restore his shattered jaw. The operations, however, only made things worse and by the time he arrived in San Francisco he looked like a chipmunk, his swollen jaws filled with infection.

Waiting at San Francisco International Airport to meet A last fall were Dr. and Mrs. Allen Moss of 4 Eton Way, Mill Valley, and the six Moss children, ages 6 to 16.

A, living at the Moss Scott Valley home until he completes his medical therapy, is tentatively scheduled to return to Vietnam sometime this summer or fall to rejoin his mother who has been located after a three-year search.

"He was so very vunerable at first," says Mrs. Moss. "When he arrived he walked around for two days with such a serious expression in his big brown eyes, then he began to smile."

And he has been smiling ever since. Although he knew no English when he arrived, the Moss family and A were soon communicating by means of a combination of basic words and an improvised sign language. Even today, although he speaks English well, A still resorts to his expressive face and signs for much of his end of a conversation.

Although A is somewhere between 9 and 11 years old, he had never attended school in Vietnam. In November, following his surgery at U. C. Hospital, he was enrolled in the first grade at Alto School. A small child because of health and heredity, he fit right in with the local first graders.

Reading is difficult for him, but he excells in art and arithmetic and shows all the universal traits of a growing boy including temper, stubborness and competitiveness.

A has had his share of the discipline at the Moss house but it seems to have made him more secure, "realizing he was being treated the same as the other children, even to getting his share of the spankings," Mrs. Moss said.

"We've found that many foster parents are giving into everything as a way of assuaging their own guilt feelings about the war."

A adapted almost immediately to the American culture which was quite a change from his Vietnamese farm background. He joins the rest of the Moss children in front of the television set each night and already has a long list of favorite programs. A few weeks ago he discovered the poys of bicycle riding and the family hasn't been able to get him off the bike since.

Surprisingly, food has not been a problem and the only things A won't eat or drink are milk, chocolate, rice and Chinese food. "He even has the Kool-Aid habit," says Mrs. Moss.

American electrical gadgets fascinate A and when he discovered the electric can opener he went on a can opening spree that decimated Mrs. Moss' shelves of 50 cans in one brief afternoon.

Roller skating is a bit hit with A but his evaluation of ice skating was a succinct "no fun, this stink."

Christmas was also a big hit. "Although he didn't understand what it was all about." He loved the presents and the special fuss, but the holiday also precipitated one of his only two crying spells. Through an interpreter, Mrs. Moss later learned that he was torn between the warmth of the Moss family and homesickness for Vietnam.

The Moss family is resigned to A's eventual departure, although it is clear they consider him a vital part of the family. When he leaves Mrs. Moss will take another Vietnamese child into her home. "A has been so wonderful for us, we don't want it to end when he leaves," Mrs. Moss says.

Veterans' Job Aid Proposed

I-J Special Report

Their bill, the Veterans Employment and Relocation Act of 1969, would provide a veteran a moving allowance and expense allowance to travel to a job interview, Murphy reported Friday in a press statement.

The maximum allowances would be determined by the administrator of veterans' affairs, and should not exceed $100 for each interview and $300 for relocation, Murphy said.

The bill would require the U.S. Employment Service to set up a national center to match job openings with the skills of veterans.

"This bill recognizes that the skills acquired by a serviceman are not always in need in his home area," said Mr. Murphy.

By ANNE BARDWELL

RIDING — Addicted to the two-wheeler since he discovered the joys of bicycle riding a few weeks ago, Le A practices on the sidewalk in front of the Mill Valley home of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Moss, foster parents for the war-injured Vietnamese boy while he undergoes medical treatment in San Francisco. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

A small, frail Vietnamese boy arrived in San Francisco last September with a shattered jaw complicated by severe bone infection and scar tissue, his body covered with scabies, lice in his hair and suffering from a severe attack of worms.

Today, he rides his bike through the Mill Valley hills, his skin clear, his body healthy inside and out, and his jaw healing following a series of operations and therapy treatments at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Le A is one of 50 Vietnamese children, injured during the Vietnam War, who have been brought to the United States by the San Francisco Committee of Responsibility during the past two-and-one-half years for specialized medical treatment unavailable in Vietnam.

Injured three years ago in a Da Nang bombing raid which killed his father and sister, A spent the next two years in several Saigon hospitals undergoing a series of operations to restore his shattered jaw. The operations, however, only made things worse and by the time he arrived in San Francisco he looked like a chipmunk, his swollen jaws filled with infection.

Waiting at San Francisco International Airport to meet A last fall were Dr. and Mrs. Allen Moss of 4 Eton Way, Mill Valley, and the six Moss children, ages 6 to 16.

A, living at the Moss Scott Valley home until he completes his medical therapy, is tentatively scheduled to return to Vietnam sometime this summer or fall to rejoin his mother who has been located after a three-year search.

Bullets Enter Sirhan Assassination Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The bullets that killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy as he was flush from victory in the California Democratic presidential primary were introduced into evidence today at the murder trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan.

Dewayne Wolfer, a Los Angeles police ballistics expert, testified the bullets, brought to court in yellow envelopes, came from the sixth cervical vertebra of Senator Kennedy. There were also bullet fragments taken from the senator's head in surgery and during an autopsy.

Sirhan came to court today sporting a fresh haircut but wearing the same gray suit and sky blue tie that he has worn through the first six days of testimony.

Through nearly 50 witnesses, the state has constructed a mosaic of a deliberate assassin who revealed his intent yet was still able to kill the heavily protected Kennedy.

Still to be told is the reason.

Associate prosecutor David N. Fitts said it was possible the people's case would be rested by Wednesday, clearing the way for the defense to begin its presentation.

The trial resumed today following a weekend recess with the expectation the defense and prosecution may clash over the admissibility of notebooks found during a search of Sirhan's home in suburban Pasadena after his arrest for the Kennedy slaying.

One of the notebooks contained the handwritten statement: "Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated before June 5, 1968." Kennedy was fatally wounded in a pantry in the Ambassador Hotel shortly after midnight last June 5.

Chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper expects to take about three weeks to present the defense case.

hospitalized since last April.

Hughes said Eisenhower was "doing fine."

Medical authorities not connected with the case described acute intestinal obstruction as "one of the most serious of all surgical conditions within the abdomen." The condition is caused by an interference with the movement of waste material through the large and small intestines.

One prominent physician told UPI that in such cases, especially with the patient's cardiac condition, the decision to operate is a "last resort."

"They surely don't want to operate," the medical specialist said. "This is the last thing they would do. He is about the poorest risk you could find. I guess surgery would be a last resort."

One medical source said the chances were good for recovery from surgery for acute intestinal obstruction if the operation was performed within 48 hours after the onset. But if the obstruction is permitted to continue, the patient usually is in serious danger.

Vandals Set Auto On Fire

There was barely a sign of hostility in the Belgian capital, despite leftist attempts to stage demonstrations.

Nixon, with a big grin waved happily to Belgian crowds and at one point pushed into a swarm of Belgian children to shake their hands and say hello.

The President paid glowing tribute to King Baudouin who was on hand too see him off. Before boarding his plane, Nixon and the monarch shook hands warmly.

Then, with his left hand raised in a gesture of farewell and thanks to his host, Nixon climbed the steps, turned and bowed once more to Baudouin.

Nixon, in the NATO speech, did not hedge about prospects for eventual Soviet-American talks. He said there will be negotiations "in due course, and with proper preparation."

The President made no mention of two crises of paramount concern to the Atlantic allies: the new dispute between the British and French governments, and the possibility of an East-West confrontation in Berlin.

Instead, with the aim of revitalizing the Atlantic alliance, he emphasized a pledge that "the United States is determined to listen with new attentiveness to its NATO partners."

To underscore this policy declaration, he said that because American-Soviet talks would directly affect the nations of Western Europe, the United States will approach Moscow "on the basis of full consultation and cooperation with our allies, because we recognize that the chances for successful negotiations depend on our unity."

He went on:

"I realize that this course has not always been followed in the past. But I pledge to you today, that in any negotiations directly affecting the interest of the NATO nations, there will be full and genuine consultation before and during those negotiations."

Summarizing the approach he wants to take in his European meetings, he said: "I have come for work, not for ceremony; to inquire, not to insist; to consult, not convince; to listen and learn, and to begin what I hope will be a continuing interchange of ideas and insights."

Mrs. Stewart said the Army engineers have not given permission yet for channel dredging, and the state Fish and Game Department is still opposed to dredging, as are conservation groups.

Barfield said the gathering was not a meeting, and explained discussion of harbor business is the only topic of conversation in Bolinas these days.

Other board members — Thomas R. Tawns, Archie A. Goldsberry and John H. Middleton — could not be reached this morning. District consultant Norman T. Gilroy said he knew nothing about the secret meeting.

Bitterman is chairman of the Bryn Mawr College psychology department and a visiting professor at the University of California at Davis.

Meeting Changed

The monthly meeting of the Marin County Republican Central Committee, scheduled tomorrow, will be held instead at 8 p.m. today in the Marin County Civic Center, reported Mrs. Elizabeth Rowen, women's vice chairman. The meeting was changed, she said, because committee members and about 100 Marin Republicans are to work all day tomorrow to turn out the party's vote in the special state senatorial election in Contra Costa County.

Reed Session

The Reed School District board will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Reed School, not Bel Aire School, as previously announced.

Six-Year Capital Plans On Agenda For Supervisors

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will tackle the six-year capital improvements program when it meets at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the Marin Civic Center.

Changes sought will include Sausalito's request that Bridgeway widening be advanced a year to 1970-71, an aviation commission request for $95,000 next year for parking, a protest by Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske against administrator's cuts in park development fund and a $300,000 request for a junior boys wing at Juvenile Hall.

In the afternoon session, the supervisors will study an agreement proposed for cleaning up the Arques Yacht Harbor and will consider abatement proceedings against the ferryboat San Rafael, moored on a county right-of-way.

An ordinance to control pier construction in Tomales Bay will be considered in the afternoon.

Fairfax Council Hopes To Solve Administration

The Fairfax City Council will try again to reorganize its administration when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Women's Club.

The council is scheduled to appoint a city treasurer and a stenographer-clerk, and will also discuss again the city administrator's position. A closed meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. to consider hiring the treasurer.

The steno-clerk would replace administrative secretary Mrs. Dell Blodgett, who resigned, and the treasurer will succeed the late Mrs. Dorothy A. McGlothlin.

The council is to consider hiring city clerk Frances Lestanguet as city administrator, a post vacant since last summer's resignation of David J. Sumbardo.

Bullets Enter Sirhan Assassination Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The bullets that killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy as he was flush from victory in the California Democratic presidential primary were introduced into evidence today at the murder trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan.

Dewayne Wolfer, a Los Angeles police ballistics expert, testified the bullets, brought to court in yellow envelopes, came from the sixth cervical vertebra of Senator Kennedy. There were also bullet fragments taken from the senator's head in surgery and during an autopsy.

Sirhan came to court today sporting a fresh haircut but wearing the same gray suit and sky blue tie that he has worn through the first six days of testimony.

Through nearly 50 witnesses, the state has constructed a mosaic of a deliberate assassin who revealed his intent yet was still able to kill the heavily protected Kennedy.

Still to be told is the reason.

Associate prosecutor David N. Fitts said it was possible the people's case would be rested by Wednesday, clearing the way for the defense to begin its presentation.

The trial resumed today following a weekend recess with the expectation the defense and prosecution may clash over the admissibility of notebooks found during a search of Sirhan's home in suburban Pasadena after his arrest for the Kennedy slaying.

One of the notebooks contained the handwritten statement: "Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated before June 5, 1968." Kennedy was fatally wounded in a pantry in the Ambassador Hotel shortly after midnight last June 5.

Chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper expects to take about three weeks to present the defense case.

hospitalized since last April.

Hughes said Eisenhower was "doing fine."

Medical authorities not connected with the case described acute intestinal obstruction as "one of the most serious of all surgical conditions within the abdomen." The condition is caused by an interference with the movement of waste material through the large and small intestines.

One prominent physician told UPI that in such cases, especially with the patient's cardiac condition, the decision to operate is a "last resort."

"They surely don't want to operate," the medical specialist said. "This is the last thing they would do. He is about the poorest risk you could find. I guess surgery would be a last resort."

One medical source said the chances were good for recovery from surgery for acute intestinal obstruction if the operation was performed within 48 hours after the onset. But if the obstruction is permitted to continue, the patient usually is in serious danger.

NIXON

velopments in divided Germany, in Vietnam and in the dissension-ridden diplomacy of Western Europe.

There was barely a sign of hostility in the Belgian capital, despite leftist attempts to stage demonstrations.

Nixon, with a big grin waved happily to Belgian crowds and at one point pushed into a swarm of Belgian children to shake their hands and say hello.

The President paid glowing tribute to King Baudouin who was on hand too see him off. Before boarding his plane, Nixon and the monarch shook hands warmly.

Then, with his left hand raised in a gesture of farewell and thanks to his host, Nixon climbed the steps, turned and bowed once more to Baudouin.

Nixon, in the NATO speech, did not hedge about prospects for eventual Soviet - American talks. He said there will be negotiations "in due course, and with proper preparation."

The President made no mention of two crises of paramount concern to the Atlantic allies: the new dispute between the British and French governments, and the possibility of an East-West confrontation in Berlin.

Instead, with the aim of revitalizing the Atlantic alliance, he emphasized a pledge that "the United States is determined to listen with new attentiveness to its NATO partners."

To underscore this policy declaration, he said that because American-Soviet talks would directly affect the nations of Western Europe, the United States will approach Moscow "on the basis of full consultation and cooperation with our allies, because we recognize that the chances for successful negotiations depend on our unity."

He went on:

"I realize that this course has not always been followed in the past. But I pledge to you today, that in any negotiations directly affecting the interest of the NATO nations, there will be full and genuine consultation before and during those negotiations."

Summarizing the approach he wants to take in his European meetings, he said: "I have come for work, not for ceremony; to inquire, not to insist; to consult, not convince; to listen and learn, and to begin what I hope will be a continuing interchange of ideas and insights."

15 Making The Run For Miller's Seat

MARTINEZ (AP) — Fifteen candidates made final appeals today in their special election scramble tomorrow for a crucial vacancy in the state Senate.

Victory for the Republicans would give the GOP a 21-19 edge in the upper house, with the votes to push through Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's legislative program and to possibly take complete control of the Senate machinery by ousting veteran President pro tem Hugh M. Burns of Fresno.

The Senate has been 20-19 Republican since the death New Year's Day of Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, left the Contra Costa County district without a Senator.

So many candidates are in the field that a runoff appears necessary next month to pick a victor.

Three people are cnsidered to be leading the pack among the Democrats. They are George Miller III of Martinez, 23, son of the late senator; Fortney H. (Pete) Stark, 37, Walnut Creek bank president, and Thomas Coll, Contra Costa County supervisor.

Elton Brombacher, a printing business owner, also claims strong support from his years of party activity in the county. Other Democrats: Billy R. Conley, petroleum operator; Stanley T. Grydyk, attorney; Caroll P. O'Brien, attorney; Milton M. Spinner, teacher; Marcelino M. Vasquez, Pittsburg city councilman; and R. William Voge.

The Peace and Freedom Party candidate is David A. Comstock, a book dealer. Victor E. Cherven, a teacher, is the American Independent Party candidate and Edward J. J. Havey, a mechanical engineer, declined to state a registration.

$400 Million Plan For Low Cost Housing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An assistant Democratic Assembly leader proposes that the state issue up to $400 million in revenue bonds to help build inexpensive housing for lower-income Californians.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, suggested the bonds be issued by a new Housing and Urban Affairs Agency, which would loan the money "at below market interest rates to people who want to buy homes in cities and rural areas.

Brown made the proposal in a television interview yesterday as the Legislature prepared to begin the eighth week of its session.

The pace of the meeting picked up, with major measures awaiting a vote on the Senate floor.

A three - month, one - cent-a gallon increase in the present seven-cent state gasoline tax to raise some $24 million to repair highway and roads damaged by recent floods.

A bill giving the state colleges $575,000 to hire faculty for 3,875 students who pushed enrollment above predicted levels. The Assembly had voted $2 million for as many as 8,525 students.

Brown, Democratic whip in the lower house, said the loan program is needed to solve the problems of big city slums.

19 Legislators Ask Missile Base Banning

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Missiles and jet planes were the targets today of fire by California legislators.

Eighteen assemblymen and senators joined Assemblyman John L. Burton in sponsoring a resolution asking the Legislature to tell Congress that California opposes the proposed antibalistic missile system.

Militar officials already are preparing sites for the network of missile batteries around the nation which would fire nuclear-armed rockets against what the Pentagon says will be a future missile threat from Communist China.

Burton noted the outcry against the system in Congress and elsewhere, and pointed out that the Los Angeles and Marin County areas are prospective sites for the missile bases.

The San Francisco Democrat said the legislature should add its voice to the "growing public concern over the continuing nuclear arms race and its drastic consequences on the quality of our lives."

Meanwhile, a fellow Democratic assemblyman from San Francisco, John Francis Froan, moved against noise caused by jet aircraft.

Foran introduced several bills, which he said stemmed from hearings of the Assembly Transportation Committee last year. "We cannot continue to pollute our air with this racket from jet aircraft. I do not subscribe to the view that it is the public's responsibility to adjust to noise because it is the 'sound of progress'," Foran declared.

His bills would allow a $1,000 fine against aircraft creating noise above levels set by the state; require state approval of any airport's request for federal funds; and require that a homeowner whose property is condemned for airport uses is paid on the industrial value of that property.

Alto Density Boost Asked Of Planners

A request by Cal-Fong Investment Co. to increase the density from 3 to 5.4 dwelling units per acre on 27.5 acres in the Alto Bowl will be heard by the Mill Valley Planing Commission at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

Also scheduled are a discussion of 701 planning study, recommendations for Arroyo Corte Madera del Presidio and Miller Avenue and a request by the Bank of America to subdivide 31.37 acres on the Highway 101 Frontage Road at Westport Avenue into four lots.

Los Angeles Area Hit By More Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Waterlogged Southern California strained under more rain today that brought flooding, earthslides and an avalanche that buried two cars without injury.

The latest storm, which began Saturday, had deposited two more inches of rain by morning for a total of almost 23 inches since mid-January.

The Weather Bureau said the rain would taper off, but showers were expected intermittently through tomorrow, with more snow above 4,000 feet.

Flooding and earthslides damaged homes and closed roads in several areas of Los Angeles and other cities.

An avalanche brought on by deep accumulations of snow along Angeles Crest Highway buried two automobiles.

Sheriff's deputies said occupants were dug out of three-foot snow without injury and they and occupants of 35 other stranded cars were rescued.

$400 Million Plan For Low Cost Housing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An assistant Democratic Assembly leader proposes that the state issue up to $400 million in revenue bonds to help build inexpensive housing for lower-income Californians.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, suggested the bonds be issued by a new Housing and Urban Affairs Agency, which would loan the money "at below market interest rates to people who want to buy homes in cities and rural areas.

Brown made the proposal in a television interview yesterday as the Legislature prepared to begin the eighth week of its session.

The pace of the meeting picked up, with major measures awaiting a vote on the Senate floor.

A three - month, one - cent-a gallon increase in the present seven-cent state gasoline tax to raise some $24 million to repair highway and roads damaged by recent floods.

A bill giving the state colleges $575,000 to hire faculty for 3.875 students who pushed enrollment above predicted levels. The Assembly had voted $2 million for as many as 8.525 students.

Brown, Democratic whip in the lower house, said the loan program is needed to solve the problems of big city slums.

19 Legislators Ask Missile Base Banning

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Missiles and jet planes were the targets today of fire by California legislators.

Eighteen assemblymen and senators joined Assemblyman John L. Burton in sponsoring a resolution asking the Legislature to tell Congress that California opposes the proposed antibalistic missile system.

Militar officials already are preparing sites for the network of missile batteries around the nation which would fire nuclear-armed rockets against what the Pentagon says will be a future missile threat from Communist China.

Burton noted the outcry against the system in Congress and elsewhere, and pointed out that the Los Angeles and Marin County areas are prospective sites for the missile bases.

The San Francisco Democrat said the legislature should add its voice to the "growing public concern over the continuing nuclear arms race and its drastic consequences on the quality of our lives."

Foran introduced several bills, which he said stemmed from hearings of the Assembly Transportation Committee last year. "We cannot continue to pollute our air with this racket from jet aircraft. I do not subscribe to the view that it is the public's responsibility to adjust to noise because it is the 'sound of progress'," Foran declared.

His bills would allow a $1,000 fine against aircraft creating noise above levels set by the state; require state approval of any airport's request for federal funds; and require that a homeowner whose property is condemned for airport uses is paid on the industrial value of that property.

Alto Density Boost Asked Of Planners

A request by Cal-Fong Investment Co. to increase the density from 3 to 5.4 dwelling units per acre on 27.5 acres in the Alto Bowl will be heard by the Mill Valley Planing Commission at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

Also scheduled are a discussion of 701 planning study, recommendations for Arroyo Corte Madera del Presidio and Miller Avenue and a request by the Bank of America to subdivide 31.37 acres on the Highway 101 Frontage Road at Westport Avenue into four lots.

Los Angeles Area Hit By More Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Waterlogged Southern California strained under more rain today that brought flooding, earthslides and an avalanche that buried two cars without injury.

The latest storm, which began Saturday, had deposited two more inches of rain by morning for a total of almost 23 inches since mid-January.

The Weather Bureau said the rain would taper off, but showers were expected intermittently through tomorrow, with more snow above 4,000 feet.

Flooding and earthslides damaged homes and closed roads in several areas of Los Angeles and other cities.

An avalanche brought on by deep accumulations of snow along Angeles Crest Highway buried two automobiles.

Sheriff's deputies said occupants were dug out of three-foot snow without injury and they and occupants of 35 other stranded cars were rescued.

President Preparing Debt Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is preparing a recommendation that would have the effect of raising the national debt limit of $17 billion to $382 billion — but the actual figure cited will be only $300 billion, congressional sources said today.

The shift in figures would be accomplished, if Congress goes along with the suggestion, by redefining the public debt to exclude government securities held by arms of the government itself. These would include the Social Security and highway trust funds and the Federal Reserve System.

Sources said the arithmetic being proposed would work out this way:

The present debt limit, the amount of borrowing the Treasury may not exceed at any one time, is $365 billion. The Treasury expects to need an additional $17 billion in borrowing authority, made up of $3 billion extra deficit from the fiscal year that ended last June 30 plus $7 billion for the present fiscal year and an equal amount for the next fiscal year.

To take care of needs through 1970, using the old definitions, therefore would require raising the debt limit to $382 billion.

However, by defining the debt subject to limit as consisting of only debt held by the public, the limit could be reduced by $82 billion, so the new limitation could be $300 billion.

Apartment Plans On Agenda For Novato Action

Use permits for apartments are the main items on the agenda of the Novato Planning Commission when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Novato community house.

James Bowler and Ralph Waltz are asking for a permit for a 96-unit apartment development on 4½ acres between Alameda Del Pardo and Highway 101 south of Ignacio Boulevard.

The commission will continue the public hearing on the master plan for 900 acres in Bahia at the end of Bugeia Lane for Union Bank of Los Angeles. It will also consider the change in zoning from multiple to single family on the lots on San Marin Drive between Novato Boulevard and Simmons Lane, and the establishment of a drive-in photo service in the Tresch Triangle west of South Novato Boulevard at Center Road.

National Output Expected To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate-House economic committee received today a forecast that national output will rise $60 billion in 1969 and, "a start will be made toward reducing the rate of inflation."

Dr. Robert M. Williams, economist at the University of California at Los Angeles and director of the UCLA Business Forecast, said business will expand more rapidly in the second half of this year than in this half.

"If this prediction is accurate, then it is important that the tax surcharge be retained through 1969," Williams testified as the committee's hearings on the state of the economy entered their second week.

If the 10 per cent surtax is permitted to expire on schedule at midyear, the UCLA economist said, production, prices and interest rates will exceed the UCLA forecast. If the surtax is retained, consumer prices are expected to increase less rapidly than in the past year and interest rates to decline slightly.

Dr. Williams concluded: "We believe that the economy in 1969 will grow at the respectable rate of 3.4 per cent in real terms and that a start will be made toward reducing the rate of inflation."

The predicted increase in total national output would be smaller than the $69 billion rise in 1968, but would carry the gross national product to a record total of $920.8 billion. The increase in the first quarter, as seen by the UCLA project, would be $9.2 billion, substantially under the recent rate. But the forecast shows a big jump in the second quarter of $14 billion and increases of $19 billion and $15 billion in the third and fourth quarters respectively.

The committee is devoting today and tomorrow to hearing testimony from college and university economists.

Cooking Oil Fire

Cooking oil which ignited caused an estimated $3,500 damage at 6:50 p.m. Friday to the kitchen of Francis Hoag, 44 Estrada Lane, the Corte Madera Fire Department reported. There was also smoke damage throughout the house, firemen said.

Homeowners Seek Road Safety Help

The Muir Woods Improvement Association has asked the county to place fluorescent buttons instead of white line road dividers on Panoramic Highway through the Muir Woods Park area, reported Elsie Heimann, treasurer.

Mrs. Heimann said when it is foggy the road becomes very dangerous because motorists can not see the lanes in the road. The association asked the improvement at Friday's meeting.

Novato May Name Park After Chief

The Novato City Council will consider naming the parkette at Highway 101 and Grant Avenue after the late Fire Chief George Cavallero at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the community house.

The Novato Federated Women's Club suggested the name for the park, which is adjacent to the fire station. Cavallero died of a heart attack Feb. 2 while enroute to a fire at the Burdell Mansion.

The council will also receive a report on accountant costs in making the annual audit, pass an ordinance amending the sign ordinance and receive applications for airport limousine service from National Executive Services Inc. and commuter bus service from the Eastshore Lines.

A Yawn Once Every 60 Seconds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 40-year-old housewife may not break Rip Van Winkle's yawning record after all.

Though Mrs. Claudia Melton began her assault on the mark last Monday at the brisk rate of three or four yawns a minute, her pace is now reduced to one yawn every 60 seconds.

Mrs. Melton's physician, Dr. Rodolpho Gardey, says the affliction is caused by a minor, but unusual thyroid condition. The doctor says she can go home from the hospital in a day or two after an estimated 10,000 yawns.

Volcanic Eruption Is Tapering Off

HILO, Hawaii (UPI)—A volcanic eruption which destroyed three miles of public highway was tapering off early today.

Scientists at the Hawaii Volcano Observatory said lava fountaining appeared to be confined to an old pit crater. At the height of the eruption, which started Saturday, bubbling lava snaked through more than four miles of uninhabited brushland.

The eruption was at Mount Kilauea on the Island of Hawaii, the southernmost and largest island in the Hawaiian chain. The volcano, one of the most active in the world, has had 13 eruptions since 1960.

Lava flows ruined three miles of the scenic and heavily-traveled chain of craters road. The road winds along the edges of nine craters over a seven-mile stretch. At one point, the road was covered with a 40-foot high cinder cone.

Shortly after the eruption began, national park service ranger Theodore Picco, 45, was trapped between two paths of lava as he drove his car on the road. He was rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter.

U.S. Gives Marin A Census Grant

The Marin County Planning Department will get a $4,700 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for preparatory work on the 1970 United States census.

Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said today he was notified by the Association of Bay Area Governments, which approves such grants.

The grant will allow the recording of census data by blocks instead of by large census tracts, Zucker said.

County planners are editing census maps of urbanized areas of the county and coding by blocks in areas which receive city mail deliveries. This will facilitiate the 1970 census in which questionnaires will be mailed to all urban households. In the past, census information was gathered in person by special enumerators.

The county expects to receive valuable benefits from this work in the form of population and housing data, said Zucker. For example, the county will be able to obtain the number of school-age children in a neighborhood, city, or school district simply by requesting the census to aggregate data on its computer by block code.

The census will take place in April of 1970. Zucker said there is speculation in Washington that the census may take place very five years thereafter.

RULES OF CHURCH

White Minister Resigns To Wed Divorced Negro

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A white Episcopal clergyman has resigned from the ministry and has married the divorced mother of nine who is a Negro.

The former minister, William Shepherd, 39, and Mrs. Dolores Jones, 40, were married in Fairhill Presbyterian Church yesterday. Church law banned them from marrying in an Episcopal church.

Under church rules, Episcopalians may be divorced only under certain circumstances and they must wait a year after the final decree before remarrying. Mrs. Shepherd's decree from her first husband on grounds of desertion was handed down Feb. 14.

Shepherd said he was obliged to leave the ministry because he was breaking cannon law.

Mrs. Shepherd worshiped at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, where Shepherd once served as vicar.

Shepherd said he discussed the situation with Bishop Robert R. DeWitt of the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania.

"I feel very close emotionally to the church," said. "I feel very close to the bishop. He and I had at least an hour together talking about this. He has to obey the canons."

Mrs. Shepherd, attending Temple University on a full scholarship, plans to teach social studies in a junior high school after receiving her degree in December.

Seven of her nine children, ranging in age from 11 to 19, attended the wedding. "The children really feel that they're getting married, too," she said.

Shepherd's best man, George Jones, is a Negro, and the matron of honor, Mrs. Catherine Hagerty, is white.

Auto Lands In Bed Of Girls

Marcella and Emily Landis, 11 and 9 years old, were fast asleep Saturday night in a bedroom of their home that sits at the end of a one-way street.

Suddenly, a stolen car being chased by police careened into the bedroom and hurtled over the girls into a wall. It bounced off, and landed with its front wheels in their bed.

Firenen jacked the car up and let the air out of the tires, and 45 minutes later freed Marcella. One of her legs was broken by a wheel.

Then they cut a hole in the wall and yanked Emily to safety from the shattered bed under the car. She was unhurt.

Marin Banks Report Embezzling

Losses believed to be in thousands of dollars have been reported by five Marin County banks in an embezzlement operation in recent months, San Rafael police reported Saturday.

The latest success, at the main Wells Fargo Bank in San Rafael, was reported yesterday by Lawrence Searight, operations officer at the bank, after checks began coming back marked "not sufficient funds," police said.

Searight told police a man who said he was Russell Leo Smiley or Smilley of 2525 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, opened a checking account Feb. 11, police reported. Police said the name may be a ficticious one.

Searight told officers the man subsequently deposited three worthless checks drawn on Southern California banks.

When the checks began coming back, officials learned the same thing had occurred at the Wells Fargo Bank in Sausalito, Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Fairfax and Corte Madera and Redwood National Bank in San Rafael. Police are seeking the amount of the losses.

The suspect is reportedly six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, with brown hair and eyes. He gave his age as 28, police reported.

Trustees Eye Tax Increase

A staff recommendation to submit a 75-cent tax rate increase to the voters for approval on June 3 will be discussed by the Mill Valley School District board at 8 p.m. today at Park School.

Supt. James A. Collins will ask that the increase be authorized for a three-year period with a maximum of 55 cents levied the first year.

In a memo to the board, Collins said the tax increase is necessary because of increases in the cost of materials and personnel, increased operational and maintenance expenses and a decrease in state support.

The district's present tax rate is $3.13, including 88 cents in override taxes.

The board will also discuss the summer school program, kindergarten admissions and the relocation of the community recreation center on district land at Project 17.

U.S. Gives Marin A Census Grant

The Marin County Planning Department will get a $4,700 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for preparatory work on the 1970 United States census.

Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said today he was notified by the Association of Bay Area Governments, which approves such grants.

The grant will allow the recording of census data by blocks instead of by large census tracts, Zucker said.

County planners are editing census maps of urbanized areas of the county and coding by blocks in areas which receive city mail deliveries. This will facilitate the 1970 census in which questionnaires will be mailed to all urban households. In the past, census information was gathered in person by special enumerators.

The county expects to receive valuable benefits from this work in the form of population and housing data, said Zucker. For example, the county will be able to obtain the number of school-age children in a neighborhood, city, or school district simply by requesting the census to aggregate data on its computer by block code.

The census will take place in April of 1970. Zucker said there is speculation in Washington that the census may take place very five years thereafter.

RULES OF CHURCH

White Minister Resigns To Wed Divorced Negro

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A white Episcopal clergyman has resigned from the ministry and has married the divorced mother of nine who is a Negro.

The former minister, William Shepherd, 39, and Mrs. Dolores Jones, 40, were married in Fairhill Presbyterian Church yesterday. Church law banned them from marrying in an Episcopal church.

Under church rules, Episcopalians may be divorced only under certain circumstances and they must wait a year after the final decree before remarrying. Mrs. Shepherd's decree from her first husband on grounds of desertion was handed down Feb. 14.

Shepherd said he was obliged to leave the ministry because he was breaking cannon law.

Mrs. Shepherd worshiped at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, where Shepherd once served as vicar.

Shepherd said he discussed the situation with Bishop Robert R. DeWitt of the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania.

"I feel very close emotionally to the church," said. "I feel very close to the bishop. He and I had at least an hour together talking about this. He has to obey the canons."

Mrs. Shepherd, attending Temple University on a full scholarship, plans to teach social studies in a junior high school after receiving her degree in December.

Seven of her nine children, ranging in age from 11 to 19, attended the wedding. "The children really feel that they're getting married, too," she said.

Shepherd's best man, George Jones, is a Negro, and the matron of honor, Mrs. Catherine Hagerty, is white.

Auto Lands In Bed Of Girls

Marcella and Emily Landis, 11 and 9 years old, were fast asleep Saturday night in a bedroom of their home that sits at the end of a one-way street.

Suddenly, a stolen car being chased by police careened into the bedroom and hurtled over the girls into a wall. It bounced off, and landed with its front wheels in their bed.

Firenen jacked the car up and let the air out of the tires, and 45 minutes later freed Marcella. One of her legs was broken by a wheel.

Then they cut a hole in the wall and yanked Emily to safety from the shattered bed under the car. She was unhurt.

Marin Banks Report Embezzling

Losses believed to be in thousands of dollars have been reported by five Marin County banks in an embezzlement operation in recent months, San Rafael police reported Saturday.

The latest success, at the main Wells Fargo Bank in San Rafael, was reported yesterday by Lawrence Searight, operations officer at the bank, after checks began coming back marked "not sufficient funds," police said.

Searight told police a man who said he was Russell Leo Smiley or Smilley of 2525 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, opened a checking account Feb. 11, police reported. Police said the name may be a ficticious one.

Searight told officers the man subsequently deposited three worthless checks drawn on Southern California banks.

When the checks began coming back, officials learned the same thing had occurred at the Wells Fargo Bank in Sausalito, Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Fairfax and Corte Madera and Redwood National Bank in San Rafael. Police are seeking the amount of the losses.

The suspect is reportedly six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, with brown hair and eyes. He gave his age as 28, police reported.

MUSIC REVIEW

Professionalism Is Keynote Of Concert

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

That a concert like last night's, which opened the new series at San Domenico School, could be performed so well by an "orchestra da camera" of 40 musicians of such disparate character was amazing.

It spoke highly of the caliber of participating San Domenico music faculty members, the outstanding music students, the professional and non-professional musicians and guest conductor Hugo Rinaldi, who had very little opportunity to rehearse. The reason was that rehearsal time is necessarily limited in concerts of this kind that are presented free through cooperation of Musicians Union Local 6, AFL-CIO.

What flaws there were, such as intonation problems of some soloists, could no doubt be attributed to insufficient preparation. On the whole, sonority in the very challenging program was impressive, such as one might expect from a larger and more experienced orchestra and it was enhanced by the excellent acoustics of Alumnae Hall.

All three works presented had unique aspects. They were Vivaldi's Concerto in C Major for Two Trumpets, featuring the teacher-pupil duo of Bert Truax and Joseph Alessi playing rarely heard Baroque D Trumpets, and the seldom performed "The Chinese Flute" by Ernst Toch, featuring soprano Marian Marsh and flutist Terry Summa as soloists and Beethoven's Triple Concerto in C Major, Opus 56, featuring three of San Domenico's quartet-in-residence: pianist Faith France, violinist Frances Shorr and cellist Jean Mitchell.

The last was the major work of the evening. Though there were some flaws, hearing it was a thrilling, for it requires three virtuoso performers and it is the only important concerto for this combination of soloists. Rapport in expression and timing of dialogue among the three was exceptionally fine.

Colorful orchestration in "The Chinese Flute" that included the tambourine, celeste and tymapani combined with the unusual modes and harmonies for strings and woodwinds was enormously successful in conjuring exotic Oriental scenes.

Because of its purity, clarity, suppleness and just right amount of vibrato for richness Miss Marsh's voice was ideally suited to the three vocal sections sung in English. The flute, which has an affinity for Oriental mood, was beautifully handled by Summa, with assistance from the other woodwinds.

Expert technique with few imperfections was shown by Truax and Alessi on the baroque D trumpets in the very floird Vivaldi concerto. These replicas of instruments of Vivaldi's time, when different trumpets were needed to play in different keys, had a very high, bright sound that was rather shrill at times.

ART REVIEW

Subdued Approach To Social Comment

By LAURA DEVENDORF

As "social statements," the visual comments made by four artists this month at Gallery III, 69 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera — are unusually subdued and quiet. Each has something to say but it often takes some inside knowledge to decipher it.

Of the four, Dennis Beall's prints are the most incisive. His badges, often housed in circles, a Norman cross or other shapes that are emblematic in the usual sense, deal significantly with parts of the human form.

A large eye centers a gray striped oval whose shifting dark-light pattern outlines a profile. And more specifically, there is Beall's "Venus Emblem." Centered within its aggressive red and black crestlike design is a tiny blue circle holding a delicately drawn nude.

Fred Berensmeier's icons share Beall's uncluttered treatment of form in space, but his statement rests more in the found materials he uses on his printing plates, such as beer cans and battered toys and their relationship to the prints' overall themes. These collographs are often intriguing and beautiful — which can't be said of his serigraphs.

In total contrast are Marva Cremer's deceptive renderings of children at play. They are so letter perfect that at first you miss the bizarre disorganization of nature and ideas that each one contains. In "Try Again," laughing children swing from ropes and branches over a chasm, unconcerned about one of their companions who is falling into it. And other like mixtures of Miss Cremer's gentle technique and grim outlook give her work a strange, unsettling aftertaste.

In a way, Margo Humphrey's splashy images have the same effect. In two works, recognizable things emerge from indefinite puddles of color in such a way that the lingering effect is one of positive social statement. Her more realistic jungle settings are decorative but lack the same substance.

For show emphasizing social statement, there are many artists who would provide a more substantive and provocative exhibit. However, these four do have something to say, even if you have to reach to find it.

Employees Ask County Pay Increase

The Marin County Employees Association, which presented fringe benefit demands last month, has followed up with a proposal for a minimum 10 per cent increase in salaries after July 1.

The association also asked for another 2.5 per cent raise on Jan. 1, 1970, and longevity pay.

Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the association, presented the wage proposal to County Administrator Alan Bruce. Prevo said the association had a paid membership of 645 and speaks for about 900 of the county's 1,200 employees.

Under the longevity pay proposal, a worker who is at the top of his salary range for 10 years would get a raise of 2.5 per cent. Longevity increments of 2.5 per cent would be granted at the end of each five-year period thereafter.

The association's wage demands are not so far reaching as those presented by the Social Workers Union Local 535, AFL-CIO, which proposed pay increases of 10 to 15 per cent, plus a 35-hour work week for its 170 members.

County Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott said Friday he had not yet computed the financial impact the employees association wage demands would have on the county budget.

Benefits and salary raises previously requested by the various bargaining units would add $2.5 million to the county budget, County auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell estimated.

Marinite Is Booked For Grand Theft

A 24-year-old Tiburon Peninsula resident was arrested Friday evening by four sheriff's officers with a warrant charging him with 16 counts of grand theft in Los Angeles County.

Officers had information that Hansen was armed and dangerous, but he was arrested without resistance, Battaglia said.

Inspectors Bowen Bridges, Marco Melovich and Harold Sleezer and Battaglia were on vigil at the apartment area when Hansen arrived as a passenger in an acquaintance's car, Battaglia said.

Hansen was taken to Marin County Jail where he was held under $31,250 bail.

Details of the theft charges were not available.

MUSIC REVIEW

Professionalism Is Keynote Of Concert

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

That a concert like last night's, which opened the new series at San Domenico School, could be performed so well by an "orchestra da camera" of 40 musicians of such disparate character was amazing.

It spoke highly of the caliber of participating San Domenico music faculty members, the outstanding music students, the professional and non-professional musicians and guest conductor Hugo Rinaldi, who had very little opportunity to rehearse. The reason was that rehearsal time is necessarily limited in concerts of this kind that are presented free through cooperation of Musicians Union Local 6, AFL-CIO.

What flaws there were, such as intonation problems of some soloists, could no doubt be attributed to insufficient preparation. On the whole, sonority in the very challenging program was impressive, such as one might expect from a larger and more experienced orchestra and it was enhanced by the excellent acoustics of Alumnae Hall.

All three works presented had unique aspects. They were Vivaldi's Concerto in C Major for Two Trumpets, featuring the teacher-pupil duo of Bert Truax and Joseph Alessi playing rarely heard Baroque D Trumpets, and the seldom performed "The Chinese Flute" by Ernst Toch, featuring soprano Marian Marsh and flutist Terry Summa as soloists and Beethoven's Triple Concerto in C Major, Opus 56, featuring three of San Domenico's quartet-in-residence: pianist Faith France, violinist Frances Shorr and cellist Jean Mitchell.

The last was the major work of the evening. Though there were some flaws, hearing it was a thrilling, for it requires three virtuoso performers and it is the only important concerto for this combination of soloists. Rapport in expression and timing of dialogue among the three was exceptionally fine.

Colorful orchestration in "The Chinese Flute" that included the tambourine, celeste and tymapani combined with the unusual modes and harmonies for strings and woodwinds was enormously successful in conjuring exotic Oriental scenes.

Because of its purity, clarity, suppleness and just right amount of vibrato for richness Miss Marsh's voice was ideally suited to the three vocal sections sung in English. The flute, which has an affinity for Oriental mood, was beautifully handled by Summa, with assistance from the other woodwinds.

Expert technique with few imperfections was shown by Truax and Alessi on the baroque D trumpets in the very floird Vivaldi concerto. These replicas of instruments of Vivaldi's time, when different trumpets were needed to play in different keys, had a very high, bright sound that was rather shrill at times.

Subdued Approach To Social Comment

By LAURA DEVENDORF

As "social statements," the visual comments made by four artists this month at Gallery III, 69 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera — are unusually subdued and quiet. Each has something to say but it often takes some inside knowledge to decipher it.

Of the four, Dennis Beall's prints are the most incisive. His badges, often housed in circles, a Norman cross or other shapes that are emblematic in the usual sense, deal significantly with parts of the human form.

Marinite Is Booked For Grand Theft

A 24-year-old Tiburon Peninsula resident was arrested Friday evening by four sheriff's officers with a warrant charging him with 16 counts of grand theft in Los Angeles County.

Officers had information that Hansen was armed and dangerous, but he was arrested without resistance, Battaglia said.

Inspectors Bowen Bridges, Marco Melovich and Harold Sleezer and Battaglia were on vigil at the apartment area when Hansen arrived as a passenger in an acquaintance's car, Battaglia said.

Hansen was taken to Marin County Jail where he was held under $31.250 bail.

Israeli Warplanes Strike Across Border Into Syria

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli warplanes struck in force across the Syrian cease-fire line today for the first time since the 1967 war, bombed two Arab Guerrilla bases and engaged in dogfights with Syrain MIGs near Damascus.

Israel claimed its planes returned unharmed after shooting down one Syrian MIG17. Damascus radio said three Israeli jets and two Syrain fighters were shot down. Israel did not announce how many Israeli planes made the raid, but a spokesman said the Syrains sent up about 10 or 12 MIG17s and MIG21s. This announcement and broadcasts from Damascus indicated it may have been the biggest Arab-Israeli air clash since the 1967 war.

The cease-fire line between Israel and Syria had been relatively quiet since the June 1967 war, but the Israeli army said the raid was in retaliation for a sharp increase in guerrilla attacks along the border since Jan. 20, including the machine gunning of a civilian bus yesterday.

The army said two soldiers were killed and three were wounded in 12 incidents of mining and shooting in the occupied Golan Heights, which Israel captured from Syria in the six-day war.

A spokesman said the Israeli planes bombed two locations—Maisalun, on the main Beirut-Damascus highlay 10 miles west of the Syrian capital, and El Hamme, on the Sprian border.

Trio Arrested On Airliner In Cuba Incident

CHICAGO (UPI)—Three of four men taken off an airliner at O'Hare International Airport after one of them mentioned taking the plane to Cuba and a gun was found on another were being held today.

Federal charges were filed against the three, William H. Getz, 19, San Francisco, Raymond Hewitt, 27, Los Angeles, and Dexter Woods, 21, San Francisco. The men denied they planned to hijack the United Air Lines Boeing 727 jet, which was preparing to leave for San Francisco early Sunday.

Getz, who is white and was carrying the gun, told police he was an art salesman. Woods and Hewitt are Black Panthers who denied knowing Getz, police said. Getz denied knowing the Panthers, they said.

Authorities said the three men were sitting at the rear of the plane—which carried 34 passengers and a crew of seven—when Marine Lance Cpl. William Swearingen, 22, Elkhart, Ind., told stewardess Patricia Whitcher, 22, San Francisco, that he saw Getz holding a gun.

Another stewardess, Susan Rittger, 21, San Francisco, reported that Hewitt told her, "If we have enough fuel to get to San Francisco, we must have enough to get to Cuba."

Police were called. As officers started along the aisle toward them, Getz rose and reached for his pistol, police said. Chicago patrolman Ronald Poedtke charged Getz and knocked him to the floor, and the gun fell into the aisle.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Best Time To Nail Frisky Foe Is On Low Doubtful Bidding

Your biggest profits at rubber bridge come from doubling an opponent when he steps out of line, and the best time to nail a frisky opponent is when he makes a doubtful bid at a low level. Keep your eyes open for an opponent's overcall after your partner has opened the bidding since that is the time an opponent is most likely to be venturing into unknown territory.

SAFE DOUBLE

It is safe to double a contract of two diamonds (or any lower bid) without a sure trump trick provided that you have four trumps of some reasonable value, as in today's hand. The less you have in the trump suit the more you need outside. If this type of double backfires, declarer will not score a game but will usually gain only about 100 points. If the double works, you will gain several hundred.

In today's hand, South's overcall was fairly normal, but he paid a heavy price for it. East won the first trick with the jack of spades and returned the seven of clubs up to dummy's weakness. South put up the jack, losing to West's queen of clubs.

PEEL SOUTH DOWN

West led his other spade to the king, and East returned the ten of clubs, giving West two more club tricks. West switched to the king of hearts, getting an enthusiastic signal when East followed with the jack of hearts. West continued with the queen of hearts and then with a low heart to the ace.

By this time South had been peeled down to his five trumps, but more was to come.

When East led a spade South's trumps were in the middle. South ruffed low, and West overruffed with the eight.

LAST HEART

West next led his last heart, and East shrewdly ruffed with the jack of trumps. South had to overruff with the queen, and West got a second trump trick with the ten. The defenders held South to his three top trumps, scoring 900 points for the five-trick penalty. This was about twice the value of the game which they might not have bid and might not have made.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

It is safe to open a hand which provides only a doubtful overcall. Even if the cards are badly placed the opponents will have very difficult time doubling you for penalties and making the double stick.

LAST HEART

West next led his last heart, and East shrewdly ruffed with the jack of trumps. South had to overruff with the queen, and West got a second trump trick with the ten. The defenders held South to his three top trumps, scoring 900 points for the five-trick penalty. This was about twice the value of the game which they might not have bid and might not have made.

California Gets Hearing In Prisoners Law Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today granted California a hearing in a dispute with 89 inmates of San Quentin prison over their access to law books and court opinions.

The issue is whether a three-judge federal court should be convened in San Francisco to hear this question. The Supreme Court will schedule arguments later this term and decide the matter by written opinion.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Aug. 16, 1968, said "a substantial question of constitutional law" was involved and a three-judge panel was required to resolve it.

The inmates sought an order barring enforcement of rules adopted in 1966 by the State Director of Corrections.

The director ruled that only 11 basic law book titles would be available in prison libraries, thus cutting down the small law libraries of San Quentin and Folsom prisons. The order came as a result of what state officials believed to be overproduction of writs in prison.

James W. L. Park, assistant warden of San Quentin Prison, today said he presumed that the 11 basic titles, dealing mainly with the state law, had been put into the other prisons but not into the state's 34 forestry camps. He said that law libraries at San Quentin and Folsom had not been reduced pending court decisions.

The state about a year ago also ruled that prisoners may purchase their own law books, Park said. Previously no prisoner was allowed to own law books.

The rule that prisoners may not aid one another in preparing writs still is in force, Park said. "It would be practicing law without a license and our position is that it leads to pressure and intimidation when a prisoner hires another one to prepare a writ and then can't pay."

The approximately 3,800 inmates of San Quentin turn out about 4,000 writs a year, Park said.

Foul Skies Cancel Air Hunt For Plane

Snow, rain and wind caused suspension today of all aerial searching from Hamilton Air Force Base, for the DC3 "gamblers" airliner missing since last Tuesday near Hawthorne, Nev., with 35 persons aboard.

However, a limited amount of ground searching was carried out by men in four-wheel drive vehicles and skis and snowshoes.

Pathologist Defends JFK Shots Report

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An Army pathologist testified at Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial today that President John F. Kennedy was hit by just two bullets —both definitely fired from behind him.

"That is my honest professional opinion," said Col. Pierre A. Finck, when asked if anyone in government had tried to influence his findings.

Finck, who took part in the Kennedy autopsy, was summoned by defense lawyer F. Irvin Dymond in a move to oppose the state's claim that Shaw and other conspirators set up a crossfire ambush for the President.

NO EVIDENCE

"Did you find any evidence that President Kennedy was hit by more than one shot in the head?" asked Dymond.

"No," said Finck, a lean, bespectabled physician who testified in accented formal English, frequently spelling words which he felt were not clear. Finck, a graduate of the University of Geneva in Switzerland, imigrated to the United States and was drafted into the Medical Corps in 1955.

He stepped down from the witness stand several times to stand in front of the jury and explain sketches of the President's wounds.

THE STATE'S CASE

In the state's case, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said photographs and witnesses back his contention that the President was also hit by a bullet fired from in front of him.

The major prosecution exhibit on that point was the home movie film of the assassination made by Abraham Zapruder, a Dallas dress manufacturer. It showed the President jerk backwards after the bullet threw a spray of blood and tissue from his head.

"The great value of the Zapruder film," said Col. Finck, "was that it established the position of the President and also the sequence of the shots. At the time of the autopsy, we could not determine the sequence of shots but this was established by the Zapruder film."

SIXTH WEEK

The Criminal District Court trial is in its sixth week.

Shaw, 55, a retired New Orleans businessman, was charged with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to murder Kennedy, shot in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Finck, the seventh defense witness, was one of the three-man military medical team which performed the autopsy shortly after the body was flown back to Washington.

The medical findings, detailed in the Warren Commission report, concluded that Kennedy was killed by two high velocity bullets "fired from a point behind and somewhat above" him. The commission said Oswald was the lone sniper and that it found no credible evidence of conspiracy.

Court Rules Teen Has Right Of Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to consider giving juveniles accused of delinquency the right to be tried by a jury.

The right was asserted by Clarence J. DeBacker, a Nebraska youth committed to the boys training school at Kearney last March for possession of a forged check.

A court decision in May 1967 revolutionized juvenile proceedings throughout the country by giving youths accused of crime many of the procedural guarantees accorded adults under the U.S. Constitution.

Now, in hearing DeBacker's appeal next term, the court will decide if the right to a jury trial is also guaranteed to juveniles.

MERGER STUDY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to examine the proposed merger of the Northern Lines which would span the west with the longest rail system in the nation.

In a brief order without opinion, the court granted the Justice Department's request for a review of the merger and will schedule arguments sometime next fall or winter. The merger was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and upheld unanimously by a three-judge special court Nov. 20, 1968.

The proposed consolidation would merger the Great Northern Railway Co.; Northern Pacific Railway Co.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway Com; and the Pacific Coast Railroad Co.

It would create a 26,500-mile long system running from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Great Lakes to the Pacific. The merged company, as one of the largest private railroads in the world, would have total assets of $2.8 billion.

TO HEAR CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nebraska woman challenging the right of officials to order her sterilized was granted a hearing today by the Supreme Court.

The case, of Gloria Cavitt, 37, of Grand Island, could have rules governing the handling of far-reaching implications for mental deficiency by the states.

At the moment six states—California, Indiana, Maine, Nebraska, North Carolina and Wisconsin—authorize the forced sterilization of mentally deficient women without a showing that their offspring would inherit the illness.

PROTEST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court insured today the right of school children to hold protest demonstrations, but emphasized officials may impose restraints if there are intrusions upon the work of the school or the rights of other students.

"It can hardly be argued that either students or teachers shed their constitutional right to freedom of speech or expression at the schoolhouse gate," said Justice Abe Fortas for the court.

The ruling directly upheld the right of three Des Moines, Iowa, teen-agers to wear black armbands to school in December 1965 to publicize their objections to the Vietnam war and their support for a holiday season truce.

LEGAL ADVISE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jailhouse lawyers won in the Supreme Court today the right to dispense free legal advice to their fellow inmates.

A 7-2 decision said Tennessee state prison officials had no right to keep William Joe Johnson, an advice-giving convict, from helping illiterate or poorly educated prisoners who could benefit from his aid in preparing appeals.

The court majority, through Justice Abe Fortas, conceded that prison "writers" like Johnson are sometimes a menace to prison discipline and that the petitions they prepare are often so unskillful as to be a burden on the courts which receive them.

Paramount, however, the ruling found, was the right of poor and unschooled convicts to have access to all legal facilities as they fight for their freedom.

TEST CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights lawyers won Supreme Court agreement today to look into the garnishment of workers' salaries by finance companies.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund lawyers picked Wisconsin's garnishment law for their test case. The court will hold a hearing in the new term that begins in October.

In 17 states wages can be garnisheed by a creditor without a hearing or a demonstration of special circumstances.

The case at hand involves Mrs. Christine Sniadach, 25, of Milwaukee and the Family Finance Corp. of Bay View. The company claimed she owed $420 and began an action in state courts in 1966.

STAMP ISSUE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today declined to involve itself in a California lawsuit where the government made a federal case out of a dispute over three cents.

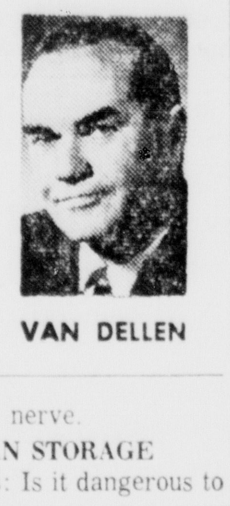
The brief order left standing a lower court decision against a Marysville man who claimed the post office took his money for special delivery services it neglected to give.

R. Leon Hughes, a highway engineer, initiated the suit against Marysville Postmaster J. Herman Gengler in 1966 when an urgent special delivery letter addressed to Hughes' post office box was held several days by postal authorities.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Ailing Physician, Infant Son Need Surgery At Same Time



VAN DELLEN

A physician developed severe abdominal pain along with all the signs of peritonitis. Since his left side was involved, he suspected diverticulitis — with inflammation and rupture of a tiny pocket in the large intestine.

He was about to leave for the hospital when his 3-month-old son began to vomit. On examination, the infant was found to have a hard mass in the abdomen. Following an enema, the tot passed a bloody stool.

THE SICK MEDICO suspected a condition which one part of the intestine telescopes into the other (intussusception). One coil of the intestine behaves as though it was trying to move faster than the adjacent segment. And in so doing, invaginates or slips into the next part.

On the father's insistence, the baby was operated on first.

An intussusception was found and the segments were pulled apart to relieve the obstruction. A ruptures gangrenous pocket (diverticulum) was found in the father.

THE BOY MADE an uneventful recovery but the father developed complications that delayed his recovery for a few weeks.

The cause of intussusception is not known. In some instances, there is a polyp or nodule on the inside of the bowel. The intestine treats this as a piece of food and works so hard to push it ahead, that it telescopes itself into the next segment.

The sheathing or receiving loop pinches off the circulation and the parts begin to swell. This can be felt through the thin abdominal wall of a baby.

INTUSSUSCEPTION IS suspected whenever a healthy tyke suddenly develops abdominal colic and vomits. These symptoms may persist until the baby is prostrated. One normal stool is passed but after that there is only blood. The defect is easily detected via X-rays. The outcome is good, provided the disorder is corrected within 24 hours.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SLIPPING A DISK

D. D. writes: So many people seem to have a slipped disk. What causes this condition?

REPLY

This disk is the cushioning material between the vertebrae. It is held in place by fibrous bands of tissue. Deterioration of this protective capsule occurs with age or injury, and severe strain causes the disk to bulge or protrude from between the vertebrae. Symptoms stem from pressure of the displaced part against the spinal cord or root of the sciatic nerve.

TIN CAN STORAGE

B. J. writes: Is it dangerous to eat foods that have been left in a refrigerator in open tin cans?

REPLY

No, because modern tin cans are lined with noncorrosive and nonabsorbable materials. Years ago, some lead was used in the manufacture of these containers. However, from an esthetic point of view, the new plastic units are better for storage purposes.

CAUSE OF BURSITIS

T. C. B. writes: Is bursitis the result of an infection?

REPLY

The condition usually stems from wear and tear. Infection is a minor cause. When an epidemic of bursitis occurs, I am of the opinion that the origin is of a viral nature.

Today's Health Hint — Proper brushing keeps the gums healthy.

California Gets Hearing In Prisoners Law Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today granted California a hearing in a dispute with 89 inmates of San Quentin prison over their access to law books and court opinions.

The issue is whether a three-judge federal court should be convened in San Francisco to hear this question. The Supreme Court will schedule arguments later this term and decide the matter by written opinion.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Aug. 16, 1968, said "a substantial question of constitutional law" was involved and a three-judge panel was required to resolve it.

The inmates sought an order barring enforcement of rules adopted in 1966 by the State Director of Corrections.

The director ruled that only 11 basic law book titles would be available in prison libraries, thus cutting down the small law libraries of San Quentin and Folsom prisons. The order came as a result of what state officials believed to be overproduction of writs in prison.

James W. L. Park, assistant warden of San Quentin Prison, today said he presumed that the 11 basic titles, dealing mainly with the state law, had been put into the other prisons but not into the state's 34 forestry camps. He said that law libraries at San Quentin and Folsom had not been reduced pending court decisions.

The state about a year ago also ruled that prisoners may purchase their own law books, Park said. Previously no prisoner was allowed to own law books.

The rule that prisoners may not aid one another in preparing writs still is in force, Park said. "It would be practicing law without a license and our position is that it leads to pressure and intimidation when a prisoner hires another one to prepare a writ and then can't pay."

The approximately 3,800 inmates of San Quentin turn out about 4,000 writs a year, Park said.

Snow, rain and wind caused suspension today of all aerial searching from Hamilton Air Force Base, for the DC3 "gamblers" airliner missing since last Tuesday near Hawthorne, Nev., with 35 persons aboard.

However, a limited amount of ground searching was carried out by men in four-wheel drive vehicles and skis and snowshoes.

Pathologist Defends JFK Shots Report

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An Army pathologist testified at Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial today that President John F. Kennedy was hit by just two bullets —both definitely fired from behind him.

"That is my honest professional opinion," said Col. Pierre A. Finck, when asked if anyone in government had tried to influence his findings.

Finck, who took part in the Kennedy autopsy, was summoned by defense lawyer F. Irvin Dymond in a move to oppose the state's claim that Shaw and other conspirators set up a crossfire ambush for the President.

NO EVIDENCE

"Did you find any evidence that President Kennedy was hit by more than one shot in the head?" asked Dymond.

"No," said Finck, a lean, bespectabled physician who testified in accented formal English, frequently spelling words which he felt were not clear. Finck, a graduate of the University of Geneva in Switzerland, imigrated to the United States and was drafted into the Medical Corps in 1955.

He stepped down from the witness stand several times to stand in front of the jury and explain sketches of the President's wounds.

THE STATE'S CASE

In the state's case, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said photographs and witnesses back his contention that the President was also hit by a bullet fired from in front of him.

The major prosecution exhibit on that point was the home movie film of the assassination made by Abraham Zapruder, a Dallas dress manufacturer. It showed the President jerk backwards after the bullet threw a spray of blood and tissue from his head.

"The great value of the Zapruder film," said Col. Finck, "was that it established the position of the President and also the sequence of the shots. At the time of the autopsy, we could not determine the sequence of shots but this was established by the Zapruder film."

SIXTH WEEK

The Criminal District Court trial is in its sixth week.

Shaw, 55, a retired New Orleans businessman, was charged with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to murder Kennedy, shot in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Finck, the seventh defense witness, was one of the three-man military medical team which performed the autopsy shortly after the body was flown back to Washington.

The medical findings, detailed in the Warren Commission report, concluded that Kennedy was killed by two high velocity bullets "fired from a point behind and somewhat above" him. The commission said Oswald was the lone sniper and that it found no credible evidence of conspiracy.

Court Rules Teen Has Right Of Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to consider giving juveniles accused of delinquency the right to be tried by a jury.

The right was asserted by Clarence J. DeBacker, a Nebraska youth committed to the boys training school at Kearney last March for possession of a forged check.

A court decision in May 1967 revolutionized juvenile proceedings throughout the country by giving youths accused of crime many of the procedural guarantees accorded adults under the U.S. Constitution.

Now, in hearing DeBacker's appeal next term, the court will decide if the right to a jury trial is also guaranteed to juveniles.

MERGER STUDY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to examine the proposed merger of the Northern Lines which would span the west with the longest rail system in the nation.

In a brief order without opinion, the court granted the Justice Department's request for a review of the merger and will schedule arguments sometime next fall or winter. The merger was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and upheld unanimously by a three-judge special court Nov. 20, 1968.

The proposed consolidation would merger the Great Northern Railway Co.; Northern Pacific Railway Co.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway Com; and the Pacific Coast Railroad Co.

It would create a 26,500-mile long system running from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Great Lakes to the Pacific. The merged company, as one of the largest private railroads in the world, would have total assets of $2.8 billion.

TO HEAR CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nebraska woman challenging the right of officials to order her sterilized was granted a hearing today by the Supreme Court.

The case, of Gloria Cavitt, 37, of Grand Island, could have rules governing the handling of far-reaching implications for mental deficiency by the states.

At the moment six states—California, Indiana, Maine, Nebraska, North Carolina and Wisconsin—authorize the forced sterilization of mentally deficient women without a showing that their offspring would inherit the illness.

PROTEST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court insured today the right of school children to hold protest demonstrations, but emphasized officials may impose restraints if there are intrusions upon the work of the school or the rights of other students.

"It can hardly be argued that either students or teachers shed their constitutional right to freedom of speech or expression at the schoolhouse gate," said Justice Abe Fortas for the court.

The ruling directly upheld the right of three Des Moines, Iowa, teen-agers to wear black armbands to school in December 1965 to publicize their objections to the Vietnam war and their support for a holiday season truce.

LEGAL ADVISE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jailhouse lawyers won in the Supreme Court today the right to dispense free legal advice to their fellow inmates.

A 7-2 decision said Tennessee state prison officials had no right to keep William Joe Johnson, an advice-giving convict, from helping illiterate or poorly educated prisoners who could benefit from his aid in preparing appeals.

The court majority, through Justice Abe Fortas, conceded that prison "writers" like Johnson are sometimes a menace to prison discipline and that the petitions they prepare are often so unskillful as to be a burden on the courts which receive them.

Paramount, however, the ruling found, was the right of poor and unschooled convicts to have access to all legal facilities as they fight for their freedom.

TEST CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights lawyers won Supreme Court agreement today to look into the garnishment of workers' salaries by finance companies.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund lawyers picked Wisconsin's garnishment law for their test case. The court will hold a hearing in the new term that begins in October.

In 17 states wages can be garnisheed by a creditor without a hearing or a demonstration of special circumstances.

The case at hand involves Mrs. Christine Sniadach, 25, of Milwaukee and the Family Finance Corp. of Bay View. The company claimed she owed $420 and began an action in state courts in 1966.

STAMP ISSUE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today declined to involve itself in a California lawsuit where the government made a federal case out of a dispute over three cents.

The brief order left standing a lower court decision against a Marysville man who claimed the post office took his money for special delivery services it neglected to give.

R. Leon Hughes, a highway engineer, initiated the suit against Marysville Postmaster J. Herman Gengler in 1966 when an urgent special delivery letter addressed to Hughes' post office box was held several days by postal authorities.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Ailing Physician, Infant Son Need Surgery At Same Time

VAN DELLEN

A physician developed severe abdominal pain along with all the signs of peritonitis. Since his left side was involved, he suspected diverticulitis — with inflammation and rupture of a tiny pocket in the large intestine.

He was about to leave for the hospital when his 3-month-old son began to vomit. On examination, the infant was found to have a hard mass in the abdomen. Following an enema, the tot passed a bloody stool.

THE SICK MEDICO suspected a condition which one part of the intestine telescopes into the other (intussusception). One coil of the intestine behaves as though it was trying to move faster than the adjacent segment. And in so doing, invaginates or slips into the next part.

On the father's insistence, the baby was operated on first.

An intussusception was found and the segments were pulled apart to relieve the obstruction. A ruptures gangrenous pocket (diverticulum) was found in the father.

THE BOY MADE an uneventful recovery but the father developed complications that delayed his recovery for a few weeks.

The cause of intussusception is not known. In some instances, there is a polyp or nodule on the inside of the bowel. The intestine treats this as a piece of food and works so hard to push it ahead, that it telescopes itself into the next segment.

The sheathing or receiving loop pinches off the circulation and the parts begin to swell. This can be felt through the thin abdominal wall of a baby.

INTUSSUSCEPTION IS suspected whenever a healthy tyke suddenly develops abdominal colic and vomits. These symptoms may persist until the baby is prostrated. One normal stool is passed but after that there is only blood. The defect is easily detected via X-rays. The outcome is good, provided the disorder is corrected within 24 hours.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SLIPPING A DISK

D. D. writes: So many people seem to have a slipped disk. What causes this condition?

REPLY

This disk is the cushioning material between the vertebrae. It is held in place by fibrous bands of tissue. Deterioration of this protective capsule occurs with age or injury, and severe strain causes the disk to bulge or protrude from between the vertebrae. Symptoms stem from pressure of the displaced part against the spinal cord or root of the sciatic nerve.

TIN CAN STORAGE

B. J. writes: Is it dangerous to eat foods that have been left in a refrigerator in open tin cans?

REPLY

No, because modern tin cans are lined with noncorrosive and nonabsorbable materials. Years ago, some lead was used in the manufacture of these containers. However, from an esthetic point of view, the new plastic units are better for storage purposes.

CAUSE OF BURSITIS

T. C. B. writes: Is bursitis the result of an infection?

REPLY

The condition usually stems from wear and tear. Infection is a minor cause. When an epidemic of bursitis occurs, I am of the opinion that the origin is of a viral nature.

Californian Heads New Third Party

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The chairman of a new third party made up of a loose confederation of groups which backed George Wallace for president in November says "we have accomplished our goals . . . we are on the way to saving America."

William K. Shearer, advertising executive of San Diego and Los Angeles, made the statement yesterday following a total of 25 hours of meetings over the weekend.

Shearer pronounced the gathering of delegates from 26 states an absolute success compared with a rival effort held at Dallas early this month. He claimed that the Texas parley ended without forming a permanent structure to prepare for the 1972 election.

The common thread among the delegates here was the support last year of the former Alabama governor, who headed a third party presidential ticket. Wallace did not give his blessing to the weekend meetings nor has he indicated his plans.

The new party did approve resolutions calling for abolition of the federal income tax and U.S. withdrawal from NATO.

Shearer was elected permanent chairman; the Rev. everly McDowell of Richond. Va., vice chairman; Mrs. Virginia Crawford of Dearborn, Mich., women's vice chairman; Mrs. Edna Russo of Seattle, secretary, and Dr. Francis X. Sommer of Barbourville, Ky., treasurer.

The formal name of the new party is "The National Committee of Autonomous State Parties known as the American Independent Party, the American Party, the Independent Party, the Conservative Party, the Constitution party, the Courage party and such other political parties as desire to affiliate with this national committee."

Drug And Alcohol Session Scheduled

The Community Planning Group for Alcohol-Drug Addiction problems will meet at 1:15 p.m. Friday at the Coral Room in Marin General Hospital.

The group, an unoficial voluntary organization formed last year, is concerned about drug and alcohol problems in Marin County.

HEADS POLICE — Maj. Donald H. Tidwell, former executive officer of the Bay Area's Armed Forces police, has been named chief of the security police at Hamilton Air Force Base, replacing Maj. William H. Powell, reassigned to Southeast Asia. Major Tidwell with his wife, Dorothy and three children live at 341 Westover Circle on the base.

Any $7,000 car looks good in a glittering showroom. The Mercedes-Benz 280S shines in a tight spot on the highway.

Look underneath, and you'll begin to see why.

Of all cars in the "luxury class" field, the Mercedes-Benz 280S is rated the safest, most roadworthy. Read why.

The Mercedes-Benz 280S does not have pin striping, a wall-to-wall grille, or a hood two feet longer than anything it pretends to enclose.

But its classic lines, free of faddish touches, will grace any driveway—and will still be pleasing long after newer styling furbelows have rendered this year's crop of "dreamboats" obsolete.

The real beauty of the 280S, though, lies not so much in how the car looks, as in what it does.

Endowed by Mercedes-Benz engineers with sophisticated, ultra-performance features that simply do not exist on domestic sedans in the so-called "fine car" field, the 280S steers, maneuvers and stops as if your life depended on it.

This is one reason why Car and Driver magazine, with a world of cars to choose from, concludes that the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

Racing car suspension

For a clue to the almost uncanny handling and evasive ability of the 280S, scrunch down and look beneath the rear bumper—at the axle. It's not the rigid "beam" axle of most domestic cars. It is articulated.

This Mercedes-Benz low-pivot swing axle permits each rear wheel to move up and down independently of the other, just as the front wheels do. The result is leech-like roadability.

If you know what you're looking for, you can also spot heavy-duty thrust arms, individual coil springs and shocks, and a horizontal hydro-pneumatic load-leveling device.

All in all, suspension ideas more common on 180-mph Grand Prix racing cars than 5-passenger sedans.

Engineering extravagance?

A passenger car doesn't need a suspension fit for a racer, argue some critics. True, reply Mercedes-Benz engineers. For everyday city driving, this is sheer engineering extravagance.

But some day you might have to get off the pavement, onto a stretch of potholed back road. You might have to enter a sharp curve or a turn-off faster than you intended. You might have to jockey out of a tight spot while cruising at 65 mph on a busy highway.

And, suddenly, you realize that this engineering extravagance is no extravagance at all.

Sharp reflexes

Occasionally, it is also necessary for a 3,400-pound automobile hurtling along at high speed to stop abruptly.

Once more, Mercedes-Benz engineers draw on their experience with World Champion racing machinery. They employ the more expensive, but clearly superior, type of brakes used almost universally on today's professional racing circuits.

Disc brakes.

The engineers don't stint, either—by putting disc brakes only at the front wheels, and settling for conventional drum brakes on the rear. They insist on attaching a massive disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Someday, doubtless, 4-wheel disc brakes will be offered on a domestic "luxury" car.

Accurate steering is vital for maximum control, too. In an emergency, you don't have time for a sweeping twirl of the wheel.

The ingenious Mercedes-Benz recirculating-ball-type steering system of the 280S eliminates sloppy play in the wheel—and blesses you with the "feel" of the road. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Taut, sensitive steering is retained even with Mercedes-Benz power steering—characterized by Car and Driver as "unquestionably the most precise unit of its kind ever developed."

If trouble comes

The responsiveness which makes the 280S such a joy to drive is its best defense against blundering motorists. However, if the worst happens, the car is designed to shield you. Naturally, it meets all the U.S. safety regulations. But Mercedes-Benz safety goes beyond the letter of these laws.

The entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear of the car are engineered to crumple in a crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

"A fellow hit me when I stopped at a toll booth," reports one Mercedes-Benz owner. "People in his car were hospitalized. But I just opened my door and stepped out."

Showroom experiments

The 280S is as habitable as it is roadworthy and safe.

Slip behind the wheel, and flex your back. This is no marshmallow seat. It supports you, hour after hour. It should: it was designed with help from orthopedic physicians.

Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Feel the underside of the dashboard. There's no spaghetti tangle of wires. It's fully finished off. Finger the wood trim—real walnut, not plastic.

No shortcuts

Every 280S begins life in a shower of sparks. It is not bolted into being, like a conventional car, but solidified by thousands of welds. After 50,000 miles or so, you may start to wonder if it will ever rattle.

More than four coats and 44 pounds of paint and primer rust protection are lavished on each car. Even the insides of the hubcaps are coated. As a final flourish in its armament against corrosion, the 280S gets a 24-pound factory slathering of undercoating.

Unconventional? Defiantly so. Mercedes-Benz does not build conventional cars—and never will.

Fuel injection available

Machined to racing tolerances, the 2.8 liter, overhead cam, six-cylinder engine of the 280S is built to run flat-out on Germany's autobahns for hours on end (it often does)—and can cruise at any posted speeds in America, with energy in reserve.

However, if you'd like even more power, you may choose the 280SE. The "E"—for Einspritzmotor—gives you a Bosch 6-plunger fuel-injection system that boosts horsepower by nearly 15 percent, at virtually no sacrifice in gas mileage.

NOTE: Another variation, the 280SEL, affords a wheelbase 4 inches longer, and with four inches additional legroom in the rear compartment. Maneuverability is unimpaired.

24-page brochure

To learn more details of the remarkable 280S—$7,000 complete with automatic shift, power steering and electric windows ($6,249* without frills)—mail the coupon for a color brochure.

Better still, drop by the showroom and arrange to test the car. Driving is believing.

220 Diesel—the only diesel-powered automobile Mercedes-Benz makes, gives you small-car economy in a big, safe sedan that may well endure for decades, $4,780*.

Citrus Freeze Hits Housewives' Purses

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Housewives may be paying more for orange juice, thanks to a freeze which hit Florida citrus groves in December.

Robert W. Rutledge, executive vice president of Florida Citrus Mutual, is predicting a price hike at the consumer level on frozen concentrated orange juice.

THE CITRUS executive said demand for frozen orange juice was excellent last month, with consumers spending $7 million a week for it.

"This indicates that many in the industry are still underestimating demand and the prices should increase generally to $2 f.o.b. from the present $1.85 per dozen six ounce cans," Rutledge said.

ANY INCREASE at the f.o.b level would be passed along to the consumer.

Rutledge's comments came as the U.S. Department of Agriculture reduced its estimate of the size of the Florida orange crop for the second straight month. However, the second largest grapefruit harvest in history is expected.

A mid-December freeze was responsible for a drop of 3.5 million boxes from the USDA estimate of the 1968-69 orange crop, placing the figure at 126.5 million boxes, including temples.

THE GRAPEFRUIT estimate was increased by 1.5 million boxes in the USDA's monthly report. The anticipated crop is now 43.5 million boxes.

The late season valencia orange estimate was left unchanged at 56 million boxes, while the estimate was cut by three million boxes for early and mid-season valencias. The tangerine estimate was cut by 1.4 million boxes and now stands at 4.3 million boxes.

Fishing Is Woman's New Hobby

By DOROTHY NEWELL

The sun was shining through the living room windows of the pleasant two story home as I sat and chatted over a cup of tea with Novato's first lady.

Speaking of her husband's position with the city, Mrs. Harley McAskill, wife of Novato's mayor, said, "I keep out of all that."

"The only time I attended a city council meeting was when Harley was sworn in," said diminutive, five foot, Betty Jo.

However, she keeps busy with a number of other activities and her family which includes two very active boys, Kevin, 12 years old, who is now four inches taller than his mother and Scott, five years old.

THE McASKILLS bought a home in San Marin when the subdivision first opened more than four years ago and Betty Jo enjoys doing all the gardening in their large corner lot. She also enjoys knitting, which she started as a hobby over a year ago, and she enjoys reading "anything." She was a volunteer at Novato Hospital but is now an inactive member.

"Harley is home only one day a week, so we try to have Sundays for the family," she said.

SHE IS LOOKING forward to taking up a new hobby, fishing with Kevin, now a sixth grader at San Ramon School.

Scott is a kindergarten student at the school which is in the same block as their home. Betty Jo feels they are fortunate in being so close to the school. The youngsters can now play ball on the school grounds rather than in the street.

Another member of the family, who greets one when the doorbell rings, is Siegfried, a most protective Dachshund.

Betty Jo was born in Haigler, Neb. (No one will know where that is, she said.) She spent some of her childhood in southwest Nebraska living on a ranch and was working in San Mateo when she met Harley, a native of Petaluma.

MRS. HARLEY McAskill, wife of Novato's mayor, gets a few pointers on fishing, a new hobby she hopes to participate in with son, Kevin, while Scott looks on. The McAskill's have lived in Novato 16 years and have watched the city grow from a small town of about 1500 to nearly 30,000, the second largest city in Marin County. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

BEFORE THE McAskills moved to Novato and opened their store 16 years ago, Harley worked in his father's men's clothing store in Petaluma.

Betty Jo nostalgically says the town of Novato was so small then and not crowded. They have watched it grow from approximately 1500 people to nearly 30,000, the second largest city in Marin County.

THEY WERE MARRIED 12 years before Kevin was born and she says the youngsters really keep her "jumpin."

With two growing boys I asked if she liked to cook and in her straightforward way, she said, "I hate it."

Betty Jo is looking forward to the day when she will have a little more time to enjoy another hobby, browsing through antique shops looking for cut glass and pieces of old silver.

THE McASKILL home, decorated in cool shades of green, has many pieces of glass and silver displayed, which have been in the McAskill family for many generations.

Betty Jo may say she isn't involved with the problems confronting her husband as mayor, but she definitely is involved as Novato's first lady in representing the city at the social functions in the area.

IN BOSTON

Teen-Agers' Halfway House

By RICHARD GAINES

BOSTON (UPI) —"Place" is a rundown, offbeat, underground, understaffed struggling social service agency for kids who have no other place to turn.

Its drab four-story headquarters on a back street of Boston's South End acts as a sort of halfway house for teenage runaways, youths on everything from marijuana to LSD, outcasts and dropouts — all of whom come looking for help.

THEY ARE MET at Place by a core of resident theological and university students who have draw together an imposing group of professionals from the fields of law, religion, psychology, psychiatry and medicine.

"Place's primary interest is overcoming alienation —reconciling youngsters estranged from home with their families," explained cofounder Peter A. Callaway, 27, a Harvard Divinity School student who lives in a cluttered alcove at Place.

"We have made our work with runaways central,'' Callaway said. "This falls in line with the guiding purpose of place —that it be an enabler and protector of the young community."

For Place, with its limited resources and the necessity to remain outside the establishment, its existence becomes known to the young community only through an effective grapevine.

"PEOPLE WHO KNOW we're here come to us," a volunteer explained. "It could be parents concerned about their children and we are able to refer them and their kids to the various services available. Or it could be a person from the 'scene' who runs across someone who needs help."

The full time residential staff of place—six to eight students from Harvard Divinity School, Andover-Newton Theological School and Episcopal Theological School—expect and face a gamut of situations around the clock.

About 10 runaways a week find their way to Place's 31½ Dwight Street address, while innumerable others are assisted over the telephone or through field workers. In addition, four youths currently live at Place, three from the division of child guardianship and one with parental permission.

PLACE ALSO MAINTAINS a "bad trip" telephone number for persons on a bad LSD trip or those suffering from an overdose of drugs or poisoning. The callers' anonymity is guaranteed.

"If they're thinking of suicide or are shooting heroin or speed (amphetamines) or LSD, and if its real bad," said Rick Zybert, 21, a volunteer from Boston University who sometimes mans the "bad trip" phone, "we'll get someone over there and take them to a hospital where they can be treated. They're afraid to call the hospitals themselves because lots of times they're runaways and not older than 13 or 14."

Another Place worker said, "we get the farthest type speed freaks to the straightest older women on that line."

WHEN MEDICAL or clinical help is needed, Place can draw on the services of Dr. David Lewis of Beth Isreal Hospital, Dr. Alfred J. R. Koumans of Massachusetts Institute of Technology's psychiatric service and Dr. Joseph Herskowitz, among others.

Place also finds emergency accommodations in the homes of families of seminarians and other friends of Place when the cases call for it.

CALLOWAY, who co-founded Place in the fall of 1967 with David A. Andes of Andover-Newton, said the relaxingly unkempt appearance of Place and its people is planned.

"We are recognized and established but not crushed by the establishment," the Westport, Conn., native said. "It's important to these kids that we're a little sloppy."

In spite of its appearance and the preunderance of "hippy looking" types, Place has good relations with its neighbors and the local authorities.

"The police are great as far as we're concerned," one resident said. "I think they realize we're doing something good. It's certainly more than 'live and let live'."

Until recently, a grant from the Anna B. Stearns Charitable Foundation and speaking engagements by Place workers barely provided the $1,200 a month — Place's subsistance budget. That situation meant all workers remained at Place on a volunteer basis.

But after a highly active summer's work within the "Boston Common Crowd" and the summer underground community, Place's successes led to a substantial grant from the Godfrey M. Hyams Foundation and additional permanent charity from area church and religious groups.

NEVERTHELESS, even now salaries of $25-$30 a week alone are hardly enough to motivate the seminarians in Place's South End Mission.

Callaway explained his satisfaction with Place: "Kids come back. They graduate, I guess you could say and they come back and say, 'I'm doing something now.' And it's good."

Citrus Freeze Hits Housewives' Purses

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Grandma And Grandpa Know They Did Not Invent Sex

DEAR HELEN:

May a grandma say a word about sex and ''outmoded virgins?"

I am 69. My husband is 72. We celebrated our golden wedding at Christmas.

In my day a "nice" girl entered marriage a virgin. I take my husband's word for it that he was too. Opportunity for experience, outside of professionals, was slighter them.

Maybe we were inept on our wedding night. We were unpracticed but not stupid and whatever we did came from honest emotion, not Chapter Six of a sex manual or tricks learned from another partner.

If we failed to tune each other in like adjusting color TV, we were happy in our innocence.

As time passed, we learned how to please each other more and this is a joyous thing.

It will undoubtedly shock young moderns to know we still enjoy sex. No, kiddies, life does not stop at 40 or 60 or 70.

How did we innocents hold our men, sexologists may ask? Do these young cynics think our husbands stayed around just to buy the groceries? Because we didn't talk sex doesn't mean we didn't enjoy it. We just didn't feel that we invented it, like too many kids feel today.

Ovid, about 20 years before Christ, wrote a sex manual of sorts, and I'm sure the Egyptians did it before him. We read Ovid, as literature, back in the so-called unenlightened age.

So there was less "confusion" on our wedding nights than youngsters think of us squares. It was guys and girls, then as now. Who could get confused?

Why do those who want premarital sex get so upset over those who wait? It it envy at the self-control? If premarital sex or a manual by the bed is the solution, why is the divorce rate so high? Little old innocent me held her man for 50 years — and I do mean man! — GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY:

Thanks for a sock it to 'em letter, friend! I can see why Gramps love you. So do I! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband Joe is a terrible chaser. He comes home at 4:45 a.m. and says he's been working. On who? He also locks the bathroom when he takes a bath. Is this normal?

A young woman moved in next door. She is 22, and 42-22-37. Is she influencing his behavior? Also, should I tell my best friend that her husband visits this neighbor? Oh yes, I forgot to tell you she wears mini-mini shirts. Forget the skirts.

I try to make myself more glamorous by dousing myself with French perfume but when my husband comes near he goes into sneezing spasms.

He also gets mysterious telephone calls. I heard him say, "Cool it, man." Is he really talking to President Nixon, like he says?

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

'No Greater Drive Than Desperation'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Penny Rich had a name to live up to. And she did. For a woman who today says that once upon a time "I didn't know a thing about selling," her sales career has been a spectacular one. It has gone from one item she "invented" out of necessity and a starting capital of $4.50 in 1953 to multimillionaire status in 1969.

SHE ALSO has gone from one employee, herself, to more than 5,000 persons engaged in her direct, or home selling, business.

PINNED DOWN to giving advice on direct selling, the blonde-haired widow advises that you start with a good product that is needed — "you've got to believe that it is the greatest in the world" — and then going out "and talking to people."

"At first I just sat hoping the world would come to me," said Miss Rich (she uses her maiden name professionally). "But I found you've got to work very hard . . . put in that extra step, be interested, be enthusiastic."

Recuperating from minor surgery in 1952, she began to put on weight. The added weight made uncomfortable all the usual bras and Miss Rich developed that all-American girl gesture of shoulder-strap tugging.

Finally her mother, annoyed with the habit, sat her down at a sewing machine and said: "Make a bra that you're comfortable in." Miss Rich, no seamstress, recalled that a lot of scissoring and stitching went into her repeated efforts to produce a comfortable bra. When she finally made a nostrain product, she figured ther women would be interested, too.

SHE QUIT her job, moved her family (mother and two daughters) to Sherman Oaks, Calif., and set up a bra-making corner in a dress shop.

"I was down to $4.50," she recalled. "I had to let my car go, charge the groceries..."

IT WAS WHEN she decided on the direct sales method and went into partnership with Tom Mowe, a West Coast boat builder whom she'd met in her attorney's office, that the bra business began to build. They're all sold through the "home party" method that some housewares and cosmetics manufacturers have found successful.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Grandma And Grandpa Know They Did Not Invent Sex

DEAR HELEN:

May a grandma say a word about sex and "outmoded virgins?"

I am 69. My husband is 72. We celebrated our golden wedding at Christmas.

In my day a "nice" girl entered marriage a virgin. I take my husband's word for it that he was too. Opportunity for experience, outside of professionals, was slighter them.

Maybe we were inept on our wedding night. We were unpracticed but not stupid and whatever we did came from honest emotion, not Chapter Six of a sex manual or tricks learned from another partner.

If we failed to tune each other in like adjusting color TV, we were happy in our innocence.

As time passed, we learned how to please each other more and this is a joyous thing.

It will undoubtedly shock young moderns to know we still enjoy sex. No, kiddies, life does not stop at 40 or 60 or 70.

How did we innocents hold our men, sexologists may ask? Do these young cynics think our husbands stayed around just to buy the groceries? Because we didn't talk sex doesn't mean we didn't enjoy it. We just didn't feel that we invented it, like too many kids feel today.

Ovid, about 20 years before Christ, wrote a sex manual of sorts, and I'm sure the Egyptians did it before him. We read Ovid, as literature, back in the so-called unenlightened age.

So there was less "confusion" on our wedding nights than youngsters think of us squares. It was guys and girls, then as now. Who could get confused?

Why do those who want premarital sex get so upset over those who wait? It it envy at the self-control? If premarital sex or a manual by the bed is the solution, why is the divorce rate so high? Little old innocent me held her man for 50 years — and I do mean man! — GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY:

Thanks for a sock it to 'em letter, friend! I can see why Gramps love you. So do I! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband Joe is a terrible chaser. He comes home at 4:45 a.m. and says he's been working. On who? He also locks the bathroom when he takes a bath. Is this normal?

A young woman moved in next door. She is 22, and 42-22-37. Is she influencing his behavior? Also, should I tell my best friend that her husband visits this neighbor? Oh yes, I forgot to tell you she wears mini-mini shirts. Forget the skirts.

I try to make myself more glamorous by dousing myself with French perfume but when my husband comes near he goes into sneezing spasms.

He also gets mysterious telephone calls. I heard him say, "Cool it, man." Is he really talking to President Nixon, like he says?

Another thing, my husband is't with it. He refuses to wear a beard. — What would you do if your were me? — UNHAPPY TEEN-AGE BRIDE.

DEAR YOU-ALL:

Why not jazz up the plot with more sex and stuff, and sell it to a soap opera? — H.

Sweet Adelines To Sell Rummage For Future Traveling Expenses

The Marin Chapter of Sweet Adelines Incorporated will sponsor a rummage sale Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Carpenters' Hall, 647 Lindaro Street, San Rafael.

Sweet Adelines is an international organization devoted to four-part harmony in the barbershop style. The culmination of the Sweet Adelines' year is the regional chorus competitions to be held in Reno, in which the Marin group took second place last year. Membership is attained through chapter affiliation only.

All interested women are invited to visit chapter meetings held Mondays at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Proceeds from the rummage sale will go to help pay expenses of Marin chapter members' trip to Reno in April.

Donations for the sale are solicited. Further information may be obtained by calling sale chairman Mrs. Howard Henry of San Anselmo in the evening or chapter president Mrs. John Maillard of Tiburon.

THE LARKSPUR Women's Club will hold a spring hat luncheon and cards, on Wednesday noon in the clubrooms at the Larkspur City Hall. Prizes will be awarded for the most original, prettiest and funniest spring hat.

Mrs. Marvin McCarty is luncheon chairman; Carlotta Thomas, president, will greet guests; and Mrs. Frank Gunnar is in charge of reservations.

THE FOUNDERS DAY meeting of the Tomales Elementary P-TA will be held jointly with the Tomales High School P-TA this year.

This meeting will be held on Thursday in the high school music room at 8 p.m. Presiding will be Mrs. William Bonini, president of the Elementary P-TA, and Mrs. Walton Burbank, president of the high school P-TA.

Guest speakers are Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, superintendent of Marin County schools, Robert E. Spain and Warren Bingsley. Their topic will be "Education for Tomorrow's World."

The Tomales Elementary P-TA will present an honorary life membership to an outstanding member.

THE REGULAR monthly meeting of Marin Adoptive Parents will be held at the home of Grant Waggoner, 4795 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, at 8 p.m. Friday. The slate of officers approved at the January meeting will be voted on at that time.

An open discussion will be held considering two letters, one urging additional funds for social casework in adoptions, and another requesting amendment of the internal revenue code to allow deduction of adoption fees and expenses. In addition the group will plan a June camping trip in the Sierra-Tahoe region.

All adoptive parents and parents interested in adoptions are urged to attend.

BALLET STUDENTS of the Mill Valley Branch of the Pacific Dance Guild are inviting their parents to a series of special evening classes during the next two weeks.

Parents will be able to see the progress their children have made as instructor Hannah Nunn explains the exercises and movements during the class sessions.

Ballet IV will be Monday; ballet combination III and IV on Thursday; ballet II, March 3; and ballet I, March 6. All classes will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Dick Ford Studio in Mill Valley.

THE CRAB FEAST, given each year for Tiburon Peninsula Club members and their families, is scheduled for Friday. Cocktail hour starts at 5:30 p.m. First serving will be at 6:30 p.m., and the second serving at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. William Moriarty is social chairman.

A COURSE in self-defense for women will be sponsored by the Mill Valley Recreation Department starting Friday if there is sufficient interest, according to John Garber, recreational supervisor.

The class will be held for five weeks from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Fridays at the Mill Valley Community Recreation Center, and it will be open to any woman in Marin County. Registrations will be taken at the first meeting of the class on Friday.

Instructor will be Norman Kruder, a Sonoma State College student and summer lifeguard at Stinson Beach who has had specific training in self-defense for women in a course taught at the University of New Mexico.

MARIN MEMBERS are taking a leading part in "A Night at the Races" to be sponsored on Friday at the Truf Club at Bay Meadows by the Northern California Chapter of the Women's Architectural League. This is the auxiliary of the American Institute of Architects.

Chairman for the event is Mrs. Allan Thompson of Tiburon. Other chairmen are Mmes. M. Arthur Gensler Jr. of Tiburon, program; Harold Edelstein of Tiburon, publicity; and Carl Russell of Strawberry, reservations.

The evening will be a benefit for the national AIA scholarship fund involving educational funds in the field of architecture for the culturally deprived.

Among those planning "car pool parties" for their guests are the Thompsons, Genslers, Robert Zumwalts of Terra Linda and Joe Davis Allens of Mill Valley.

MRS. HERLUFF Pedersen, district deputy president of District 61, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will pay her official visit to Mill Valley's Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305 at the Odd Fellows Hall in Mill Valley Thursday at 8 p.m. She will be accompanied by Mrs. V. M. Enrico, her marshal.

The refreshments and decorations committee will be Miss Arlene Snyder, assisted by Mmes. Roland Healy, Wendel Williams and Vern Ogan.

OLIVE SCHOOL Parent-Teacher Association members gave an honorary life membership to Jack O. Rothe, principal of the school.

Two years ago, Rothe developed a rose garden outside the school library building and the P-TA not only presented him with a pin but also presented him with the 1969 rose of the year, "Proud Land," for the school beautification program. Rothe is also active in a Sunday school program and teen-age drop-in program at the Novato United Methodist Church.

Does She Tip, Streak Or Frost?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Do you know the difference between streaking, tipping and frosting? If you do, you are better informed than most women who admire the highlights effects on friends.

Streaking is the lightening of one-half-inch to two-inch areas of hair. Rarely are more than six light streaks put against dark in contrast in a hair fashion. The streaks are confined to the top layer of the hair on the crown.

Frosting is the fine threading of wisps of hair that are lightened throughout. It's a blonde effect that lasts for several months.

Each of the three haircoloring effects requires infrequent redoing. Streaking needs to be refreshed only twice a year. Frosting and tipping need to be revitalized only two or three times a year.

Paint Removing

For paint removing and brush cleaning, solvents labeled "nonflammable" are safest, the National Fire Protection Association says. If you must work with flammable ones, it is best to do it out doors but never in any area where there is an open flame or where anyone is smoking.

Great-Grandmother Retains Physical Fitness Program

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I like to be fit for myself to know."

The words come from a tiny great-grandmother who all her life has made physical fitness part of her daily regimen. Now at 82, Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, born a Philadelphia Biddle, has taken up jogging.

"Well, it pays dividends," said this sprightly, delicate blonde. Most days she will walk and jog at least half an hour, sometimes longer, figuring she averages adout four miles—"My age group all think I'll drop dead."

JULIA RUSH HENRY represents everyone's reason for keeping physically and mentally in tune. She's never had a serious illness — "although I'm afraid to mention this. Lightning might strike." She goes to Europe a couple of times a year. And at 89 to 90 pounds, she weighs the same as she did when she was a debutante in Philadelphia where her father, Alexander Williams Biddle, was a doctor.

Mrs. Henry is the product of a family long conscious of public service — three of her ancestors were signers of the Declaration of Independence. "We Biddles have always been into something," she smiles.

She grew up in a family conscious of sports too—golfing, swimming, tennis and the like. And each day of her adult life she has done one hour of exercise although she conceded, "Some days you just have to make yourself do them."

"But it's so attractive to look fit, don't you think?" she asked. And she looked quite so in a tunic-jacketed beige suit from Simonetta of Italy and her dark ranch mink coat.

I invited Mrs. Henry to join me in a jogging session around the Plaza Hotel but we settled for a walk—"Jog in a mink coat! The children whould think I'd gone crazy." Her walking and jogging clothes are casual when she takes to the high school track 200 yards from her home at Chestnut Hill in Philadelphia.

I MET THIS indefatigable widow when she came to New York for a gathering of the National Jogging Association, which is sponsoring a three-months tour by Robert Bob Richards, the Olympics champion. Richards will jog and cycle coast to coast to dramatize the need for fitness.

"The body needs care. Jogging is preventive medicine," Mrs. Henry allowed. She began this easy-gain running last summer ("even when it'd hit 90, I'd be out") to the astonishment at first of her socially elite neighbors. But the jogging circle has widened— "now you'll see fathers out running with four or five of their children."

Mrs. Henry's husband was a Philadelphia attorney and a noted philatelist. He died in 1936. The couple had two daughters and there are seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, Mrs. Henry said.

She shakes her head as she says, "My daughters don't jog. I've got fat nephews who won't budge."

Deep Split Reported Between Bonn, Paris

By COLIN LAWSON

BONN (London Express) — A startling admission — the first time in the history of the Franco-German Friendship Treaty — that deep differences now exist between Germany and France, coupled with a statement that Bonn and London are united in the essential European problems, was made last night.

It came from Chancellor Kiesinger's chief adviser in the chancellery, Secretary of State Baron von Guttenberg and is therefore seen to have the chancellor's full approval.

Von Guttenberg has up to now been the most fervent supporter of France-German cooperation to the exclusion of all other European problems.

In a broadcast Von Guttenberg said: "There now exists considerable differences between the governments of Bonn and Paris. I say considerable differences because I do not wish to minimize that which cannot be minimized.

He went on — obviously for French consumption — "there has been no change in Franco/German policies and Bonn proceeds from the point of view that there can be Europe without France or without German-French cooperation.

"But we neither want nor are in the position to join in one Eureopean front against another. In our view, Europe can only arise from European countries working with one another and not against one another."

In his job as foreign policy adviser, he has kept the chancellor steadfast on the road to Paris.

His statement yesterday appears to confirm French accusations that a London-Bonn axis has been in the work for some time.

President Charles de Gaulle, through his ambassador in Bonn, has already accused Kiesinger of this.

It is now officially confirmed here that Prime Minister Harold Wilson revealed De Gaulle's European plan during his talks with Kiessinger on Feb. 12.

Russia Offers Travel Bid To W. Germany

BONN (London Express) — The Berlin crisis took on a new twist last night with the Russians offering an apparent big concession if West Germany calls off the presidential election due to be held in the city on March 5.

It began in dramatic fashion with an urgent request by Russian Ambassador Semyon Zarapkin to call on Chancellor Kiesinger.

Only Saturday he saw the chancellor who had handed him a note rejecting Russian demands to cancel the Berlin meeting.

When he received Zarapkin's request he ordered his helicopter to bring the ambassador to Stuttgart.

There Zarapkin made his offer — an agreement to issue passes for travel between the two halves of the city over Easter in return for calling off the controversial meeting.

Kiesinger is being cautious over the offer which he nevertheless described as encouraging.

He warned that transferring the election meeting could only be agreed when a positive and concrete decision on passes had been reached.

Any agreement, he emphasized, must be long-term and cover all kinds of traffic between both parts of the city.

SHARING OPERATION

College Housing: Survival Test

By BRUCE COLEMAN

College of Marin students come to a campus nestled in one of the nation's highest rent districts, but many go home at night to shelter in converted garages, trailers and chicken coops.

Perhaps Charles G. Robertson Jr. sums up the housing problem most succinctly. The Marin Council of Churches campus minister says: "There isn't enough housing and, what is, is exorbitant."

No one has any statistics on the number of student communes but a psychology major, Mary Griffin of San Rafael, estimates that the majority of students who don't live with their parents are sharing rents out of necessity.

"We do," she said matter-of-factly.

"I live with five people — my husband and two other guys and girl. My husband and I share a room. The other girl and two guys, they are friends."

Mrs. Griffin, who is doing a paper on communes for a class, says a commune is "when you share with more than four people."

Art major, Mike Hartsock, says "a commune is the only way to survive. You've got to have other people living with you."

His communal affair, with a population of nine, splits the $225 rent for their seven-room house in San Anselmo and each person "does his own thing" in the kitchen.

He added that everyone would like the commune to be more of a family-type situation but it's not possible. "People have to work and so we're not always there. But, it's a good thing."

Hartsock said he thinks there is enough housing in Marin for college students but that "the rent is too high." He and fellow commune man, Robert Lawson, were sitting on the lawn listening to another man playing the guitar. The guitarist said he is in a "really large commune — the Army."

Communes are also the answer to the housing problem for Reggie Woods of Forest Knolls. He explained how his works:

"You get a bunch of people you can flow with and you put all your resources together to pay the rent. Sometimes, if you don't have a job, the other persons will pay the rent or food.

"Usually there are about three or four guys and usually one girl to do the kitchen work," he added.

Uda Danziger, an Israeli student, said he lived in a seven-person commune but that this had to be split up because former tenants of the house had given the place a bad name.

He now resides with one other man. Communes are not new to Danziger, he said, since he lived on a kibbutz in Israel.

Before the bust, Danziger said there were seven students living together. "We shared the rent and food and work. We cooked together. At one time there were two girls and we were sharing love."

Danziger said that it is not uncommon to rent a house, at one price, fix it up, patch the roof and then find the landlord hiking the rent. Within seven months, he said, his rent was raised from $100 to $120.

Mrs. Griffin said that there is another side to the story because some students move in and wreck a house. Then, she said, landlords think all the people will be like that."

Many students, questioned about housing, said they have no problems since they live at home.

However, those poeple who are married or prefer to live alone, often have to live in some sort of converted structure or house on wheels.

For example, Mursalin Machado lives in San Anselmo in a converted garage with a leaky roof. Living with his wife, he says he pays $70 a month rent and that it's difficult to find anything of any size under $150.

Joe Ward said he ended up renting a garage when he couldn't find a place within his $50 budget. "I insulated and put electricity in all according to code," he said.

Steven Bright and his wife lived in a housetruck last semester and parked it in back of a Sausalito store at night. "I would drive to school with my wife and she would sit in it with the dog and cat. When I finished class, I would drive back to our parking space," he said.

The Brights now rent a converted trailer at 329 Auburn Drive in San Rafael. The bathroom, he said, is in an attached shed. "You go out the front door to get into it. The house is a little better than a truck," said Bright.

The college provides a set of cards listing people who have places to rent. This is in the office of Charles P. Herndon, director of placement and financial aid.

The cards number from about 100 at the start of the semester and drop down to about 20, Herndon said. "We always have cards on file," he added.

Herndon estimates that 30 to 40 per cent of the students don't live with their parents but he has no statistics on what types of domiciles students do live in.

CONVERTED TRAILER—Steven Bright studies on porch of his converted trailer in San Rafael, an ear of Indian corn hanging behind him. Last semester he and his wife lived in a housetruck. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

There have been more housing requests this semester, he said, and surmised it is because people are "bailing out" of San Francisco State and San Francisco City Colleges.

Most student requests fall in two categories — students who want to share a place with another student and those who want to work for their room or room and board.

"We get a lot of mamas who come in with daughters saying, 'Where can I put my daughter?' We refer the mamas to the card file and I recommend them to those who want someone to live in to take care of children."

There are no plans now to provide student housing such as a dormitory, Dale A. Fleming, college director of planning and research, said, adding that there is no land space until some land is filled.

Last year a plan for a 100-unit dormitory was submitted by Jules Becker of Ross and other businessmen to be run on a lease basis at no cost to the college. This was turned down, Fleming said, because of other long-term uses for the proposed site, a Kent Avenue parking lot.

Signs of the times at the college are the bulletin boards which display such messages as: "Looking for apartment to share in Marin. Call Ray." "Needed: Ride to and from SF or Berkeley. Will share gas and tolls. Call Ben." "Comfortable living space required by transcendentalist meditator. Share apartment. House. Flat. Contact Eric."

Chamber To Hear Army Commander

Lt. Col. William F. Vernau, post commander of the Two Rock Ranch Army Station, Petaluma, will be the guest speaker at the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce banquet on March 8 at 7 p.m. at Chesney's Carriage House.

Another highlight of the chamber dinner will be the naming of "Man and Woman of the Year, 1968." Plaques will be presented by the 1967 winners, William H. Wiggins and Mrs. Wesley H. Faust.

COZY QUARTERS—Mursalin Machado, a College of Marin student, studies on the bed in his tight little house in San Anselmo. Photograph taken in the kitchen; open door leads to bathroom.

CHECKING FOR LEAKS—Machado checks for leaks in his converted garage home in San Anselmo. Machado and his wife pay $70 a month and the student says anything of any size would be $150.

Auditorium Due Completion In Late December

The Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, under construction by Paul V. Wright Inc. and Ben Ordtsky Inc. of Santa Rosa, will be completed on Dec. 31 at a cost of nearly $4 million.

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported that construction costs will be slightly under $2 million, but other expenses such as site development, architectural and engineering fees, landscaping and contingencies will bring the total cost to $3,961,731.

Mitchell said the cost will be shared thusly: 48 per cent state (1,895,291) and 52 per cent local ($2,066,440).

A total of $1,587,205 has been spent to date. The auditorium will have nearly 800 fixed seats. A flat exhibit area in the rear will have about 15,000 square feet of space, about one-third the size of a football field.

Bullet Fired Into Marin Apartment

Sheriff's deputies reported that someone fired a pistol Friday night, sending a bullet through a window at the second-story apartment of Marcia D. Williams, 215 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

The bullet also went through a closet door and stopped on a shelf in the closet deputies said. Nearby residents reported they heard what appeared to be two pistol shots, deputies noted. The incident was reported at 9:05 p.m.

Wide Choice Offered To San Rafael Voters

San Rafael voters are assured plenty of choice for mayor and two city councilmen in the April 15 municipal election, though none for two board of education members.

A last-day rush of filings Thursday produced a three-way race for mayor and an eight-candidate contest for two positions on the city council.

THIS IS ALL to the good. Regardless of how well public officials are doing their jobs, challenges are healthy. Knowing that others seek the positions of authority — and the responsibility that goes with them — keeps the officials on their toes. It is for this reason that we regret lack of competition with Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. and Paul L. Jones, who are assured no-contest re-election to the board of education.

Aby served 16 years on the city council, the last two of them under Bettini as mayor. He tried for the mayoralty when John F. McInnis vacated the seat in 1965, but lost to Bettini. After serving out the remaining two years of his council term, he stepped out of public office.

Now, like the proverbial retired fire horse that cannot resist the sound of the fire bell, he has entered the lists again.

Both Bettini and Aby have long records of public service — Bettini having been 10 years on the board of education before his election as mayor. Both are well-known. Both are forceful individuals. The contest promises to be highly interesting.

The third mayoral candidate, Arthur F. Deiters, probably can be dismissed as an unlikely threat to unseat the incumbent, though the votes he draws may affect the outcome of the Bettini-vs.-Aby race.

THE RACE FOR CITY council is even more crowded.

Harry A. Barbier is seeking a second full term. He first served two years by appointment, then was elected four years ago. Frederick C. Robbins Jr. has the advantage of a slight incumbency, having been appointed in January to fill the few months remaining of the term of Louis H. Baar, who moved up to the county board of supervisors.

Two others who sought the January appointment also are in the race: attorney Joseph D. Dahlman, who was an unsuccessful candidate two years ago, and John J. Adams, a member of the city planning commission (on which Robbins also served).

Another second-time aspirant in the race is George S. Burton, truck dealer who ran two years ago. Since his defeat in that race, Burton has been a regular attendant at city council meetings.

Also seeking one of the two council positions are Thomas H. Litz, a systems analyst; Ray White, executive manager of the Redwood Empire Sheet Metal and Air Conditioners Association, and Benjamin Franklin Walton, a swimming pool serviceman who is best known for his campaign last year to preserve the Marin County Courthouse for a historical museum.

WE HOPE THAT ALL sorts of organizations in San Rafael will invite the candidates to address them, so that the views of all the aspirants may be as widely aired as possible. We hope, too, that some organization — perhaps the League of Women Voters or the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce — will arrange a major "candidates' night" to give everyone an opportunity to see and hear the vote-seekers.

We will follow the campaign in the Independent-Journal, along with those for school boards throughout the area which are under way at the same time.

Solitude And Tranquility

As populations expand and even suburban communities, like those in Marin, become more urbanized, it becomes increasingly difficult to know the tranquility of solitude. Few people in this exciting pinpoint in time in which we live really want to opt out of society and become hermits. But neither do they want to become like the masses of Asia, who never know the tranquility of solitude and for whom five minutes of silence is a frightening thing.

For that confrontation with oneself, which is the beginning of all understanding, one requires a modicum of solitude and silence.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Two Measures Seek To Give Youth Better Chance To Work

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — For years, it has been acknowledged that California's stringent laws on employment of minors have been conducive to idleness and juvenile delinquency.

All types of roadblocks are thrown in the path of a young man or woman seeking employment by these laws and the rules of the state Department of Industrial Relations, to the point where many employers actually refuse to hire minors.

THE MAJORITY of these laws were enacted years ago with the support of labor unions, under the guise of protecting young people from the abuse some employers once made of the privilege of putting young people to work. If all the facts were known about labor's support of the child labor laws, it no doubt would be found that labor was interested particularly in protecting the jobs of union members. Even now, apprentices are limited in many occupations.

Although this has been a matter of common knowledge for years, little, if anything has been done by the Legislature to alleviate this situation, for the simple reason that offending labor was a step toward political suicide.

THIS YEAR, however, there is the possibility of a change in attitude. Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, has introduced bills which could point the way to relaxing the measures which prevent minors from securing employment in at least some fields.

"We have been painfully aware that unemployment by youths is higher than any other type category," Campbell said, "and unemployment by minority youth is the highest of all."

One of his measures would allow young people to work between the hours of 10 p.m. and 5 a.m. with school and parental consent and approval by the labor commissioner.

A second bill would reduce the 50 different type jobs in which minors are forbidden to work. These include jobs on railroads, boats, on scaffolding, around printing presses, in bowling alleys, and in the manufacturing of leather, as well as many others.

The measure would make it the responsibility of the state labor commissioner to determine whether the job was detrimental to a minor's health of safety.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Head Start In Financial Straits

The Head Start pre-school program in Marin is in serious financial trouble. They are existing on a budget established over two years ago. The very excellent pre-school teachers have not received a salary increase in two years. Some are now having to look elsewhere for better paying teacher positions. This year field trips had to be limited to only one or two. There is one bus which picks the San Rafael children up at 8:30 and arrives in Marin City, after all the other stops, at 9:45. These children ride two and one-half hours a day on the bus.

Our limited and frozen budget is provided by the federal government which expects the community to share some responsibility by contributing volunteer teachers, donations of books and pre-school equipment, outdoor play equipment, and needless to say, money.

On March 8 and 22 we will have two volunteer work days. Any groups or individuals interested in working will be greatly appreciated.

Please, people of Marin, visit the school. Go into the classroom and observe what the Head Start program is accomplishing. Only then will you understand how very important it is.

We need your support!

Military Justice Outrages Three

Three women (a teacher, a director of Christian Education, and a nurse) were escorted to the military police station by the Presidio provost-marshal, Colonel Ford, and 13 military police and officers. The reason — we had come to discuss our concern about the mutiny charges with Lt. General Larsen, commanding officer of the Sixth Army. We took this action only after experiencing the frustrations of writing and telegraming Larsen, Secretary of the Army Resor, and elected national officials expressing our outrage about the severe charge of mutiny. We received no response. We asked Colonel Ford for other suggestions of ways to make our opinion heard. His answer: "Frankly nothing."

The message we got from several military officers was: "The military exists for the military man and we don't care what the public thinks." . . .

The most frightening response of all was: "Many people here agree with you, but we've learned it's better to keep our mouths shut." For those who lived during World War II, this has a familiar ring.

What's happening to us? Is the military no longer accountable to the public? Why have three women been indefinitely barred from entering the Presidio for merely attempting to express their concern? What kind of justice sentences a Marine to two years for murdering a Vietnamese woman, and sentences Nesrey Sood to 15 years for peacefully protesting the killing of Richard Bunche?

We believe that things can be changed if enough people express their concern through letters and telegrams, personal visits to key people at the Presidio, and contacting elected officials.

National Symbol: Outstretched Palm

It was a relief to read in Monday's paper (Feb. 16) that someone in Marin County is trying to call a halt to the benefits being showered on county employees.

The idea of giving three weeks vacation after only one year of work is an extravagance most of us are choking over. I, personally, wouldn't feel so outraged over it, except that I, personally, have to pick up the tab (along with several hundred others who work long and hard for their money).

My husband has run a business in Marin County for neary 20 years and during that time he's managed one three-week vacation, and otherwise contented himself(!) with a week here and there and an occasional long week end. Of course, he might be considered a fool to work so long with so little leisure, but that's the kind of fool who earns the tax dollar that's being distributed so lavishly. . . .

Perhaps our national symbol — the American Eagle — should be quietly drowned and replaced with a large hand, outstretched and suitably tatooed with "I DEMAND" on the palm.

Disabled Group Needs Medicare

Why not an editorial on the following items of interest to many?

1. We who are on Social Security disability payments are not covered by Medicare unless we are 65 or over. This is an area I would think it would be needed most. This would lessen the cost of state and county welfare considerably.

2. The cost of living has gone beyond our ability to cope with. If we had an increase of 41 per cent (that seems like a nice round figure) it would lessen the state and county welfare load a huge amount.

Any support or promotion you might be able to give would be appreciated by many.

TRY AND STOP ME

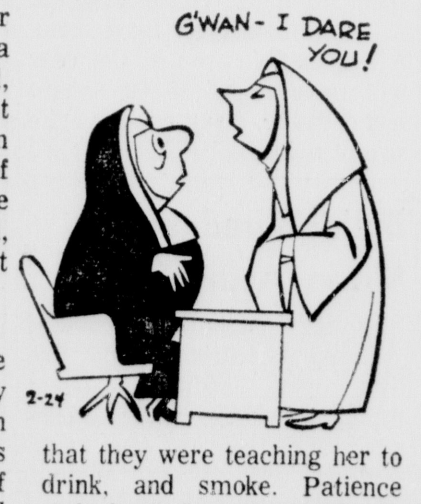
A CANDID Mother Superior who guided the destinies of a 400-bed hospital was asked, "What was the most difficult thing you had to learn when first you were put in charge of this great hospital?" The Mother Superior reflected, sighed, then answered, "That one cannot fire a nun."



SUPREME COURT Justice Tom Clark tells about a lady who was a paragon of virtue on earth, but upon her death, was dismayed to find herself ticketed for Hell. She phoned St. Peter, who begged her to be patient, because Heaven was temporarily overbooked he couldn't make room for her.

Two weeks later she buzzed St. Peter again, warning him that they were teaching her to drink, and smoke. Patience and fortitude, counseled St. Peter; he would soon be able to accommodate her — but not just yet.

A fortnight later, the paragon of virtue made a final call: "Hi there, Pete? Forget it!"

Cancellation Of Warsaw Talks Indicates Peking's Confusion

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

1. Continuing confusion and strife among the leaders of mainland China make it impossible for them to conduct a coherent foreign policy.

2. China is isolating itself from the world, not the world from China.

3. The government of Mao Tse-tung is not in control and no one else is, either. Peking is only a symbolic capital whose authority hardly extends beyond the city limits.

Peking suddenly finds that it just can't deal with such a "vicious" administration as that of President Nixon which showed its viciousness by "committing a shameless crime against the 700 million Chinese people."

The crime? The United States gave political asylum to the Chinese charge d'affaires in The Hague after he had defected to the Dutch government.

No wonder Secretary of State William Rogers remarked: "I would be surprised if that were the reason."

There is good evidence that it isn't, that the incident was the only excuse at hand to give some kind of pretext for Peking having to call off the Warsaw meeting.

TO MAKE ANY sense out of this let's - talk, let's - not - talk course, we need to understand that there is no effective central government on the mainland today and that Mao's Cultural Revolution and the violence and chaos which attended it have left the Communist Party apparatus and the regime itself limp, shaken and divided.

This is the nearly unanimous view of the most careful and informed China-watchers. No one has described the situation inside China more forcefully and more factually than the former deputy U. S. consul general in Hong Kong, Allen S. Whiting, who recently left government service to teach at the University of Michigan, and thus can speak bluntly.

He puts it this way:

"In retrospect it is clear that Mao took quite literally one of his most quoted thoughts: 'It is necessary to have destruction before construction.' Mao's personal tragedy, and that of China, is that he was unable to move beyond the destructive stage . . . Maoism is now dead as a source of national unity or a force for constructive action." (Life, Feb. 21)

PRESIDENT NIXON and Secretary Rogers are quite understandably "disappointed" and "regretful" that Peking has found it necessary to isolate itself again from contacts with the United States at Warsaw. But this on-again, off-again decision is itself evidence of the internal struggle among Mao's potential successors in the party, in the army and among government administrators. Evidently the decision to resume talks with the United States (and we never suspended them; Peking did) was overruled by those who prefer self-imposed isolation.

Because the United States was about to propose a mutual exchange of journalists, scientists and scholars, perhaps the Nixon Administration is being spared some very untoward incidents. Many who have been allowed to visit Red China aren't being heard from today. The cruel and uncivilized treatment of Reuters correspondent Anthony Gray is only one of many cases.

Peking is holding under duress an unknown number of other foreigners — a dozen British citizens, a like number of Japanese businessmen and journalists, resident bankers and overseas Chinese who disappeared while on legitimate commercial trips.

Probably only a new regime in China can bring it out of chaos and isolation.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

LBJ Set To Challenge Humphrey's Leader Role

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Former President Lyndon Johnson is talking privately as if he is spoiling for a fight over the leadership of the Democratic party.

To visitors at his Texas ranch, he has dropped hints darkly implying he is not taking kindly to the claim of his former teammate and 1968 presidential standard bearer to be the party's "titular" leader.

Johnson is described as maintaining that, under existing political circumstances, the party's leadership is rightfully vested in the hands of the "elected" Democratic leaders of Congress.

Not only does former Vice President Hubert Humphrey emphatically reject that contention, but he is bluntly making it clear he is prepared to forcefully assert his claim as leader.

JOHNSON'S argument that with a Republican President in the White House it is up to the Democratic congressional leaders to exercise party leadership is an old story with him.

That's the stand that he, as Senate Democratic leader, and the late Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, adamantly professed throughout the eight years of the Eisenhower administration. They flatly refused to recognize the late Adlai Stevenson as "titular" leader, and when he set up a national policy advisory committee, they would have nothing to do with it — thus effectively scuttling it.

Humphrey not only intends to establish a new policy advisory committee, but to be chairman of it.

Johnson and former President Harry Truman will be invited to be members — with leaders and authorities from a "wide spectrum" of fields. Also included will be several Negroes. If Johnson declines, no tears will be shed.

KEEPING a firm hold on the Democratic party's leadership is only one of Humphrey's ambitions.

In this strongly held but still-unannounced aspiration, Humphrey is fully aware he is up against two tough hurdles:

One is the certainty of powerful Republican opposition. Two outstanding and impressive Minnesota GOP congressmen have evinced keen interest in going to the Senate — Clark MacGregor, 47, serving his fifth term, and Albert Quie, 46, on his seventh term. Either would be a formidable Senate candidate.

The other hurdle is Sen. Eugene McCarthy, whose seat will be the prize in next year's congressional elections.

Last fall, McCarthy said he wouldn't seek re-election, but that if he did it would not be as a Democrat. Now latest inside word is that he has told Minnesota Democratic leaders that if they will nominate Rep. Donald Fraser, 45, a fourth termer and fellow "peacenik," McCarthy will support him as his successor. But if Humphrey is the party's candidate, McCarthy will run as an independent.

The life of every man is a diary in which he intends to write one story, and writes another; and his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with what he vowed to make it. — James M. Barrie.

SHARING OPERATIO

College

By BRUCE COLEMAN

College of Marin students come to a campus nestled in one of the nation's highest rent districts, but many go home at night to shelter in converted garages, trailers and chicken coops.

Perhaps Charles G. Robertson Jr. sums up the housing problem most succinctly. The Marin Council of Churches campus minister says: "There isn't enough housing and, what is, is exorbitant."

No one has any statistics on the number of student communes but a psychology major, Mary Griffin of San Rafael, estimates that the majority of students who don't live with their parents are sharing rents out of necessity.

"We do," she said matter-of-factly.

"I live with five people — my husband and two other guys and girl. My husband and I share a room. The other girl and two guys, they are friends."

Mrs. Griffin, who is doing a paper on communes for a class, says a commune is "when you share with more than four people."

Art major, Mike Hartsock, says "a commune is the only way to survive. You've got to have other people living with you."

His communal affair, with a population of nine, splits the $225 rent for their seven-room house in San Anselmo and each person "does his own thing" in the kitchen.

He added that everyone would like the commune to be more of a family-type situation but it's not possible. "People have to work and so we're not always there. But, it's a good thing."

Hartsock said he thinks there is enough housing in Marin for college students but that "the rent is too high." He and fellow commune man, Robert Lawson on the lawn another man guitar. The guit in a "really larg the Army."

Auditorium Due Completion In Late December

The Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, under construction by Paul V. Wright Inc. and Ben Ordtsky Inc. of Santa Rosa, will be completed on Dec. 31 at a cost of nearly $4 million.

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported that construction costs will be slightly under $2 million, but other expenses such as site development, architectural and engineering fees, landscaping and contingencies will bring the total cost to $3,961,731.

Mitchell said the cost will be shared thusly: 48 per cent state (1,895,291) and 52 per cent local ($2,066,440).

A total of $1,587,205 has been spent to date. The auditorium will have nearly 800 fixed seats. A flat exhibit area in the rear will have about 15,000 square feet of space, about one-third the size of a football field.

Bullet Fired Into Marin Apartment

Sheriff's deputies reported that someone fired a pistol Friday night, sending a bullet through a window at the second-story apartment of Marcia D. Williams, 215 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

The bullet also went through a closet door and stopped on a shelf in the closet deputies said. Nearby residents reported they heard what appeared to be two pistol shots, deputies noted. The incident was reported at 9:05 p.m.

Americans Prone To Violence? History Would Indicate Otherwise

With increasing frequency these days, you read that we Americans are a violent lot; that our history is steeped in violence.

That is a shoulder-shrugging statement for it is without significance. Meaning comes only if comparison is made.

Conversely it can be said, and with enough evidence to make it stick, that throughout our history there runs a thread of restraint, an aversion to overt violence. As in the early days of the nation, in Concord, Mass., the words, "Don't fire unless fired upon, but if they want war, let it begin here!" typify our disinclination to initiate violence. And, for better or worse, this has been our general attitude ever since.

TELEVISION and movie Westerns titillate us with practically an unbroken stream of violence, yet, almost as a cardinal formula, the hero never draws his pistol first. Motion pictures, too numerous to count, have as their plot the story of a man who shuns his guns in search of peace and is goaded, insulted, humiliated and abused until finally, unable to avoid violence any longer without sacrificing his most cherished values, he dramatically straps on his six-guns and comes out shooting.

Gary Cooper was perhaps the leading exponent of this sort of hero, the man who did what he had to do and hated every minute of it and did it only because he knew it was the right thing, the only thing he could do at the time.

ALTHOUGH our history is beaded with incidents of violence, this, by itself, does not necessarily stamp us as a violent people per se. Most of it can be accounted for by the explosive national growth, the expanding frontiers to the West and all the attendant obstacles, which by their very nature were violent and lent themselves to violence and demanded violence to resolve.

Perhaps an error is committed when we are believed to be violent simply because we do not fear violence. Perhaps this may be the key.

For Americans will use violence when, consistent with their values, violence is a necessity.

THE VIOLENCE recorded in the total history of America does not begin to approximate the violence exhibited in the short years of Hitler's Germany, Stalin's Russia and Mao Tse Tung's Red China.

Yes, there is violence in our society and yes, I do deplore most of it. But the "group violence" such as the riots and campus uprisings, have for the most part, been violence directed against property. Injuries and deaths have played a relatively small part. The violence of individual crimes is a serious phenomenon and must be dealt with positively and firmly.

And while violence is evident to a growing degree, it is also equally manifest that the great majority of people are reluctant to move against the minority committing violence. This is indicative of the prevailing attitude of the majority to lean over backward rather than use violence to cope with violence.

This then, lends credence to my theme, that Americans do not have a propensity for violence but will use it only as necessary and then only with great reluctance. Perhaps if we Americans were indeed as violent as we are credited we wouldn't have so much of it.

At least not within our borders.

Charter Service Proves Bus Neither Shunned Nor Outmoded

Take Eastshore Lines of San Francisco, a private firm which has been making inroads into Marin in the Terra Linda-Lucas Valley area with its yellow and white, air-conditioned buses.

The charter service has been so successful that it expanded into the San Marin area of Novato this year. They've even got a waiting list of commuters in Terra Linda who are eager to get in on the charter service.

The main attraction seems to be that these charter buses don't limit their routes to Highway 101 but wind through local roads from Merrydale to San Marin Drive, picking up their clients almost at their doorsteps.

Goes to show that the bus is far from being outmoded. It could be the coming thing for Marin commuters. Given convenient service and reasonable rates, commuters will jump for buses.

TELEPHONE GIRLS at the Civic Center switchboard are cool under fire.

During last week's bomb scare, when the alarm began buzzing, I rushed down the hall to the administrator's office to see what the commotion was about. I headed into the office of the administrator just as Alan Bruce and staff were headed out.

On impulse, I picked up the nearest phone to call I-J headquarters, with the administrator at my elbow insisting there was no time.

"Oh yes there is," I smiled to myself as the switchboard girl came on, and asked for an outside line.

But the administrator had the last laugh. "You can't have an outside line," barked the switchboard girl. "You're supposed to evacuate." And plunk, she cut us off.

WHY WAS THE ambulance delayed in getting to the stricken Novato fire chief at the time of the Burdell mansion fire?

There's been no official report on the incident to the county supervisors as yet. But Kenneth Hall of Doctor's Ambulance gave this explanation:

It was a foul-up in dispatch. The ambulance men got instructions to head for a fire on San Marin Drive. So they ran up and down San Marin looking for fire or smoke. "All this time," said Hale, "the dispatcher kept saying, 'Look for the flames; can't you see the flames'?" Actually the victim was on Highway 101 north of San Marain Drive, where he was stricken while heading for the Burdell mansion fire further north.

New procedures adopted for the communications system should help reduce such foul-ups in the future. They're going to have additional dispatchers so that one man won't have to handle all calls by himself. Further, the ambulance, firemen or police who get dispatched will repeat the destination address as a double check to make sure the message is accurately transmitted.

THE PROPOSAL to swap land north of the Civic Center for the old San Rafael courthouse gives you some idea of inflating land values. They're talking of $30,000 to $40,000 per acre, whereas back in 1956 the present Civic Center site was acquired for something like $3,000 per acre.

Hovercraft's First Runs Described As 'Fantastic'

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Passengers were skimmed across the Straits of Georgia yesterday in a Hovercraft, an air-cushioned craft vessel its backers hope will revolutionize transportation methods in the northern regions.

Byng Heeney, executive vice president of Pacific Hovercraft Ltd., said the 35-passenger vessel made two return trips between here and Nanaimo, located 40 miles away on Vancouver Island.

Supported by a four - foot cushion of air, the 10-ton, 48-foot Hovercraft is capable of speeds exceeding 60 miles an hour, whether on land, snow or water.

Yesterday's runs were Canada's first scheduled Hovercraft passenger service.

"It was just fantastic," Heeney said. "Mind you there were a few empty seats on the first trip to Nanaimo but on the way back and on the other return trip we actually had to turn passengers away."

Heeney said public reaction has been "terrific" and added there has been no adverse comment to date "although we are expecting some."

He did not elaborate.

"I do a lot of business in Nanaimo and the Hovercraft will save me about two hours a day," Muye said.

"The Hovercraft is not as comfortable as the B.C. Ferry," Miss Karen Henderson said. "But it sure is faster and I guess that's what counts since it's mainly for the businessman."

Powered by a 900-horsepower Bristol Siddeley gas turbine, the Hovercraft is capable of traveling from Vancouver to the island in less than 50 minutes.

By comparison the 1,000-passenger B.C. Ferry take almost two hours.

At present, Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. has only one air cushioned vehicle ferrying the 40-mile distance across the Straits of Georgia to Nanaimo but two other SR-N6 models are expected here in March or April.

Heeney said that by this summer the company will be operating six return trips daily to both Nanaimo and Victoria.

Minister Hit For Behavior

LONDON (AP) — The Lord Mayor's Court convicted a young Presbyterian minister from Northern Ireland today of "indecent behavior" for blocking the Archbishop of Canterbury's way at an ecumenical service Jan. 22 and shouting, "Go back! Hypocrite!"

Rev. Thomas Foster, 25, was ordered to pay nearly $50 in fines and legal costs.

He was charged under the Ecclesiastical Courts Jurisdiction Act, which says interruption of a church service is indecent. Another charge of riotous behavior was dropped.

the rent. Within seven months, he said, his rent was raised from $100 to $120.

Mrs. Griffin said that there is another side to the story because some students move in and wreck a house. Then, she said, landlords think all the people will be like that."

Many students, questioned about housing, said they have no problems since they live at home.

However, those poeple who are married or prefer to live alone, often have to live in some sort of converted structure or house on wheels.

For example, Mursalin Machado lives in San Anselmo in a converted garage with a leaky roof. Living with his wife, he says he pays $70 a month rent and that it's difficult to find anything of any size under $150.

Joe Ward said he ended up renting a garage when he couldn't find a place within his $50 budget. "I insulated and put electricity in all according to code," he said.

Steven Bright and his wife lived in a housetruck last semester and parked it in back of a Sausalito store at night. "I would drive to school with my wife and she would sit in it with the dog and cat. When I finished class, I would drive back to our parking space," he said.

The Brights now rent a converted trailer at 329 Auburn Drive in San Rafael. The bathroom, he said, is in an attached shed. "You go out the front door to get into it. The house is a little better than a truck," said Bright.

The college provides a set of cards listing people who have places to rent. This is in the office of Charles P. Herndon, director of placement and financial aid.

The cards number from about 100 at the start of the semester and drop down to about 20, Herndon said. "We always have cards on file," he added.

Herndon estimates that 30 to 40 per cent of the students don't live with their parents but he has no statistics on what types of domiciles students do live in.

CONVERTED TRAILER—Steven Bright studies on porch of his converted trailer in San Rafael, an ear of Indian corn hanging behind him. Last semester he and his wife lived in a housetruck. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

There have been more housing requests this semester, he said, and surmised it is because people are "bailing out" of San Francisco State and San Francisco City Colleges.

Most student requests fall in two categories — students who want to share a place with another student and those who want to work for their room or room and board.

"We get a lot of mamas who come in with daughters saying, 'Where can I put my daughter?' We refer the mamas to the card file and I recommend them to those who want someone to live in to take care of children."

There are no plans now to provide student housing such as a dormitory, Dale A. Fleming, college director of planning and research, said, adding that there is no land space until some land is filled.

Last year a plan for a 100-unit dormitory was submitted by Jules Becker of Ross and other businessmen to be run on a lease basis at no cost to the college. This was turned down, Fleming said, because of other long-term uses for the proposed site, a Kent Avenue parking lot.

Signs of the times at the college are the bulletin boards which display such messages as: "Looking for apartment to share in Marin. Call Ray." "Needed: Ride to and from SF or Berkeley. Will share gas and tolls. Call Ben." "Comfortable living space required by transcendentalist meditator. Share apartment. House. Flat. Contact Eric."

JOB NO. 655

MARIN COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals will be received by, and shall be filed with, the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, Room 315, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California, until 2:00 P.M., March 3, 1969, for:

Construction of roadway improvements on Mount Lassen Drive between Lucas Valley Road and Miller Creek Bridge, Marin County, California; consisting of grading, paving, and other related construction.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin. Request for forms or information shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Plans, cross sections and Specifications (but not including Standard Specifications, or other documents included by reference), and Proposal Forms may be obtained by prospective bidders upon payment of a deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) (cash or check made payable to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin) to guarantee safe return of the plans and specifications within ten (10) days after bid opening. Failure to so return the plans and specifications will cause forfeiture of the deposit to the County.

All bids must be submitted on the Proposal form obtained from the Department of Public Works and shall be accompanied by a Proposal Guaranty of at least ten percent (10%) of the bid. Guaranties shall be in the form of a certified or Cashier's Check or a Bidder's Bond. Failure of the successful bidder to execute and return the contract, or to file acceptable bond, as required, within the time allotted shall be cause for the annulment of the award and forfeiture of the Proposal Guaranty.

The bid bonds of bidders, other than the successful bidder, may be retained by the Board of Supervisors for a period of thirty (30) days after award or until the successful bidder executes the contract and furnishes bonds, whichever occurs first. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded fails, or refuses, to execute the contract within fifteen (15) days of notice of award, as herein provided, the Board of Supervisors may award to the next lowest responsible bidder and apply the bid bond of the bidder failing, or refusing, to execute contract, against the County's damages resulting from such failure. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded executes the contract as herein required, the bid bonds of bidders to whom no award was made will be returned upon request.

Said proposals will be opened and read at 2:00 P.M. in Room No. 343, Marin County Civic Center, on the day specified above for receiving bids. Only the total amount bid will be read and not specific items going to make up said total unless written request for reading of each sub-total and individual items of the bid is requested in writing at the time of the submission of proposals. Bidders will be at liberty to inspect and review bids in the Office of the Director of Public Works to which they will be removed for the purpose of checking after the opening and reading of the totals.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will award the bid at 1:45 P.M. March 4, 1969, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein, and neither partial bids nor contingent bids will be considered.

TIME LIMIT

The Contractor shall commence work on or before the fifteenth (15th) day following the date of written notification by the Director of Public Works that the contract has been awarded by the Board of Supervisors. During this fifteen (15) day interval, the necessary contract documents shall be executed by the Contractor and returned to the Department of Public Works. High School Open Campus Issue Raised

Proposals for an open campus at San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools will be discussed by the San Rafael Board of Education, meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

Students at San Rafaedl High have voted in favor of a plan to allow students in all four grades to leave the campus with parental permission at noon and during free periods. A similar plan is proposed for Terra Linda.

The plan has, however, received some outspoken opposition from parents who believe such a program might create problems of discipline.

The board will also consider the hiring of three new teachers, additions to the adult evening education courses and summer school courses.

Job Clarified

Leslie I. Hood Jr. of Mill Valley, selected last week as public relations consultant for Fair-Marin, is a former director of public information for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, and is no longer with the district, as reported incorrectly Thursday by the Independent-Journal.

BE A KNOW-BODY!
We can't tell you what you'll see tonight on KRON-TV newscasts because news just keeps on happening. The best thing to do is watch—and Art Brown will help you become a 'know-body!
11 O'CLOCK FINAL REPORT 4 KRON-TV

"YOU'RE KIDDING! 10 LESSONS* — $10?"
"That's Right . . . It's Our 54th Anniversary Special!"
"WHY ARE YOU MAKING THIS UNUSUAL OFFER?"
"It's Arthur Murray's 54th Anniversary Gift to you. We want you to see for yourself how quickly and easily you can learn to become a good dancer. We guarantee you'll be dancing tonight after just one lesson."
"YOU'VE GOT TO BE KIDDING! WHAT CAN I LEARN?"
"Any of the popular dances of your choice — Fox Trot, Waltz, Rumba, Swing, Cha-Cha, Tango, Merengue, Samba — even the latest Discotheque dances."
"YOU'RE KIDDING, I COULDN'T LEARN ALL OF THOSE!"
"You're right! You couldn't learn all of them. But the average person can learn the basic steps in from 3-6 dances in that time — depending on his ability. Mind you . . . you won't look like Arthur or Kathryn Murray—or even Fred Astaire for that matter . . . oops!"
"SUPPOSING, JUST SUPPOSING, I'M NOT SATISFIED?"
"Well, just supposing we give you your money back—all $10. How does that sound to you?"
"YOU'RE KIDDING!"
"Try us and see!"
"WHAT DO I HAVE TO DO?"
"Just call now and make an appointment or drop in to see us. Of course there's no hurry —you could wait 'til next year."
"SAY-Y! I DON'T EVEN KNOW YOUR NAME!"
"You're kidding!"

High School Open Campus Issue Raised

Proposals for an open campus at San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools will be discussed by the San Rafael Board of Education, meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

Students at San Rafaedl High have voted in favor of a plan to allow students in all four grades to leave the campus with parental permission at noon and during free periods. A similar plan is proposed for Terra Linda.

The plan has, however, received some outspoken opposition from parents who believe such a program might create problems of discipline.

The board will also consider the hiring of three new teachers, additions to the adult evening education courses and summer school courses.

Job Clarified

Leslie I. Hood Jr. of Mill Valley, selected last week as public relations consultant for Fair-Marin, is a former director of public information for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, and is no longer with the district, as reported incorrectly Thursday by the Independent-Journal.

Baseball Sides Still Working Toward Settlement

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Take it from Ernie Banks: "Everything will be fine in '69!"

Banks, of course, is the eternal optimist. And the Sunshine Kid really wasn't thinking about the general state of the game of baseball this winter when he issued his annual pronouncement on the Chicago Cubs' pennant prospects.

Or was he?

Despite the impasse in the owner-player pension hassle, with its accompanying player boycott of spring training camps, there were indications from a couple of high places during the weekend that a 1969 season might come off after all.

Saturday, American League President Joe Cronin declared that AL play will begin, on schedule, April 7, "no matter what."

Last night, new Commissioner Bowie Kuhn cut short a Florida vacation-orientation trip and returned to New York for today's scheduled pension negotiations, saying he believes a settlement can be reached this week.

Carl Yastrzemski, Boston's three-time A.L. batting champion, hinted yesterday he might sign a Red Sox contract and be on hand Wednesday for the club's first full scale workout at Winter Haven, Fla. Ken Harrelson, signed by the Red Sox last summer, said earlier he intends to report to camp.

Unsigned pitcher Tom Seaver, a 16-game winner for the New York Mets last season, told newsmen in St. Petersburg, Fla., "I think you'll be seeing me shortly. I will not strike."

Shortstop Luis Aparicio, who signed his 1969 pact last fall, reported to the Chicago White Sox' Sarasota, Fla., training base and said he'd be in uniform for today'sk drill.

The New York Yankees reported that 37 of the 43 players on their spring roster either have signed contracts or agreed to terms, and the Mets said they were prepared to play their exhibition schedule with or without established players.

The owners turned down a players' compromise proposal of a $5.9 million pension package last Friday and asked that their own $5.3 million offer, rejected unanimously by the 24 club player representatives, be put to a vote of all the players.

They agreed to another bargaining session today but refused to join the players in a meeting with a federal mediator.

The players' negotiators said they would attend the meeting with Frank Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, anyway.

Cronin said the American League will open for business on schedule, regardless of the outcome of the dispute, because "I don't see any reason to take any other attitude. Both sides want to resolve the issues and that is a good situation."

Kuhn visited the Mets' training base Sunday and took a few swings in the batting cage before flying to New York "to do everything I can to help get the people together."

The commissioner, an attorney for the National League before his election to the game's top executive job earlier this month, said he couldn't "act as an arbitrator in my position, but I will do everything in my power to help them reach a fair settlement."

"I am going to talk to O'Connell again Wednesday morning," he said.

Was it possible he would sign Wednesday? "It's not impossible," he replied. "This is a difficult situation because so many people are watching and waiting to see what I do."

"If Yaz signs, I think most of the club will fall rapidly into line," O'Connell said.

O'Connell said the Red Sox have loaned players as much as $5,000 in the past and "in some cases, when a player has been in difficult financial straits, we have not asked for repayment of the money.

"Perhaps in the future, when some player wants to borrow $5,000 for a down payment on a new home, we may have to suggest he borrow it from the union or tell him there's a bank down the street."

Griffith promised stiff penalties for any Minnesota player who isn't in shape for the opening of the regular season because of his late arrival in camp.

"If any of my players haven't reported by March 1, they'll see some surprises," he said. "If they want to be union men, we'll treat them as union men instead of socialites."

Novato Wrestlers Win Norcal Title

Donaldson Twins Bag Top Honors

Led by the fabulous Donaldson twins, Kirt and Ken, Novato High School won the Northern California High School wrestling championship Saturday in thrilling finals matches at Civic Auditorium in Stockton.

With a crowd estimated at 4,000 persons looking on, Kirt Donaldson won the 115 pound individual championship and Ken took the 123-pound crown, both on valuable falls, and each piling up 15 points with four consecutive victories. And in an unprecedented gesture, tournament officials voted both boys winners of the outstanding wrestling award.

SECOND

Novato's Rod McCown placed second in the 148-pound division for 10 points and Paul Robertson picked up a vital point in the 136-pound class to help the Hornets total 41 points to runner-up Los Gatos High's 40.

Thus, with an extra point for a fall, both Donaldsons came through under tremendous pressure in the finals. After scoring a fall and then 1-0 and 3-0 decisions, Kirt pinned defending champion Bill Daugherty of San Juan High of Citrus Heights. Ken scored a 910 victory in his first match, a fall in the second, an 18-3 decision in the third and added the coup de grace by pinning Mitch Penny of San Jose's Lynbrook High in the finals.

"SWEATED"

Novato Coach Ralph Cutler said, "We really sweated it out Saturday night. Going into the evening finals we had a 33-30 lead over Los Gatos, but in the first match they (Los Gatos) went ahead 34-30. Then along came Kirt to make it 37-34 for us and Ken's victory gave us our 41 points. Los Gatos could have tied us, but their boy was unable to score a fall in the 130-pound finals so we beat them by a point."

Approximately 85 schools participated in the California Interscholastic Federation-sanctioned tournament. Novato's victory marked the first time since the tourney started in 1951 that the championship was won by a school north of San Francisco.

Other leading schools and their points: Ukiah 27, San Juan 23, Tennyson of Hayward 23, Mountain View 20, Fremont of Sunnyvale 19 and Andrew Hill of San Jose 17.

TUCSON OPEN

Trevino Breezes To Big Victory

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lee Trevino dropped putts in the wind, rain, snow and also in the sunshine as he won the $100,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament and observed:

"Putting is like a wife. Sometimes she'll be good to you."

The 29-year-old ex-Marine from El Paso, who hit the jackpot U.S. Open with his first victory on the pro golf tour in 1968, visited the winner's circle for $20,000 yesterday.

He met one early challenge and then flew off to a seven-stroke victory with a 66 on his final round, on a balmy day, and a 271-total-equalling the tournament record since the event moved to the Tucson National Golf Club course in 1965.

"If you putt good, your game goes good," declared Trevino, who will leave the tour for a week to visit his wife and 3-year-old daughter in El Paso.

"You know, I called my wife on Saturday night and told her I had a five-stroke lead, and she didn't believe me. I wish she could have been here."

Trevino had fired a 68 on Satthen added his six under par yesterday to capture the title, 17 under regulation figures for the 72-hole tournament.

Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., finished second with a 68-278, with Bert Yancey of Tallahassee, Fla., third at 69-279 for $11,400 and $7,100, respectively.

Tied for third were Don Bies of Seattle at 69-280, Gene Littler of San Diego with a 68, and Dr. Ed Updegraff, 46, a urologist, who shot a 67 on his final round. Then he failed to sign his card.

Technically, he was diaqualified, but Dr. Updegraff, couldn't collect money anyway since he chooses to remain an amateur. Bies and Littler each got $4,400.

"At the fourth hole, I saw the handwriting on the wall" he observed, You have to have some luck to win."

At the fourth, Yancey teed off first and put his ball 12 feet beyond the cup on the 165-yard, par-3 hole. Trevino was off the tee next. His shot hit Yancey's ball into a trap and spun back.

Trevino estimated he stopped four feet from the hole. Others thought it twice the distance, but Lee sank the putt for his second birdie of the day.

Yancey replaced his ball on the green, as he could according to the rules, but two-putted.

Yancey had birdied the first and second holes, cutting Trevino's lead to three strokes, before Lee birdied the second.

Trevino sank his putt from 16 feet at the fifth and from 2½ feet at the sixth, a par-5. He dropped a 20-footer at the eighth and made the turn six strokes in front of his nearest rival.

Right now, it's home to El Paso, for Trevino, and even though the Doral Tournament at Miami might be lucrative, he's skipping that as the other pros move from the West to Miami.

"I promised my wife and little girl that I'd be home," Trevino explained. "That's where I'm going."

Lonely Spot In Arizona

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Casa Grande, a pretty busy place at this time of the year, was a lonely spot in the Arizona desert today as the San Francisco Giants opened their spring training camp.

There were supposed to be 18 pitchers and five catchers on hand when new manager Clyde King opened camp. The only ones who did show up were the rookie hurlers and catchers and veteran Gaylord Perry. There was no indication, though, that Perry would work out since he has not signed his 1969 contract.

Others on hand, known to Giants fans by virtue of previous brief flings with the club, included infielders Bobby Etheridge and Bob Burda, plus the coaching staff of Larry Jansen, West Westrum and Ozzie Virgil.

Willie Mays also was in camp but for another reason. The Giants outfielder turned television sportscaster was here to tape some shows and not to work out.

He and the other Giants veterans—as well as some 400 others around the majors—are boycotting spring training until a Players Association dispute with the club owners over an improved pension plan had been resolved.

"I'm itching to go," said Mays. "I haven't touched a baseball in more than four months. But I won't sign or report until the dispute is settled."

That just about summed up the feelings of the other San Francisco veterans, including Willie McCovey, Jim Hart, Juan Marichal and Ron Hunt.

Russian Booters Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dynamo Kiev of the Soviet Union won the first game but the California Clippers showed once again they can play on a par with the world's best soccer teams.

Speedy forward Anotolidy Puzach scored all three Dynamo goals yesterday as the Soviet team beat the Clippers, 3-2, in the first game ever played between the United States and the USSR.

A crowd of 11,815 who turned out on a cold and rainy afternoon at Kezar Stadium saw the Clippers dominate the action in the second half. It was a bit late by then but the host club earned a lot of respect in the process.

Puzach scored 45 seconds after the opening whistle for a 1-0 lead. After the Clippers tied it on a goal by Cirilo Fernandez 15 seconds later, Puzach booted in a six-yarder for his second tally in the 19th minute. He got his final goal in the 33rd minute after faking two Clipper defenders out of position.

Fernandez scored California's second goal as well, getting it on a 20-yard penalty kick early in the second half. A third Clipper goal—by Ilija Mitic—was not allowed.

At first, head linesman Henry Landuer signalled goal on a 20-yard boot but referee Rigo Bolanos overruled him, saying Soviet goal keeper Yevgenyiy Radakov had possession of the ball and that not all of it had penetrated the net area.

The two teams meet again next Sunday in Los Angeles and then come back for a third match at Kezar Stadium March 9.

A third-period goal by Ted Irvine from a faceoff in front of the Oakland net at 7:26 of the third period broke a 3-3 tie last night and lifted the Kings to a 4-3 win over the Seals. In posting their first win at the Coliseum-Arena, the Kings broke a five-game losing skein.

In five meetings this season, Los Angeles has won three and tied two with the Seals who have at least one victory over every other club in the NHL this season.

Oakland center Ted Hampson then tallied his 20th and 21st goals of the campaign before Carol Vadnais tied the score at 3-3 at 14:19 of the middle period with his 14th goal of the season, high for NHL defensemen.

A crowd of 5,485 watched glumly as Irvine zipped the puck past goaltender Gary Smith in the final period to put the third-place Kings seven points behind second-place Oakland in the Western Division.

Racing To Begin

ALBANY (AP) — The $20,000-added Golden Bear Stakes for 3-year-olds was the feature of today's opening program for Golden Gate Fields' 80-day thoroughbred racing season.

Determination, Skill Win For Yarbrough

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sheer determination and skill brought Lee Roy Yarbrough his biggest payoff in eight years of big time stock car racing. But pit crews will debate for a long time whether a tire change might have made the difference between the winner and second-place Charlie Glotzbach in the Daytona 500 yesterday.

In the background of the mechanical controversy were two former champion drivers—Junior Johnson, who prepared Yarbrough's 1969 Ford Talladega, and Cotton Ownes, who did the same with Glotzbach's 1969 Dodge Charger 500.

BY A LENGTH

Yarbrough, who was runner-up in both the Daytona 500 and Firecracker 400 at Daytona International Speedway last year, passed Glotzbach one mile from home and finished a car length in front.

"I was going flat out and I couldn't slingshot past him off the fourth turn," Glotzbach said.

Yarbrough, giving his account of the final laps, said: "I actually caught him on the lap before but decided to wait till the last lap, ahere he could not gain enough momentum to pass me back."

They waged a two-car duel through the last 100 miles after Donnie Allison—who led 87 of the 200 laps around the 2.5-mile high banked track—brushed the wall and lost some of his speed.

TIRE CHANGE

The crucial tire change came 50 miles before the finish. Yarbrough pitted 21 seconds. In addition to fueling, the changed the left rear tire. Glotzbach was in the pit only 18 seconds, just for fuel.

""'We put on a soft tire,' 'said Herb Nab of Yarbrough's crew. "It wouldn't go a long distance but it grabbed the track real good the time he needed it."

Ownes said he decided against a tire change on the last stop because "we were trying to save seconds."

When both cars went into the final laps, it appeared the three-second difference had won the race for Glotzbach, the comparative newcomer from Georgetown, Ind. But Yarbrough steadily closed in.

DANGEROUS

After he got past a dangerous situation just before passing Glotzbach, he had the tiny speed margin that brought him $38,950 in prize money compared to $18,425 for Glotzbach.

That dangerous situation cropped up when the two cars overtook a slower one on the backstretch.

"I went past him on one side and Charlie on the other side," Yarbrough recalled. "I just hoped he was experienced enough to look in his rear view mirror and wouldn't just move over the other way when he saw the first car come by."

He was

It was a big double over the weekend for Yarbrough. He also won the Permatex 300 race for older sportsman type cars Saturday and collected $9,225 for that one—a weekend total of $48,205 to take back to Columbia, S.C.

Yesterday's victory was a

Baseball Sides Still Working Toward Settlement

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Take it from Ernie Banks: "Everything will be fine in '69!"

Banks, of course, is the eternal optimist. And the Sunshine Kid really wasn't thinking about the general state of the game of baseball this winter when he issued his annual pronouncement on the Chicago Cubs' pennant prospects.

Or was he?

Despite the impasse in the owner-player pension hassle, with its accompanying player boycott of spring training camps, there were indications from a couple of high places during the weekend that a 1969 season might come off after all.

Saturday, American League President Joe Cronin declared that AL play will begin, on schedule, April 7, "no matter what."

Last night, new Commissioner Bowie Kuhn cut short a Florida vacation-orientation trip and returned to New York for today's scheduled pension negotiations, saying he believes a settlement can be reached this week.

Carl Yastrzemski, Boston's three-time A.L. batting champion, hinted yesterday he might sign a Red Sox contract and be on hand Wednesday for the club's first full scale workout at Winter Haven, Fla. Ken Harrelson, signed by the Red Sox last summer, said earlier he intends to report to camp.

Unsigned pitcher Tom Seaver, a 16-game winner for the New York Mets last season, told newsmen in St. Petersburg, Fla., "I think you'll be seeing me shortly. I will not strike."

Shortstop Luis Aparicio, who signed his 1969 pact last fall, reported to the Chicago White Sox' Sarasota, Fla., training base and said he'd be in uniform for today'sk drill.

The New York Yankees reported that 37 of the 43 players on their spring roster either have signed contracts or agreed to terms, and the Mets said they were prepared to play their exhibition schedule with or without established players.

The owners turned down a players' compromise proposal of a $5.9 million pension package last Friday and asked that their own $5.3 million offer, rejected unanimously by the 24 club player representatives, be put to a vote of all the players.

They agreed to another bargaining session today but refused to join the players in a meeting with a federal mediator.

The players' negotiators said they would attend the meeting with Frank Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, anyway.

Cronin said the American League will open for business on schedule, regardless of the outcome of the dispute, because "I don't see any reason to take any other attitude. Both sides want to resolve the issues and that is a good situation."

Kuhn visited the Mets' training base Sunday and took a few swings in the batting cage before flying to New York "to do everything I can to help get the people together."

The commissioner, an attorney for the National League before his election to the game's top executive job earlier this month, said he couldn't "act as an arbitrator in my position, but I will do everything in my power to help them reach a fair settlement."

"I am going to talk to O'Connell again Wednesday morning," he said.

Was it possible he would sign Wednesday? "It's not impossible," he replied. "This is a difficult situation because so many people are watching and waiting to see what I do."

"If Yaz signs, I think most of the club will fall rapidly into line," O'Connell said.

O'Connell said the Red Sox have loaned players as much as $5,000 in the past and "in some cases, when a player has been in difficult financial straits, we have not asked for repayment of the money.

"Perhaps in the future, when some player wants to borrow $5,000 for a down payment on a new home, we may have to suggest he borrow it from the union or tell him there's a bank down the street."

Griffith promised stiff penalties for any Minnesota player who isn't in shape for the opening of the regular season because of his late arrival in camp.

"If any of my players haven't reported by March 1, they'll see some surprises," he said. "If they want to be union men, we'll treat them as union men instead of socialites."

Novato Wrestlers Win Norcal Title

Donaldson Twins Bag Top Honors

Led by the fabulous Donaldson twins, Kirt and Ken, Novato High School won the Northern California High School wrestling championship Saturday in thrilling finals matches at Civic Auditorium in Stockton.

With a crowd estimated at 4,000 persons looking on, Kirt Donaldson won the 115 pound individual championship and Ken took the 123-pound crown, both on valuable falls, and each piling up 15 points with four consecutive victories. And in an unprecedented gesture, tournament officials voted both boys winners of the outstanding wrestling award.

SECOND

Novato's Rod McCown placed second in the 148-pound division for 10 points and Paul Robertson picked up a vital point in the 136-pound class to help the Hornets total 41 points to runner-up Los Gatos High's 40.

Thus, with an extra point for a fall, both Donaldsons came through under tremendous pressure in the finals. After scoring a fall and then 1-0 and 3-0 decisions, Kirt pinned defending champion Bill Daugherty of San Juan High of Citrus Heights. Ken scored a 910 victory in his first match, a fall in the second, an 18-3 decision in the third and added the coup de grace by pinning Mitch Penny of San Jose's Lynbrook High in the finals.

"SWEATED"

Novato Coach Ralph Cutler said, "We really sweated it out Saturday night. Going into the evening finals we had a 33-30 lead over Los Gatos, but in the first match they (Los Gatos) went ahead 34-30. Then along came Kirt to make it 37-34 for us and Ken's victory gave us our 41 points. Los Gatos could have tied us, but their boy was unable to score a fall in the 130-pound finals so we beat them by a point."

Approximately 85 schools participated in the California Interscholastic Federation-sanctioned tournament. Novato's victory marked the first time since the tourney started in 1951 that the championship was won by a school north of San Francisco.

Other leading schools and their points: Ukiah 27, San Juan 23, Tennyson of Hayward 23, Mountain View 20, Fremont of Sunnyvale 19 and Andrew Hill of San Jose 17.

TUCSON OPEN

Trevino Breezes To Big Victory

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lee Trevino dropped putts in the wind, rain, snow and also in the sunshine as he won the $100,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament and observed:

"Putting is like a wife. Sometimes she'll be good to you."

The 29-year-old ex-Marine from El Paso, who hit the jackpot U.S. Open with his first victory on the pro golf tour in 1968, visited the winner's circle for $20,000 yesterday.

He met one early challenge and then flew off to a seven-stroke victory with a 66 on his final round, on a balmy day, and a 271-total-equalling the tournament record since the event moved to the Tucson National Golf Club course in 1965.

"If you putt good, your game goes good," declared Trevino, who will leave the tour for a week to visit his wife and 3-year-old daughter in El Paso.

"You know, I called my wife on Saturday night and told her I had a five-stroke lead, and she didn't believe me. I wish she could have been here."

Trevino had fired a 68 on Sat- then added his six under par yesterday to capture the title, 17 under regulation figures for the 72-hole tournament.

Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., finished second with a 68-278, with Bert Yancey of Tallahassee, Fla., third at 69-279 for $11,400 and $7,100, respectively.

Tied for third were Don Bies of Seattle at 69-280, Gene Littler of San Diego with a 68, and Dr. Ed Updegraff, 46, a urologist, who shot a 67 on his final round. Then he failed to sign his card.

Technically, he was diaqualified, but Dr. Updegraff, couldn't collect money anyway since he chooses to remain an amateur. Bies and Littler each got $4,400.

"At the fourth hole, I saw the handwriting on the wall" he observed, You have to have some luck to win."

At the fourth, Yancey teed off first and put his ball 12 feet beyond the cup on the 165-yard, par-3 hole. Trevino was off the tee next. His shot hit Yancey's ball into a trap and spun back.

Trevino estimated he stopped four feet from the hole. Others thought it twice the distance, but Lee sank the putt for his second birdie of the day.

Yancey replaced his ball on the green, as he could according to the rules, but two-putted.

Yancey had birdied the first and second holes, cutting Trevino's lead to three strokes, before Lee birdied the second.

Trevino sank his putt from 16 feet at the fifth and from 2½ feet at the sixth, a par-5. He dropped a 26-footer at the eighth and made the turn six strokes in front of his nearest rival.

Right now, it's home to El Paso, for Trevino, and even though the Doral Tournament at Miami might be lucrative, he's skipping that as the other pros move from the West to Miami.

"I promised my wife and little girl that I'd be home," Trevino explained. "That's where I'm going."

Lonely Spot In Arizona

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Casa Grande, a pretty busy place at this time of the year, was a lonely spot in the Arizona desert today as the San Francisco Giants opened their spring training camp.

There were supposed to be 18 pitchers and five catchers on hand when new manager Clyde King opened camp. The only ones who did show up were the rookie hurlers and catchers and veteran Gaylord Perry. There was no indication, though, that Perry would work out since he has not signed his 1969 contract.

Others on hand, known to Giants fans by virtue of previous brief flings with the club, included infielders Bobby Etheridge and Bob Burda, plus the coaching staff of Larry Jansen, West Westrum and Ozzie Virgil.

Willie Mays also was in camp but for another reason. The Giants outfielder turned television sportscaster was here to tape some shows and not to work out.

He and the other Giants veterans—as well as some 400 others around the majors—are boycotting spring training until a Players Association dispute with the club owners over an improved pension plan had been resolved.

"I'm itching to go," said Mays. "I haven't touched a baseball in more than four months. But I won't sign or report until the dispute is settled."

That just about summed up the feelings of the other San Francisco veterans, including Willie McCovey, Jim Hart, Juan Marichal and Ron Hunt.

Russian Booters Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Dynamo Kiev of the Soviet Union won the first game but the California Clippers showed once again they can play on a par with the world's best soccer teams.

Speedy forward Anotolidy Puzach scored all three Dynamo goals yesterday as the Soviet team beat the Clippers, 3-2, in the first game ever played between the United States and the USSR.

A crowd of 11,815 who turned out on a cold and rainy afternoon at Kezar Stadium saw the Clippers dominate the action in the second half. It was a bit late by then but the host club earned a lot of respect in the process.

Puzach scored 45 seconds after the opening whistle for a 1-0 lead. After the Clippers tied it on a goal by Cirilo Fernandez 15 seconds later, Puzach booted in a six-yarder for his second tally in the 19th minute. He got his final goal in the 33rd minute after faking two Clipper defenders out of position.

Fernandez scored California's second goal as well, getting it on a 20-yard penalty kick early in the second half. A third Clipper goal—by Ilija Mitic—was not allowed.

At first, head linesman Henry Landuer signalled goal on a 20-yard boot but referee Rigo Bolanos overruled him, saying Soviet goal keeper Yevgenyiy Radakov had possession of the ball and that not all of it had penetrated the net area.

The two teams meet again next Sunday in Los Angeles and then come back for a third match at Kezar Stadium March 9.

A third-period goal by Ted Irvine from a faceoff in front of the Oakland net at 7:26 of the third period broke a 3-3 tie last night and lifted the Kings to a 4-3 win over the Seals. In posting their first win at the Coliseum-Arena, the Kings broke a five-game losing skein.

In five meetings this season, Los Angeles has won three and tied two with the Seals who have at least one victory over every other club in the NHL this season.

Oakland center Ted Hampson then tallied his 20th and 21st goals of the campaign before Carol Vadnais tied the score at 3-3 at 14:19 of the middle period with his 14th goal of the season, high for NHL defensemen.

A crowd of 5,485 watched glumly as Irvine zipped the puck past goaltender Gary Smith in the final period to put the third-place Kings seven points behind second-place Oakland in the Western Division.

Determination, Skill Win For Yarbrough

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sheer determination and skill brought Lee Roy Yarbrough his biggest payoff in eight years of big time stock car racing. But pit crews will debate for a long time whether a tire change might have made the difference between the winner and second-place Charlie Glotzbach in the Daytona 500 yesterday.

In the background of the mechanical controversy were two former champion drivers—Junior Johnson, who prepared Yarbrough's 1969 Ford Talladega, and Cotton Ownes, who did the same with Glotzbach's 1969 Dodge Charger 500.

BY A LENGTH

Yarbrough, who was runner-up in both the Daytona 500 and Firecracker 400 at Daytona International Speedway last year, passed Glotzbach one mile from home and finished a car length in front.

"I was going flat out and I couldn't slingshot past him off the fourth turn," Glotzbach said.

Yarbrough, giving his account of the final laps, said: "I actually caught him on the lap before but decided to wait till the last lap, ahere he could not gain enough momentum to pass me back."

They waged a two-car duel through the last 100 miles after Donnie Allison—who led 87 of the 200 laps around the 2.5-mile high banked track—brushed the wall and lost some of his speed.

TIRE CHANGE

The crucial tire change came 50 miles before the finish. Yarbrough pitted 21 seconds. In addition to fueling, the changed the left rear tire. Glotzbach was in the pit only 18 seconds, just for fuel.

"'We put on a soft tire,' 'said Herb Nab of Yarbrough's crew. "It wouldn't go a long distance but it grabbed the track real good the time he needed it."

Ownes said he decided against a tire change on the last stop because "we were trying to save seconds."

When both cars went into the final laps, it appeared the three-second difference had won the race for Glotzbach, the comparative newcomer from Georgetown, Ind. But Yarbrough steadily closed in.

DANGEROUS

After he got past a dangerous situation just before passing Glotzbach, he had the tiny speed margin that brought him $38,950 in prize money compared to $18,425 for Glotzbach.

That dangerous situation cropped up when the two cars overtook a slower one on the backstretch.

"I went past him on one side and Charlie on the other side," Yarbrough recalled. "I just hoped he was experienced enough to look in his rear view mirror and wouldn't just move over the other way when he saw the first car come by."

He was

It was a big double over the weekend for Yarbrough. He also won the Permatex 300 race for older sportsman type cars Saturday and collected $9,225 for that one—a weekend total of $48,205 to take back to Columbia, S.C.

Death At Race Track Brings Safety Review

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The death of driver Don MacTavish during a stock car race here this weekend will bring about a review of safety precautions at the huge Daytona International Raceway.

A speedway spokesman said films of the four-car accident in which MacTavish died Saturday will be studied and a minute inspection made of the section of the track where it occurred.

MacTavish, a 26-year-old veteran from Dover, Mass., was killed when he lost control of his car, spun into the grandstand wall and was struck virtually head-on by a car driven by Sam Sommers of Savannah, Ga.

MacTavish's car actually rammed into a heavy steel wire gate that closes one of five entrances that carry spectator traffic across the track into and out of the vast speedway infield.

During races, these gates are closed and become part of a concrete wall that runs the entire length of the grandstand straightaway.

"We watch for them," said Bobby Allison, who drove in the 300-mile race in which MacTavish lost his life.

"They're no more dangerous than other points on the track, but the one MacTavish hit is probably the worst because it is located at a point where you're at top speed coming off the fourth turn," Allison said.

McTavish, barrelling down the straightaway at about 180 miles an hour, suddenly swerved into the wall, with the biggest portion of the front end of his car striking the wire gate.

The give of the gate bounced the car back onto the track, where it was fair game for Sommers, who had no chance to avoid a collision.

Most of the drivers who competed in the 800 miles of racing Saturday and yesterday saw MacTavish's crash. Several were of the opinion that the New Englander simply lost control coming off the turn.

Daytona Speedway President William H.G. France said that prior to Saturday, 517,889 miles of high speed racing had taken place on the track without a fatality. None of five previous deaths at the track came in a stock car race.

Meantime, MacTavish's body was being sent to Needham, Mass., for funeral and burial services later in the week.

sweet one for the Ford factory team, denied use of its new 429-cubic inch stagger-valve engine and forced to rely on the old 427-cubic inch tunnelport power plant with a single fourbarrel carburetor. Last year, Ford could use two carburetors, but the rules changed.

Aerodynanic design of the Talladega model was credited for faster speeds, and Yarbrough actually set a race record of 157.950 m.p.h. It wiped out the 154.334 mark set by Richard Petty in 1966.

Ford took the next two places behind Glotzbach.

Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., finished third, one lap back, and collected $13,275. A.J. Foyt of Houston was fourth and got $5,800. Buddy Baker of Charlotte, who started a Dodge on the pole, came home fifth for $10,050.

RECORD

David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., who set a qualifying record of 190.029 m.p.h. in his Ford, ran into multiple troubles including fan belt bolts but managed to finish sixth for $5,600.

Benny Parsons of Detroit, who won the ARCA 300 a week earlier, drove the same Ford to seventh place in the faster NASCAR competition and won $3,450. He got a special award as rookie of the race.

Defending champion Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., was the only driver taken to the hospital. He was checked for foot and nose injuries—with no broken bones found—after his Ford hit the outer wall and rode along the concrete until it ground off the body on the right side.

Rains May Stop J.C. Baseball Tournament

College of Marin baseball coach Pete Limm kept a wary eye on the skies today to see if his Tars can complete their schedule in the Chabot College Invitational Tournament at Hayward after Saturday's games were rained out.

"If it rains much more we may just have to cancel the tournament," said Limm, whose Tars won their first game and tied the second game Friday.

In the opener it was Mike Terry who pitched the Tars to a 4-0 victory over San Josquin Delta College on a one-hitter. Gary Dinkel's bases-loaded triple gave Terry all the help he needed.

In the second game Marin's Kevin Wilson pitched his heart out for 10 innings before the Tars' game with Cabrillo College of Santa Cruz was called on account of darkness, tied at 2-2.

Marin was still awaiting word from Chabot Coloege today on its remaining schedule in the tournament. The Tars' next regularly scheduled competition will come Friday and Saturday at the Santa Rosa Junior College Invitational Tournament.

Golfers Tie At Mill Valley

Rick Paterson and Bernard Benish each netted a score of 60 to tie for first place in the Mill Valley Golf Club's 18-hole medal handicap golf tournament at the Mill Valley municipal course yesterday.

Scores: Paterson, 65-5—60; Benish, 86-26—60; Frank Lyman, 73-12—61; Dee Holcomb, 79-17—62; Al Walton, 75-12—63; Mario Polacchi, 77-14—63.

TWO TEAMS tied for first place in Saturday's best ball foursome golf tournament at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

Bruins Coming To The Bay Area

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA can lock up its third straight Pacific-8 Conference basketball title against Stanford and California this week but in the West Coast Athletic Conference, the race figures to go down to the wire now that San Jose State has knocked off high flying Santa Clara.

The Bruins, No. 1 nationally since the season started and overwhelming favorites to win the Pac-8 crown, whipped Oregon State, 91-66, and Oregon, 103-69, during the weekend to run their victory total to 38 straight and 85 in the last 86 games. They also improved their conference mark to 10-0 with four games left to play and their overall mark to 22-0.

This week, the Bruins play at Stanford on Friday night and at California, in Berkeley, Saturday night. A victory over the Indians would clinch a tie for the league title and another over Cal would lock things up.

In the WCAC, it's an entirely different story.

San Jose State upended Santa Clara, 73-69, in double overtime Friday night and then downed USF, 75-66, Saturday to move to within a game of the nationally No. 2 ranked Broncos, who recovered on Saturday to rout Santa Barbara, 91-71.

Pacific, which had been in a contending position, fell out of the race by bowing to Pepperdine, 66-64, and to Loyola, 67-59. That left the Stockton Tigers at 6-4 and out in the cold.

This week, Santa Clara, now 9-1 in the conference and 22-1 overall, plays Pepperdine and Loyola while San Jose State, 8-2 and 13-7, meets Pacific and St. Mary's. The two contenders don't meet again this season so the Broncos are still in the driver's seat, providing they win all of their remaining games.

Elsewhere in the Pac-8 last Saturday, Southern California defeated Oregon State, 71-61, and Washington routed California, 85-65.

The WCAC has an almost identical situation in the middle of the pack with Santa Barbara tied with Pacific at 6-4 for third place and Pepperdine, which won twice the past weekend, a step back at 5-5.

In UCLA's victory over Oregon, the Bruins led by only four points at the half, then ripped off 12 straight points at the start of the second to put the game away with ease. Lew Alcindor led all scorers with 25 points, although he left the game with seven minutes remaining.

Tar Cagers Lose, 56-50

Canada College of Redwood City registered a mild upset Saturday night by defeating the College of Marin Tars 56-50 in a Camino Norte Conference basketball game at Redwood City.

"They did a good job of containing us; we just couldn't get to them," said Marin Coach Cal Riemcke, whose Tars had defeated Canada 74-59 in their previsous meeting last month at Kentfield.

Marin's conference won-lost record dropped to 6-4 and overall mark to 10-14 and prospects aren't getting brighter as Wednesday night the Tars host undefeated Contra Costa College of San Pablo at Kentfield starting at 8 o'clock.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, hopeful of tightening their grip on third place in the National Basketball Association's Western Division, take on the visiting Chicago Bulls tonight, 8 o'clock, in the Civic Auditorium.

The Warriors were idle yesterday. They needed the rest after losing 129-122 Saturday night to the Philadelphia 76ers.

The defeat dropped San Francisco's record to 32-35. Chicago, 26-40, trails fourth-place San Diego by just two games and the Rockets, with a split of weekend games, are just 3½ behind the Warriors.

Billy Cunningham's 41 points plus 25 by Chet Walker and 21 by Darrell Imhoff paced the 76ers' attack. Jeff Mullins, with 37, and Rudy LaRusso, with 26, led the Warriors.

Oaks Lose To Pipers 104-102

DALLAS (UPI)—The Oakland Oaks, tasting defeat from an Eastern Division team for the first time this season, tonight tackle the Dallas Chaparrals.

Playing without their respective super stars—Connie Hawkins and Rick Barry, the Minnesota Pipers built up a 104-96 lead over Oakland with two minutes to play at Minneapolis-St. Paul Sunday night and fought off a late surge for a 104-102 victory. It was the first time this season an Eastern Division team of the American Basketball Association defeated the Oaks who beat the Pipers in their three previous meetings.

Marin Junior Hockey Team Triumphs, 4-3

Robbie Hutten scored two goals and Don Presley and Jamie Edwards contributed one each to give the Marin Junior Hockey Club's Bantam Division team a 4-3 victory over the Berkeley Bantams yesterday at Berkeley.

Marin's Peewee team, meanwhile, lost a 4-1 decision to San Francisco at San Francisco. Maury Carmody's unassisted goal was Marin's only score.

Death At Race Track Brings Safety Review

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The death of driver Don MacTavish during a stock car race here this weekend will bring about a review of safety precautions at the huge Daytona International Raceway.

A speedway spokesman said films of the four-car accident in which MacTavish died Saturday will be studied and a minute inspection made of the section of the track where it occurred.

MacTavish, a 26-year-old veteran from Dover, Mass., was killed when he lost control of his car, spun into the grandstand wall and was struck virtually head-on by a car driven by Sam Sommers of Savannah, Ga.

MacTavish's car actually rammed into a heavy steel wire gate that closes one of five entrances that carry spectator traffic across the track into and out of the vast speedway infield.

During races, these gates are closed and become part of a concrete wall that runs the entire length of the grandstand straightaway.

"We watch for them," said Bobby Allison, who drove in the 300-mile race in which MacTavish lost his life.

"They're no more dangerous than other points on the track, but the one MacTavish hit is probably the worst because it is located at a point where you're at top speed coming off the fourth turn," Allison said.

McTavish, barrelling down the straightaway at about 180 miles an hour, suddenly swerved into the wall, with the biggest portion of the front end of his car striking the wire gate.

The give of the gate bounced the car back onto the track, where it was fair game for Sommers, who had no chance to avoid a collision.

Most of the drivers who competed in the 800 miles of racing Saturday and yesterday saw MacTavish's crash. Several were of the opinion that the New Englander simply lost control coming off the turn.

Daytona Speedway President William H.G. France said that prior to Saturday, 517,889 miles of high speed racing had taken place on the track without a fatality. None of five previous deaths at the track came in a stock car race.

Meantime, MacTavish's body was being sent to Needham, Mass., for funeral and burial services later in the week.

Rains May Stop J.C. Baseball Tournament

College of Marin baseball coach Pete Limm kept a wary eye on the skies today to see if his Tars can complete their schedule in the Chabot College Invitational Tournament at Hayward after Saturday's games were rained out.

"If it rains much more we may just have to cancel the tournament," said Limm, whose Tars won their first game and tied the second game Friday.

In the opener it was Mike Terry who pitched the Tars to a 4-0 victory over San Josquin Delta College on a one-hitter. Gary Dinkel's bases-loaded triple gave Terry all the help he needed.

Marin was still awaiting word from Chabot Coloege today on its remaining schedule in the tournament. The Tars' next regularly scheduled competition will come Friday and Saturday at the Santa Rosa Junior College Invitational Tournament.

sweet one for the Ford factory team, denied use of its new 429-cubic inch stagger-valve engine and forced to rely on the old 427-cubic inch tunnelport power plant with a single fourbarrel carburetor. Last year, Ford could use two carburetors, but the rules changed.

Aerodynanic design of the Talladega model was credited for faster speeds, and Yarbrough actually set a race record of 157.950 m.p.h. It wiped out the 154.334 mark set by Richard Petty in 1966.

Ford took the next two places behind Glotzbach.

Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., finished third, one lap back, and collected $13,275. A.J. Foyt of Houston was fourth and got $5,800. Buddy Baker of Charlotte, who started a Dodge on the pole, came home fifth for $10,050.

RECORD

David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., who set a qualifying record of 190.029 m.p.h. in his Ford, ran into multiple troubles including fan belt bolts but managed to finish sixth for $5,600.

Benny Parsons of Detroit, who won the ARCA 300 a week earlier, drove the same Ford to seventh place in the faster NASCAR competition and won $3,450. He got a special award as rookie of the race.

Golfers Tie At Mill Valley

Rick Paterson and Bernard Benish each netted a score of 60 to tie for first place in the Mill Valley Golf Club's 18-hole medal handicap golf tournament at the Mill Valley municipal course yesterday.

Scores: Paterson, 65-5—60; Benish, 86-26—60; Frank Lyman, 73-12—61; Dee Holcomb, 79-17—62; Al Walton, 75-12—63; Mario Polacchi, 77-14—63.

TWO TEAMS tied for first place in Saturday's best ball foursome golf tournament at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

Tar Cagers Lose, 56-50

Canada College of Redwood City registered a mild upset Saturday night by defeating the College of Marin Tars 56-50 in a Camino Norte Conference basketball game at Redwood City.

"They did a good job of containing us; we just couldn't get to them," said Marin Coach Cal Riemcke, whose Tars had defeated Canada 74-59 in their previsous meeting last month at Kentfield.

Marin's conference won-lost record dropped to 6-4 and overall mark to 10-14 and prospects aren't getting brighter as Wednesday night the Tars host undefeated Contra Costa College of San Pablo at Kentfield starting at 8 o'clock.

The defeat dropped San Francisco's record to 32-35. Chicago, 26-40, trails fourth-place San Diego by just two games and the Rockets, with a split of weekend games, are just 3½ behind the Warriors.

Billy Cunningham's 41 points plus 25 by Chet Walker and 21 by Darrell Imhoff paced the 76ers' attack. Jeff Mullins, with 37, and Rudy LaRusso, with 26, led the Warriors.

Oaks Lose To Pipers 104-102

DALLAS (UPI)—The Oakland Oaks, tasting defeat from an Eastern Division team for the first time this season, tonight tackle the Dallas Chaparrals.

Playing without their respective super stars—Connie Hawkins and Rick Barry, the Minnesota Pipers built up a 104-96 lead over Oakland with two minutes to play at Minneapolis-St. Paul Sunday night and fought off a late surge for a 104-102 victory. It was the first time this season an Eastern Division team of the American Basketball Association defeated the Oaks who beat the Pipers in their three previous meetings.

Marin Junior Hockey Team Triumphs, 4-3

Robbie Hutten scored two goals and Don Presley and Jamie Edwards contributed one each to give the Marin Junior Hockey Club's Bantam Division team a 4-3 victory over the Berkeley Bantams yesterday at Berkeley.

Marin's Peewee team, meanwhile, lost a 4-1 decision to San Francisco at San Francisco. Maury Carmody's unassisted goal was Marin's only score.

Masters: 59 Golfers Invited

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Fifty-nine golfers from the United States have been invited to compete in the Masters Golf Tournament April 10-13.

Nine of the Americans are amateurs, with the invitations going to 50 professionals, Masters officials announced Saturday.

Six other pros who have the best showing on the pro tour for the past year will be invited later, along with one player—amateur or professional—picked by former Masters champions.

Defending champion Bob Goalby, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gay Brewer Jr., Art Wall Jr., and Sam Snead are among the 17 former titlists back for another try.

Among the well-known pros missing on the list was Charlie Sifford, veteran golfer who in the past has charged that he was never asked because he is a Negro. Masters officials have said he will be welcome as soon as he qualified.

Sifford did not meet any of the qualifying requirements for pros in 1968. Invitations can be won by finishing in the top 16 in the U.S. Open or the top eight in the PGA Tournament, winning the British Open, membership on the Ryder Cup Team or by finishing in the top 24 in the last Masters.

STILL POSSIBLE

Sifford still could qualify with a strong run in the spring tour that would make him among the top six pros for the past year. He also could be invited by former Masters champions.

Clifford Roberts, chairman of the Masters Tournament Committee, said that a drawing was held to determine which of the two players that tied for eighth in the U.S. Amateur received an invitation. Allen Miller III of Pensacola, Fla., won the berth over William J. Patton of Morganton, N.C.

Cochran Wins Men's Ski Slalom

BEAR VALLEY (AP) — Bob Cochran of Madonna Mountain, Vt., skiing in a heavy snowstorm yesterday won the men's special slalom in the National Alpine Ski Championships.

Cochran, battling a storm which dumped three feet of new snow since Saturday night on the Super Cup Trail, covered the course in 59.19 seconds in two runs.

Skiers had trouble finding the gates along the three-eighths of a mile trail, with a vertical drop of 532 feet.

Meet officials were forced to cancel the women's special slalom because of the snow, which was blinding skiers by midafternoon.

The race will be rescheduled next week by the National Ski Association.

Second in the men's slalom was Mike Pocarelli, Ironwood, Mich., 1:01 in his two runs. He was one of the last qualifiers to finish and recorded his time after second place had been awarded to Tyler Palmer, Kearsarge, N.H., 1:03.

Palmer was dropped to third, followed by Ken Corrock, Crystal Mountain, Wash., 1:03.25; and Rob Bell, Sun Valley, Idaho, 1:03.28.

Efren Torres Reigns As Flyweight Champ

Which pretty well fits Efren "Scorpion" Torres, a light-tan 25-year-old from the little town of La Palma in western Mexico, who reigns today as the smallest man on the list of world boxing champions, at 112 pounds.

Torres crowned himself world flyweight champ last night, beating Chartchai Chionoi of Thailand, who held the title since December 1966, with much less trouble than anyone expected.

Torres won a technical knockout over Chionoi, 111 pounds, when ring doctor Herrera Franjutti climbed between the ropes after the end of the eighth round, and declared Chionoi—whose left eye was swollen tightly shut—was no longer able to defend himself.

It was the 43rd victory in 49 fights—27 by knockouts—for the new champion, who has five losses and one draw on his record.

Sonoma State Nine Splits Doubleheader

Sonoma State College's baseball team opened its season Saturday by dividing a doubleheader with the St. Mary's Gaels of Moraga, winning the opener 4-2 and losing the second game 8-3 at Rohnert Park.

Bing Kunzig and Larry Lefor shared the pitching duties for the Cossacks in the opener, yielding eight hits. John Bussman led the Rohnert Parkers at the plate with two doubles, two singles, and two runs-batted-in for the afternoon.

Prep Cagers Get Ready For Final Week Of Play

Redwood and Novato high schools, running 1-2 most of the season in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race, continue along their collision course in this final week of the season with a head-on meeting scheduled Friday night at Novato.

But first the front-runners must take care of the some unfinished business in tomorrow's round of action when the Redwood Giants put their 11-1 won-lost record up against dangerous Terra Linda (8-4) at Redwood's Larkspur gymnasium while the Novato Hornets (10-2) have it relatively easy against Marin Catholic (3-9) at Marin Catholic's Kentfield gym.

Elsewhere tomorrow, San Rafael (7-5) hosts Tamalpais (4-8) and Drake (4-8) invades San Marin (1-11) at the new Novato high school's gymnasium. All varsity games start at 4 p.m., followed by junior varsity contests.

Redwood, winner of 11 straight since a league-opening loss to San Rafael, has the inside track toward the league title and invitation to the annual High School Tournament of Champions at Oakland Coliseum Arena next month, but has two dangerous hurdles to clear. Terra Linda, which challengers the Giants tomorrow, proved it can score big last Friday with an explosive 99-67 victory over Marin Catholic.

However, the last time Redwood met Terra Linda the Giants took a 75-66 decision.

Should Redwood and Novato win tomorrow as expected, Friday night's showdown at Novato should be a sellout. In their first round meeting Redwood beat the Hornets handily, 78-63, but this time Novato will have the home court advantage.

Should Novato and Redwood wind up in a tie for the title, they would meet in a playoff game at a neutral court to determine the league's representative in the T of C.

This also is showdown week in the junior varsity standings with Redwood (10-2) playing Terra Linda (9-3) in the key game tomorrow. In their last meeting Terra Linda handed Redwood its first loss, 48-37.

Masters: 59 Golfers Invited

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Fifty-nine golfers from the United States have been invited to compete in the Masters Golf Tournament April 10-13.

Nine of the Americans are amateurs, with the invitations going to 50 professionals, Masters officials announced Saturday.

Six other pros who have the best showing on the pro tour for the past year will be invited later, along with one player—amateur or professional—picked by former Masters champions.

Defending champion Bob Goalby, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gay Brewer Jr., Art Wall Jr., and Sam Snead are among the 17 former titlists back for another try.

Among the well-known pros missing on the list was Charlie Sifford, veteran golfer who in the past has charged that he was never asked because he is a Negro. Masters officials have said he will be welcome as soon as he qualified.

Sifford did not meet any of the qualifying requirements for pros in 1968. Invitations can be won by finishing in the top 16 in the U.S. Open or the top eight in the PGA Tournament, winning the British Open, membership on the Ryder Cup Team or by finishing in the top 24 in the last Masters.

STILL POSSIBLE

Sifford still could qualify with a strong run in the spring tour that would make him among the top six pros for the past year. He also could be invited by former Masters champions.

Clifford Roberts, chairman of the Masters Tournament Committee, said that a drawing was held to determine which of the two players that tied for eighth in the U.S. Amateur received an invitation. Allen Miller III of Pensacola, Fla., won the berth over William J. Patton of Morganton, N.C.

Cochran Wins Men's Ski Slalom

BEAR VALLEY (AP) — Bob Cochran of Madonna Mountain, Vt., skiing in a heavy snowstorm yesterday won the men's special slalom in the National Alpine Ski Championships.

Cochran, battling a storm which dumped three feet of new snow since Saturday night on the Super Cup Trail, covered the course in 59.19 seconds in two runs.

Skiers had trouble finding the gates along the three-eighths of a mile trail, with a vertical drop of 532 feet.

Meet officials were forced to cancel the women's special slalom because of the snow, which was blinding skiers by midafternoon.

The race will be rescheduled next week by the National Ski Association.

Second in the men's slalom was Mike Pocarelli, Ironwood, Mich., 1:01 in his two runs. He was one of the last qualifiers to finish and recorded his time after second place had been awarded to Tyler Palmer, Kearsarge, N.H., 1:03.

Palmer was dropped to third, followed by Ken Corrock, Crystal Mountain, Wash., 1:03.25; and Rob Bell, Sun Valley, Idaho, 1:03.28.

Efren Torres Reigns As Flyweight Champ

Which pretty well fits Efren "Scorpion" Torres, a light-tan 25-year-old from the little town of La Palma in western Mexico, who reigns today as the smallest man on the list of world boxing champions, at 112 pounds.

Torres crowned himself world flyweight champ last night, beating Chartchai Chionoi of Thailand, who held the title since December 1966, with much less trouble than anyone expected.

Torres won a technical knockout over Chionoi, 111 pounds, when ring doctor Herrera Franjutti climbed between the ropes after the end of the eighth round, and declared Chionoi—whose left eye was swollen tightly shut—was no longer able to defend himself.

It was the 43rd victory in 49 fights—27 by knockouts—for the new champion, who has five losses and one draw on his record.

Sonoma State Nine Splits Doubleheader

Sonoma State College's baseball team opened its season Saturday by dividing a doubleheader with the St. Mary's Gaels of Moraga, winning the opener 4-2 and losing the second game 8-3 at Rohnert Park.

Bing Kunzig and Larry Lefor shared the pitching duties for the Cossacks in the opener, yielding eight hits. John Bussman led the Rohnert Parkers at the plate with two doubles, two singles, and two runs-batted-in for the afternoon.

Prep Cagers Get Ready For Final Week Of Play

Redwood and Novato high schools, running 1-2 most of the season in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race, continue along their collision course in this final week of the season with a head-on meeting scheduled Friday night at Novato.

But first the front-runners must take care of the some unfinished business in tomorrow's round of action when the Redwood Giants put their 11-1 won-lost record up against dangerous Terra Linda (8-4) at Redwood's Larkspur gymnasium while the Novato Hornets (10-2) have it relatively easy against Marin Catholic (3-9) at Marin Catholic's Kentfield gym.

Elsewhere tomorrow, San Rafael (7-5) hosts Tamalpais (4-8) and Drake (4-8) invades San Marin (1-11) at the new Novato high school's gymnasium. All varsity games start at 4 p.m., followed by junior varsity contests.

Redwood, winner of 11 straight since a league-opening loss to San Rafael, has the inside track toward the league title and invitation to the annual High School Tournament of Champions at Oakland Coliseum Arena next month, but has two dangerous hurdles to clear. Terra Linda, which challengers the Giants tomorrow, proved it can score big last Friday with an explosive 99-67 victory over Marin Catholic.

However, the last time Redwood met Terra Linda the Giants took a 75-66 decision.

Should Redwood and Novato win tomorrow as expected, Friday night's showdown at Novato should be a sellout. In their first round meeting Redwood beat the Hornets handily, 78-63, but this time Novato will have the home court advantage.

Should Novato and Redwood wind up in a tie for the title, they would meet in a playoff game at a neutral court to determine the league's representative in the T of C.

This also is showdown week in the junior varsity standings with Redwood (10-2) playing Terra Linda (9-3) in the key game tomorrow. In their last meeting Terra Linda handed Redwood its first loss, 48-37.

Mutuals Are Good For Retirement

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. As a working couple we are looking forward to retirement in three years. I am covered by my employer under the Keogh plan. I have almost 300 shares of Mass Growth Fund and can add $700 annually to this. Recently we purchased $5,000 in Keystone S-4 hoping that reinvestment will build it up to the minimum required for a monthly withdrawal plan. Do you approve of our program? — F.C.

A. Keystone S-4, a performance fund, and Mass Investors Growth, a diversified common stock fund, are above-average representatives in their respective groups and should stand you in good stead for retirement.

I would by all means take advantage of the tax shelter offered for voluntary contributions under the Keogh act. With only three years to retirement it is improbable but not impossible to achieve the 100 per cent increase needed to build your Keystone S-4 shares to the $10,000 required for income.

Q. My portifolio consists of a few shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey, Du Pont, General Motors, Southern Pacific and Pioneer Fund. I am a widow, 75, depending entirely on dividends, interest and Social Security. I wonder if I should look for better-paying stocks. that are equally safe. — B.L.

A. An increase in your dividend income is entirely possible and can be accomplished in relative safety. Two high-grade preferred issues, Consolidated Edison $5 and Union Electric $4.56, sell to yield an average 6.4 per cent. Equal-dollar amounts of these preferreds should replace your holdings of Standard Oil of New Jersey, Southern Pacific and Du Pont which yield an average 3.9 per cent.

Market On Low Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Concern over tight money, Vietnam and the Middle East helped drive prices lower today. Shortly before the final bell, declines were topping advances by better than 4-to-1 in active trading.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Tax Free Gain For Old House If Invested In A New Home

Wikel

If you sell your old residence and buy and move into a new one within a year before or after the sale of the old one, any gain realized on the sale of the old residence is tax free to the extent it's invested in the new one, Section 1034.

So, if you spend at least as much for the new home as you got for the old home, the gain is tax free at this time.

If you spend less for the new home than you got for the old home, but more than the old home cost you, then you may be able to exclude the part of the gain represented by the excess of the cost of the new home over the cost of the old home.

If you can sell your old home within a year after you buy the new home it looks like you may be able to deduct your costs and depreciation on the old home and defer tax on any gain.

COURT MEMO

However, before making this deduction, check with your tax advisor. The IRS may not follow these court decisions and may disallow any such deduction.

If you are 65 years old or over, you may be able to exclude any capital gain in the first $20,000 of the sales price of your personal residence if you have owned the personal residence for at least eight years and have actually used it as your principal place of residence for at least five out of the last eight years.

CAN DEDUCT ALL

If the sales price is $20,000 or less, you can exclude all the capital gain.

If the sales price is more than $20,000, you can exclude only the proportionate share of the gain that the adjusted sales price bears to $20,000.

This is a once in a lifetime exclusion. You cannot claim it more than once. Either husband or wife will satisfy the age, ownership and use requirements where one of them satisfies such requirements for a residence they own as joint tenants, tenants for the entirety, or community property and if they file a joint return.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Feldron Industries Is Taken Over By Sonoma Pair

Two Sonoma County men, Marvin Van Leuven of Rohnert Park and Jerry Dermake of Petaluma, have taken over the Marin and Sonoma vinyl repair, dying, maintenance and processing of Feldron Industries, Inc., under the franchise held by Edward R. Wolford.

Their operation, known as Nu-Vinyl-Little Co., is located at 20 Joseph Court, San Rafael.

Wolford, who originally started out doing this servicing, has since become plant manager for Feldron, which is located at Northgate Industrial Park. But the company's production and sales have stepped up so much in the past year he has had no time to work his franchise.

Look for Feldron to get more and more into national distribution. Major airlines, hotels and institutions are now among its customers and franchises are extending into other areas.

NEW APPOINTMENTS at California State Automobile Association have been given to two Marin County men.

Melvin Brockhoff of Corte Madera has been appointed manager of accounting. He began his career with the association as assistant cashier in 1932 and became assistant controller in 1963.

Milton Gruenwald of Novato has been made assistant manager of accounting. He started with CSAA in 1960 as assistant statistician and was appointed accounting supervisor for the inter-insurance bureau last year.

Alexander

Korn

JAMES E. ALEXANDER of Larkspur has been elected vice president of the western region for Marketing Continental, Inc., a San Francisco-based firm specializing in marketing programs and field sales management. Before joining the company three years ago he was division manager for S and W Fine Foods, national sales training director for Ray-O-Vac Co., and a partner in Merrick and Alexander, a Hawaii brokerage firm.

JOHN J. KORN of San Rafael has been appointed third vice president, personal insurance, at the Pacific Coast head office of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco. He has been with the company since 1932 and has recently served as assistant vice president of data processing.

This appears to be a day for corrections.

Straightening out an apparently garbled item of Feb. 12, Fred Salcedo of Cedos TV Co., Kentfield has been elected president of the Marin County chapter of the California State Electronics Association. Leonard Schaub of Westland TV, San Rafael is new vice president. Josef Zemann of Zemann's TV, Corte Madera is secretary-treasurer.

And of Feb. 18, it should have been Albert Grimm — not Robert Grimm — who has joined the Dreyer-Wilson and Co. real estate office.

Gearety

Kay

TWO SAN RAFAEL MEN, M. A. (Kelly) Gearety and Alan M. Kay, both owning construction companies bearing their names, have been installed as officers of Associated Home Builders. Inc. for San Francisco, Marin, Napa and Sonoma Counties. Gearety is new vice president. Kay is new secretary.

A FLEA FAIR and auction is being held every Sunday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the main exhibit building of the Sonoma-Marin Fair grounds in Petaluma. Space is rented to individuals to sell their own items or for a fee articles may be placed on the block for bid with auctioneer Wayne A. Snodgrass.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. As a working couple we are looking forward to retirement in three years. I am covered by my employer under the Keogh plan. I have almost 300 shares of Mass Growth Fund and can add $700 annually to this. Recently we purchased $5,000 in Keystone S-4 hoping that reinvestment will build it up to the minimum required for a monthly withdrawal plan. Do you approve of our program? — F.C.

A. Keystone S-4, a performance fund, and Mass Investors Growth, a diversified common stock fund, are above-average representatives in their respective groups and should stand you in good stead for retirement.

I would by all means take advantage of the tax shelter offered for voluntary contributions under the Keogh act. With only three years to retirement it is improbable but not impossible to achieve the 100 per cent increase needed to build your Keystone S-4 shares to the $10,000 required for income.

Q. My portifolio consists of a few shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey, Du Pont, General Motors, Southern Pacific and Pioneer Fund. I am a widow, 75, depending entirely on dividends, interest and Social Security. I wonder if I should look for better-paying stocks. that are equally safe. — B.L.

A. An increase in your dividend income is entirely possible and can be accomplished in relative safety. Two high-grade preferred issues, Consolidated Edison $5 and Union Electric $4.56, sell to yield an average 6.4 per cent. Equal-dollar amounts of these preferreds should replace your holdings of Standard Oil of New Jersey, Southern Pacific and Du Pont which yield an average 3.9 per cent.

Market On Low Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Concern over tight money, Vietnam and the Middle East helped drive prices lower today. Shortly before the final bell, declines were topping advances by better than 4-to-1 in active trading.

Tax Free Gain For Old House If Invested In A New Home

Wikel

If you sell your old residence and buy and move into a new one within a year before or after the sale of the old one, any gain realized on the sale of the old residence is tax free to the extent it's invested in the new one, Section 1034.

So, if you spend at least as much for the new home as you got for the old home, the gain is tax free at this time.

If you spend less for the new home than you got for the old home, but more than the old home cost you, then you may be able to exclude the part of the gain represented by the excess of the cost of the new home over the cost of the old home.

If you can sell your old home within a year after you buy the new home it looks like you may be able to deduct your costs and depreciation on the old home and defer tax on any gain.

COURT MEMO

However, before making this deduction, check with your tax advisor. The IRS may not follow these court decisions and may disallow any such deduction.

If you are 65 years old or over, you may be able to exclude any capital gain in the first $20,000 of the sales price of your personal residence if you have owned the personal residence for at least eight years and have actually used it as your principal place of residence for at least five out of the last eight years.

CAN DEDUCT ALL

If the sales price is $20,000 or less, you can exclude all the capital gain.

If the sales price is more than $20,000, you can exclude only the proportionate share of the gain that the adjusted sales price bears to $20,000.

This is a once in a lifetime exclusion. You cannot claim it more than once. Either husband or wife will satisfy the age, ownership and use requirements where one of them satisfies such requirements for a residence they own as joint tenants, tenants for the entirety, or community property and if they file a joint return.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Feldron Industries Is Taken Over By Sonoma Pair

Two Sonoma County men, Marvin Van Leuven of Rohnert Park and Jerry Dermake of Petaluma, have taken over the Marin and Sonoma vinyl repair, dying, maintenance and processing of Feldron Industries, Inc., under the franchise held by Edward R. Wolford.

Their operation, known as Nu-Vinyl-Little Co., is located at 20 Joseph Court, San Rafael.

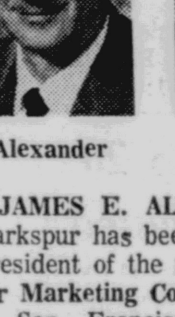
Wolford, who originally started out doing this servicing, has since become plant manager for Feldron, which is located at Northgate Industrial Park. But the company's production and sales have stepped up so much in the past year he has had no time to work his franchise.

Look for Feldron to get more and more into national distribution. Major airlines, hotels and institutions are now among its customers and franchises are extending into other areas.

NEW APPOINTMENTS at California State Automobile Association have been given to two Marin County men.

Melvin Brockhoff of Corte Madera has been appointed manager of accounting. He began his career with the association as assistant cashier in 1932 and became assistant controller in 1963.

Milton Gruenwald of Novato has been made assistant manager of accounting. He started with CSAA in 1960 as assistant statistician and was appointed accounting supervisor for the inter-insurance bureau last year.



Alexander

Korn

JAMES E. ALEXANDER of Larkspur has been elected vice president of the western region for Marketing Continental, Inc., a San Francisco-based firm specializing in marketing programs and field sales management. Before joining the company three years ago he was division manager for S and W Fine Foods, national sales training director for Ray-O-Vac Co., and a partner in Merrick and Alexander, a Hawaii brokerage firm.

JOHN J. KORN of San Rafael has been appointed third vice president, personal insurance, at the Pacific Coast head office of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco. He has been with the company since 1932 and has recently served as assistant vice president of data processing.

This appears to be a day for corrections.

Straightening out an apparently garbled item of Feb. 12, Fred Salcedo of Cedos TV Co., Kentfield has been elected president of the Marin County chapter of the California State Electronics Association. Leonard Schaub of Westland TV, San Rafael is new vice president. Josef Zemann of Zemann's TV, Corte Madera is secretary-treasurer.

And of Feb. 18, it should have been Albert Grimm — not Robert Grimm — who has joined the Dreyer-Wilson and Co. real estate office.

Gearety

Kay

TWO SAN RAFAEL MEN, M. A. (Kelly) Gearety and Alan M. Kay, both owning construction companies bearing their names, have been installed as officers of Associated Home Builders, Inc. for San Francisco, Marin, Napa and Sonoma Counties. Gearety is new vice president. Kay is new secretary.

A FLEA FAIR and auction is being held every Sunday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the main exhibit building of the Sonoma-Marin Fair grounds in Petaluma. Space is rented to individuals to sell their own items or for a fee articles may be placed on the block for bid with auctioneer Wayne A. Snodgrass.

Pacific Telephone Shows Earning Hike

Last night's storm made for strange bedfellows: a tree and a house, a boat and a beach, a tree and a car.

Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax

RAIN, HAIL, WIND

Weekend Storm Rips Roofs, Cuts Off Power

A weekend storm moved in with abandon, tearing off roofs, stopping power and pouring more than two inches of rain and hail in parts of Marin.

The storm moved down the coast from the Gulf of Alaska, battering all of California with heavy rain or snow and high winds.

The weatherman predicted the gloomy, wet weather would continue through tomorrow and temperatures would be slightly cooler.

Gale force winds, reported gusting up to 80 miles an hour, on Mount Tamalpais, blew in a 4 by 16 foot window at the home of Bruce Moody, 88 Mount Tamalpais Boulevard, and a sliding glass door at the home of Mrs. Jesse Thomas, 1 Tara View Drive, both about 2:45 a.m.

The living room of the Stanton G. Ware residence, 45 Spring Lane, was flooded at 2:45 a.m. when winds blew tar paper off half the roof.

In Belvedere, at 3 a.m., a large tree fell through the living room roof of the R. L. Stevenson home, 101 West Shore Road, and two trees caught fire in front of 170 Madrone Avenue when power lines fell at 4:37 a.m.

At 12:25 a.m., a 25-foot boat, the Gwenn II, owned by Frederick C. Lang of San Francisco, was washed aground with a broken mast and split bottom on the beach in front of 38 Beach Road, Belvedere.

The main dock of the Kappas Yacht Harbor was broken up by high waves at 3 a.m. during the height of the storm. A Kappas spokesman said no house-

Nixon Vows Talks With Soviet Union

Would Consult Allies, President Says On Tour

LONDON (AP) — President Richard Nixon arrived in London today on the second leg of his five-nation European tour, declaring he was here "on a working visit, not a ceremonial occasion."

Alighting from his silver and gray jet after the flight from Brussels, the President shook hands with Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other British leaders at the airport. (See picture, page 5.)

"Our purpose is to broaden our perspectives and to discuss firsthand the problems that require joint action and the opportunities that call for fresh initiatives," Nixon said in a prepared statement.

The weather remained threatening but there was no sign of the earlier fog that had prompted British officials to prepare Gatwick and Manchester airports as alternative landing spots in case the presidential plane could not touch down at London.

Queen Elizabeth II's private train was sent to Manchester in case the Nixon party landed there. A second train stood ready at Gatwick to bring the President to London's Victoria Station if need be.

British welcoming parties were hurriedly assembled and rushed to both places in the event the Nixon plane was forced to land at either.

Before leaving Brussels, capital of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Common Market, Nixon pledged to work for "negotiations with the Soviet Union on a wide range of issues. He also promised to consult with his Western allies before and during such talks.

Dissidents At U.C. Plan Open Air Protest Talks

BERKELEY (AP)—A handful of striking assistant instructors picketed at the main entrance to the University of California today as rain put a damper on dissident activities.

Minority student strikers insisted they planned to hold an open air meeting on the campus in the afternoon despite administration refusal to sanction it.

The administration yesterday announced that "because of conditions on campus" it had rejected a request for use of the Greek Theater for the convocation to discuss student strike issues.

Third World Liberation Front leaders late last night issued a statement declaring that oral permission had been granted but had been "rescinded." They announced the convocation "will be held . . . as planned."

University officials said permission had never been granted and that the dissidents held their news conference only minutes after submitting the request for the convocation.

They charged the university is "no longer able to provide to its faculty and students protection of their constitutional rights to peaceably assemble and speak. . ."

They added that "the weight of difficulties incurred by the exercise of their human and civil rights by Third World people rests solely with the administration and the police. This is only the last in an unbroken string of unkept promises and bitter denials . . ."

Third World is a loose coalition of students and faculty members which demands an autonomous minorities studies program and removal of police from campus.

A separate strike is under way by some teaching assistants, who support the Third World demands.

The teaching assistants' strike began a week ago. The Third World strike, marked on occasions by violence, started Jan. 22.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of emergency on the Berkeley campus, sent in California Highway Patrolmen to beef up Alameda County sheriff's deputies and last week alerted the National Guard.

About 1,000 guardsmen were in battle gear at an armory five miles away in case they were needed Friday during a meeting of the U.C. Board of Regents which Reagan attended.

But only a "skeleton administrative force" of guardsmen went on campus.

About 3,000 students confined their Friday activity to shouting across the street from University Hall, where the regents met and voted 18-3 to suspend disruptive students.

Regents acted after a wild three hours of violence Thursday when police were bombarded with rocks, bottles, and cherry bombs. Police retaliated with extensive use of tear gas.

CLOSED SESSION

Only A Discussion, Commissioner Says

The four old-line members of the Bolinas Harbor District board yesterday set up a secret meeting with a state Harbors official and possibly other state officials, freezing out the board's newly elected conservationist member and the public in violation of state law.

Board President Thomas J. Barfield today admitted that four members met for lunch at his home and at the Bolinas Rod and Boat Club, and that they discussed district business — but denied that it was a meeting.

When told that the meeting appeared to be a violation of the Ralph M. Brown Act, Barfield said he would sue if a story ran to that effect.

The meeting violated the Brown Act on two grounds — the board met with no public notice, and the topics discussed were not those permitted in a closed meeting. Public boards may meet in a closed session to discuss hiring, firing and hearing complaints against personnel.

Commissioner Frances B. Stewart, elected in November on a conservation platform opposing current district policies, was not told of the meeting nor invited to it, but learned of it through a friend.

Barfield said "Mrs. Stewart's phone was busy" when he tried to reach her.

The board met with Frank M. Woods, member of the state harbors and watercraft commission.

Woods told Mrs. Stewart today the board presented its arguments against dissolution of the district, advocated dredging Bolinas channel as soon as possible, and told him that opposition to the dredging had been overcome.

The district faces an election March 11 on dissolution. Supervisors ordered the election because of dissatisfaction with a

Steady Recovery For Ike After Intestinal Surgery

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making a steady recovery from major surgery to relieve an intestinal blockage, doctors said today.

The executive officer of Walter Reed Army Hospital said at mid-morning the 78-year-old general "is resting as comfortably as can be expected."

The former Chief Executive underwent the high-risk, two-hour, 20-minute operation last night after physicians had tried unsuccessfully to unblock an intestinal obstruction by other means.

The blockage was reported caused by tough scar tissue from earlier surgery which was binding over an intestinal tract.

Doctors told reporters today they could not tell whether the scar tissue was from a 1923 appendectomy or a 1966 gall bladder operation. They ruled out a 1956 operation for ilietis, an intestinal blockage, saying an examination showed that scar tissue to be in satisfactory condition.

The general's wife, Mamie, was at the hospital during the operation, which ended shortly before midnight.

Officials said both Eisenhower and his wife accepted "with equanimity" the decision to operate.

Brig. Gen. Frederick J. Hughes Jr., commanding general of the Walter Reed Medical Center, made the announcement one hour after completion of the operation that Eisenhower had come through it all right.

The operation was a risky undertaking in view of Eisenhower's advanced age and especially his cardiac history. Eisenhower has suffered seven heart attacks and has been

Quentin Inmate Skips Out On Training Job

A 25-year-old San Quentin Prison inmate, due for parole in nine weeks, disappeared last night from a San Rafael gas station where he was working under the prison's new work furlough program. Also missing, police reported, was $70.

The inmate, William J. Arrowsmith, who had been working since Jan. 28 on the 3 p.m. to midnight shift at Spinner's Mobil Gas Station, 575 Third Street, failed to return to the prison as required at 1 a.m., the prison reported. He normally had the use of a car furnished by the owner of the station, Romane E. Walker of Woodacre, but the car was left behind at the station.

The disappearance of the $70 in yesterday's receipts from a cash drawer was discovered when the station reopened early today, police said.

Arrowsmith was one of the two inmates now in the furlough program, which started at the prison in November. He was serving a sentence of six months to 15 years for a 1967 burglary in Ventura County, and had been at San Quentin since March 1968.

Prison officials described Arrowsmith as five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, with ruddy brown hair and brown eyes.

Reagan Appoints Two To Board

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Henry T. Gunderson, a San Jose Democrat, was appointed to a four-year term on the State Board of Education by Gov. Reagan today.

Reagan also reappointed Dr. John R. Ford, San Diego Republican, to the board.

Few Pickets Brave Rain At State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Cautious expressions of hope in strikes by both students and faculty at San Francisco State College appeared today during a dismal drizzle that soaked the campus and the few tiny groups of pickets.

Negotiations involving teachers, some of whom went on strike Jan. 6, were apparently in such a delicate stage that no one was talking about them.

However, pickets from the American Federation of Teachers handed out flyers to those coming on the campus that thanked the students who registered in the classes of striking professors.

"This student support has contributed to the fact that the trustees, for the first time in the history of the state College System, are now bargaining in good faith with a teachers' organizations such as the AFT," they said. "It has contributed to the fact that there is now some hope that the Third World strike will be settled."

$411,000 Price Tag On Damage To Roads

Road damage suffered by Marin County during this winter's storms totals $411,000, Supervisor Chairman John F. McInnis has reported to Gov. Ronald Reagan. Another $400,000 in damage to private property was claimed.

Last Tuesday, when the supervisors declared a state of disaster in Marin, public works officials reported road damages totalling $200,000.

Deputy Public Works Dir. Michael King explained today that the $200,000 was damage which would have to be let out to contractors, and the additional $211,000 is the maintenance work such as patching of roads and slide removal, which can be done by county crews.

Chairman McInnis wired the governor, asking that a state of disaster be recognized in Marin so that the county will be eligible for federal aid.

"The amended estimated damage in the entire County of Marin as of today's date is public, $411,000, and private, $400,000," McInnis wired the governor Friday.

Flu Hits Hard At Two Schools

Flu, which has been epidemic at Tomales Elementary School since the middle of last week, has caused that school and Tomales High School to go on minimum-day schedules.

The shortened school day, to continue through Wednesday, was announced today by Supt. Ralph E. Nixon of the elementary school. He reported 84 of his 240 pupils absent today, a new high. The high school today had 40 absent out of 210, according to Nixon.

The minimum-day will eliminate recess and shorten lunch periods so that schools will be out at 1:30 p.m. for the three-day period, Nixon said.

This does not affect the other elementary schools in the Tomales High School District, Bodega Bay and West Marin, Nixon said.

Bay Bridge Snarled By Jackknifed Rig

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A semi-trailer rig jackknifed on the San Francisco side of the Bay Bridge during the morning rush hour today, tying up traffic in three lanes of the upper deck for 30 minutes.

The highway patrol said there were no injuries.

Pueblo Crewman Weeps Openly In Presenting Story Of Prison

COMBINED AP & UPI

CORONADO — With tears streaming, the chief engineman on the USS Pueblo said today he was proud of what skipper Lloyd M. Bucher "went through with us and that he did bring us back home."

He also said Bucher was treated brutally by the North Koreans and was forced to exercise when "it was all he could do to stand up."

Bucher arose from his chair at a Navy court of inquiry and put an arm around the shoulders of Monroe O. Goldman, an 18-year veteran.

With Goldman sobbing and wiping his eyes, the two men walked out of the courtroom together and Bucher spent several moments comforting the enlisted man in a hallway.

Goldman, of Lakewood, Los Angeles County, had told earlier how the North Koreans made him strip naked and crawl around on the floor as they kicked him until he gave them his personal history.

The court is in its sixth week of hearing testimony from Pueblo crewmen on the capture of their intelligence ship last year and how they conducted themselves during 11 months in prison.

The Navy said it would hear about eight crew members a day until the court has heard captivity stories from nearly all 82 of them.

Also summoned was one of the two civilians aboard the vessel at the time it was seized in international waters off North Korea. He is Harry Iredale III, 26, Balmes, Pa., a civilian oceanographer.

The decision to call large numbers of men to testify is one of two major changes in the Pueblo inquiry revealed last week. The Navy denies they are connected.

In a seeming reversal of the Navy's earlier position, Capt. William R. Newsome, the court's chief counsel, announced the Code of Conduct is going to be a major issue in the inquiry.

The code sets the ground rules for Americans taken prisoners of war. It forbids them to cooperate with the enemy, and warns them to tell only their name, rank and service number.

At the outset of the hearing the Judge Advocate General's office ruled the code did not apply to Pueblo personnel because the U.S. and North Korea were not legally at war at the time the Pueblo was captured.

Newsome says he now thinks the code applies to the Pueblo crew in a "moral" sense rather than as a law.

Newsome denies that the appearance of the code as a major issue is linked to an impending congressional investigation of the Pueblo affair. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee called the congressional inquiry last week with the Code of Conduct as the central theme.

New Name In Pakistan Race

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, East Pakistani leader of the Awami League party, emerged today as another potential presidential candidate to succeed Mohammed Ayub Khan. He was released Saturday after two years of imprisonment.

Bhutto

Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of the People's Party, the favorite in West Pakistan, said yesterday he would be willing to step aside and serve as Mujibur's "subordinate" in the interests of Pakistani unity.

Bhutto is relatively unknown in East Pakistan, which has 60 per cent of the nation's 120 million people.

Mujibur conferred with Bhutto yesterday and announced afterward he would go to Rawalpindi for talks with Ayub, who has said he will step down when his term ends next year.

Bomb Unearthed

TOKYO (AP) — An unexploded bomb, which officials said was dropped by a U.S. B29 bomber during World War II, was unearthed at a park in suburban Tokyo today.

U.S. bomb disposal specialists safely removed the ignition cap of the 550-pound bomb in the hole where the bomb was found, military officials said.

The discovery of the bomb, 47 inches long and 14 inches in diameter, ended more than five months of searching in the park by the Tokyo government. The park was declared off limits since an unexplained explosion there last August.

Heart Patient Is Showing Progress

TORRANCE (UPI) — Richard Charles Newell, Southern California's first heart transplant recipient was "progressing satisfactorily" but was still listed in "guarded" condition, a spokesman for Harbor General Hospital reported early today.

Newell, 58, the operator of a food market in Oxnard north of here, received the heart of a 23-year-old woman who shot herself to death last Thursday. An 18-member transplant team conducted the eight-hour operation.

Red Troops Hit 50 Viet Towns

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops raked more than 50 towns and military posts with rockets, mortars and fight ground attacks today in the second day of countrywide attacks.

American officers said the enemy had started a spring offensive intended to generate pressure from the American public for concessions at the Paris peace talks.

President Nugyen Van Thieu said the offensive had been "completely foiled" with heavy losses to the enemy. The U.S. Command announced that more than 1,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had been killed since the attacks began Saturday night.

U.S. DEATHS

Allied casualties include about 100 American soldiers and an equal number of South Vietnamese troops killed, at least 146 American soldiers and more than 100 South Vietnamese troops wounded, and at least 66 civilians killed and another 250 wounded.

Military spokesman said enemy gunners had shelled Saigon and Da Nang, South Vietnam's two largest cities, 20 provincial capitals, and 29 district capitals. Some towns were hit several times.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, taking a plane to return to the Paris peace talks, said he would recommend a resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam if shelling of South Vietnam's cities continued. He said his South Vietnamese air force could do the job alone if necessary — "they are ready."

DAMAGE REPORT

Allied spokesmen said the second round of attacks today was considerably less than the opening onslaught and caused only light casualties and damage. But it was felt the enemy might try to keep up the effort for as much as 10 days.

At the outset, more than 150 towns, bases and outposts came under attack Saturday night and yesterday. It was the heaviest enemy blow since last May.

U.S. headquarters also announced that enemy gunners shot down and destroyed two big U.S. Marine CH47 helicopters supporting Marine infantrymen sweeping near the Laotian frontier yesterday in an operation to cut enemy supply lines. There were no casualties, but the two losses raised to 2,362 the number of American helicopters lost in the war.

The bulk of the fighting occurred north and northwest of Saigon, around the big American bases at Long Binh, Bien Ioa and Dau Tieng.

Long Binh and Bien Hoa are only 15 miles northeast of Sigon, and elements of the North Vietnamese 5th Division are reported trying to push past them.

Sources said allied defenses have been bolstered around Long Binh and Bien Hoa, and to the south of Tay Ninh City, near the Cambodian border, to meet a threat by the North Vietnamese Ninth Division.

U.S. B52 bombers kept up their intensified strikes around Saigon, dropping more than 1,000 tons of bombs on enemy bases and infiltration corridors. The heaviest of the strikes were concentrated 24 and 25 miles west and northwest of the capital.

Saigon was shelled twice yesterday, for the first time since the halt in the bombing of North Vietnam last Nov. 1. Fifteen civilians were killed and 48 were wounded. But the capital was spared any shelling today.

An American official said the rocket attacks on the capital "were a brazen type thing showing he could put some rounds in Saigon.

If he wanted tactically to do something he would put a lot more rounds in, if he could."

Ten rounds of big Russian 100-pound rockets slammed into the capital in two separate volleys Sunday morning and later in the afternoon.

One of the heaviest attacks yesterday occurred when the enemy shelled and then charged into a refugee camp at Que Son, 30 miles southwest of Da Nang. Thirty Civilians were reported killed, 50 wounded and 85 houses destroyed. At least 141 Americans and 78 government soldiers were wounded.

36 Die In Air Crash In Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A twin-engine Nationalist Chinese airliner crashed today at a sugar cane farm in southwestern Formosa and police said all 36 persons aboard were killed. They included five Americans.

The Far East Air Transport prop jet Dart Herald was on a regular flight from the southwest port of Kaohsiung to Taipei. Officials said it crashed 24 miles north of Kaohsiung, after reporting engine trouble. The airline said the plane carried 32 passengers and a crew of four.

The five Americans included three U.S. servicemen, identified as Dr. C. E. Lafran and a Christian missionary woman identified as P. J. Borges, 33.

Home addresses were unavailable.

The plane took off from Kaohsiung's airport at noon and messaged 18 minutes later that it had developed engine trouble and was trying an emergency landing. Witnesses saw it catch fire in the air and crash.

It was the second air disaster in Formosa this year. A C47 of the China Airlines crashed on a mountain top in South Formosa on Jan. 2, killing all 19 passengers and five crew.

Saudi Arabia Ex-King Saud Is Dead At 67

By GEORGE ANDREWS

ATHENS (London Express) — Saud Ibn Abdul Azis the 67-year-old former king of Saudi Arabia, died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon in the Athens suburb of Kavouri.

His coffin was to be transported by special plane to Riyadh today where his funeral will take place on a later date to be fixed there.

Saud had been suffering from heart disease for a long time. He was under constant and vigilant medical care. In the last few days his condition deteriorated seriously.

Immediately after his death, his half brother, Faisal, present king of Saudi Arabia, was informed and gave orders for the coffin to be ready for transportation to Riyadh.

Saud's entourage of 30 persons, including several wives, children and personnel, will travel to Riyadh as well.

The late ex-king had been living in Greece since 1965. He had hired two floors in a hotel at Kavouri, 20 miles south of Athens on the seafront. He liked the climate of Greece and believed it was helping him towards improving his health. He was leading a quiet life with occasional trips abroad, particularly to Vienna to consult doctors.

He became renowned for his generosity and often contributed considerable sums to Greek welfare societies.

Saud had succeeded his father in 1953 but was stripped of his powers after a family council in March 1964 although he was allowed to retain his title.

Crown Prince Faisal, the king's half brother, assumed the title of viceroy in November 1964 and was later named king in place of Saud.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S Truman is recovering from a bout with influenza, his doctors say, but will remain in Research Hospital for an undetermined period for a series of routine tests.

The 84-year-old Truman was brought to the hospital Thursday night from his home in Independence, Mo., for treatment of intestinal flu.

Mariner 6 Launching Set Tonight

Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart plan several hours with space agency doctors, who want to be certain they are fit. The trio's mission will be to circle the earth for 10 days after their Saturn 5 rocket blasts off at 11 a.m. EST Friday.

The physical exam also provides medical data for in-flight and postflight comparison.

Seeking clues to possible life on Mars, Mariner 6 is to rocket toward that distant planet at 8:14 p.m. tonight. After an interplanetary voyage of nearly five months, it is to sweep within 2,000 miles of the Red Planet, snapping pictures and gathering scientific data.

Sandwiched between Mariner and Apollo will be the launching of the ESSA 9 weather satellite at 2:34 a.m. Wednesday.

RIDING — Addicted to the two-wheeler since he discovered the joys of bicycle riding a few weeks ago, Le A practices on the sidewalk in front of the Mill Valley home of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Moss, foster parents for the war-injured Vietnamese boy while he undergoes medical treatment in San Francisco. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

By ANNE BARDWELL

A small, frail Vietnamese boy arrived in San Francisco last September with a shattered jaw complicated by severe bone infection and scar tissue, his body covered with scabies, lice in his hair and suffering from a severe attack of worms.

Today, he rides his bike through the Mill Valley hills, his skin clear, his body healthy inside and out, and his jaw healing following a series of operations and therapy treatments at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Le A is one of 50 Vietnamese children, injured during the Vietnam War, who have been brought to the United States by the San Francisco Committee of Responsibility during the past two-and-one-half years for specialized medical treatment unavailable in Vietnam.

Injured three years ago in a Da Nang bombing raid which killed his father and sister, A spent the next two years in several Saigon hospitals undergoing a series of operations to restore his shattered jaw. The operations, however, only made things worse and by the time he arrived in San Francisco he looked like a chipmunk, his swollen jaws filled with infection.

Waiting at San Francisco International Airport to meet A last fall were Dr. and Mrs. Allen Moss of 4 Eton Way, Mill Valley, and the six Moss children, ages 6 to 16.

A, living at the Moss Scott Valley home until he completes his medical therapy, is tentatively scheduled to return to Vietnam sometime this summer or fall to rejoin his mother who has been located after a three-year search.

"He was so very vunerable at first," says Mrs. Moss. "When he arrived he walked around for two days with such a serious expression in his big brown eyes, then he began to smile."

And he has been smiling ever since. Although he knew no English when he arrived, the Moss family and A were soon communicating by means of a combination of basic words and an improvised sign language. Even today, although he speaks English well, A still resorts to his expressive face and signs for much of his end of a conversation.

Although A is somewhere between 9 and 11 years old, he had never attended school in Vietnam. In November, following his surgery at U. C. Hospital, he was enrolled in the first grade at Alto School. A small child because of health and heredity, he fit right in with the local first graders.

Reading is difficult for him, but he excells in art and arithmetic and shows all the universal traits of a growing boy including temper, stubborness and competitiveness.

A has had his share of the discipline at the Moss house but it seems to have made him more secure, "realizing he was being treated the same as the other children, even to getting his share of the spankings," Mrs. Moss said.

"We've found that many foster parents are giving into everything as a way of assuaging their own guilt feelings about the war."

A adapted almost immediately to the American culture which was quite a change from his Vietnamese farm background. He joins the rest of the Moss children in front of the television set each night and already has a long list of favorite programs. A few weeks ago he discovered the poys of bicycle riding and the family hasn't been able to get him off the bike since.

Surprisingly, food has not been a problem and the only things A won't eat or drink are milk, chocolate, rice and Chinese food. "He even has the Kool-Aid habit," says Mrs. Moss.

American electrical gadgets fascinate A and when he discovered the electric can opener he went on a can opening spree that decimated Mrs. Moss' shelves of 50 cans in one brief afternoon.

Roller skating is a bit hit with A but his evaluation of ice skating was a succinct "no fun, this stink."

Christmas was also a big hit. "Although he didn't understand what it was all about." He loved the presents and the special fuss, but the holiday also precipitated one of his only two crying spells. Through an interpreter, Mrs. Moss later learned that he was torn between the warmth of the Moss family and homesickness for Vietnam.

The Moss family is resigned to A's eventual departure, although it is clear they consider him a vital part of the family. When he leaves Mrs. Moss will take another Vietnamese child into her home. "A has been so wonderful for us, we don't want it to end when he leaves," Mrs. Moss says.

Infant Dies While On Outing

An outing to Marin's coast for a Yuba County mother and her three children ended in tragedy Saturday when 1-year-old Michelle Ann Pine was fatally stricken.

Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan said the child stopped breathing while in the rear of the station wagon and was taken to Marin General Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival at 12:50 p.m.

She was the daughter of Alberta Esancy Pine of Oliverhurst, Yuba County. An autopsy is pending.

Veterans' Job Aid Proposed

I-J Special Report

Their bill, the Veterans Employment and Relocation Act of 1969, would provide a veteran a moving allowance and expense allowance to travel to a job interview, Murphy reported Friday in a press statement.

The maximum allowances would be determined by the administrator of veterans' affairs, and should not exceed $100 for each interview and $300 for relocation, Murphy said.

The bill would require the U.S. Employment Service to set up a national center to match job openings with the skills of veterans.

"This bill recognizes that the skills acquired by a serviceman are not always in need in his home area," said Mr. Murphy.

Bullets Enter Sirhan Assassination Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The bullets that killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy as he was flush from victory in the California Democratic presidential primary were introduced into evidence today at the murder trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan.

Dewayne Wolfer, a Los Angeles police ballistics expert, testified the bullets, brought to court in yellow envelopes, came from the sixth cervical vertebra of Senator Kennedy. There were also bullet fragments taken from the senator's head in surgery and during an autopsy.

Sirhan came to court today sporting a fresh haircut but wearing the same gray suit and sky blue tie that he has worn through the first six days of testimony.

Through nearly 50 witnesses, the state has constructed a mosaic of a deliberate assassin who revealed his intent yet was still able to kill the heavily protected Kennedy.

Still to be told is the reason.

Associate prosecutor David N. Fitts said it was possible the people's case would be rested by Wednesday, clearing the way for the defense to begin its presentation.

The trial resumed today following a weekend recess with the expectation the defense and prosecution may clash over the admissibility of notebooks found during a search of Sirhan's home in suburban Pasadena after his arrest for the Kennedy slaying.

One of the notebooks contained the handwritten statement: "Robert F. Kennedy must be assassinated before June 5, 1968." Kennedy was fatally wounded in a pantry in the Ambassador Hotel shortly after midnight last June 5.

Chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper expects to take about three weeks to present the defense case.

hospitalized since last April.

Hughes said Eisenhower was "doing fine."

Medical authorities not connected with the case described acute intestinal obstruction as "one of the most serious of all surgical conditions within the abdomen." The condition is caused by an interference with the movement of waste material through the large and small intestines.

One prominent physician told UPI that in such cases, especially with the patient's cardiac condition, the decision to operate is a "last resort."

"They surely don't want to operate," the medical specialist said. "This is the last thing they would do. He is about the poorest risk you could find. I guess surgery would be a last resort."

One medical source said the chances were good for recovery from surgery for acute intestinal obstruction if the operation was performed within 48 hours after the onset. But if the obstruction is permitted to continue, the patient usually is in serious danger.

NIXON

velopments in divided Germany, in Vietnam and in the dissension-ridden diplomacy of Western Europe.

There was barely a sign of hostility in the Belgian capital, despite leftist attempts to stage demonstrations.

Nixon, with a big grin waved happily to Belgian crowds and at one point pushed into a swarm of Belgian children to shake their hands and say hello.

The President paid glowing tribute to King Baudouin who was on hand too see him off. Before boarding his plane, Nixon and the monarch shook hands warmly.

Then, with his left hand raised in a gesture of farewell and thanks to his host, Nixon climbed the steps, turned and bowed once more to Baudouin.

Nixon, in the NATO speech, did not hedge about prospects for eventual Soviet - American talks. He said there will be negotiations "in due course, and with proper preparation."

The President made no mention of two crises of paramount concern to the Atlantic allies: the new dispute between the British and French governments, and the possibility of an East-West confrontation in Berlin.

Instead, with the aim of revitalizing the Atlantic alliance, he emphasized a pledge that "the United States is determined to listen with new attentiveness to its NATO partners."

To underscore this policy declaration, he said that because American-Soviet talks would directly affect the nations of Western Europe, the United States will approach Moscow "on the basis of full consultation and cooperation with our allies, because we recognize that the chances for successful negotiations depend on our unity."

He went on:

"I realize that this course has not always been followed in the past. But I pledge to you today, that in any negotiations directly affecting the interest of the NATO nations, there will be full and genuine consultation before and during those negotiations."

Summarizing the approach he wants to take in his European meetings, he said: "I have come for work, not for ceremony; to inquire, not to insist; to consult, not convince; to listen and learn, and to begin what I hope will be a continuing interchange of ideas and insights."

15 Making The Run For Miller's Seat

Victory for the Republicans would give the GOP a 21-19 edge in the upper house, with the votes to push through Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's legislative program and to possibly take complete control of the Senate machinery by ousting veteran President pro tem Hugh M. Burns of Fresno.

The Senate has been 20-19 Republican since the death New Year's Day of Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, left the Contra Costa County district without a Senator.

So many candidates are in the field that a runoff appears necessary next month to pick a victor.

Three people are cnsidered to be leading the pack among the Democrats. They are George Miller III of Martinez, 23, son of the late senator; Fortney H. (Pete) Stark, 37, Walnut Creek bank president, and Thomas Coll, Contra Costa County supervisor.

Elton Brombacher, a printing business owner, also claims strong support from his years of party activity in the county. Other Democrats: Billy R. Conley, petroleum operator; Stanley T. Grydyk, attorney; Caroll P. O'Brien, attorney; Milton M. Spinner, teacher; Marcelino M. Vasquez, Pittsburg city councilman; and R. William Voge.

The Peace and Freedom Party candidate is David A. Comstock, a book dealer. Victor E. Cherven, a teacher, is the American Independent Party candidate and Edward J. J. Havey, a mechanical engineer, declined to state a registration.

WALNUT CREEK (AP) — A young couple has been arrested in the Jan. 18 bombing of the Walnut Creek police station.

Wells C. Hoeltje, 20, and his wife, Peri, 19, were arrested Friday on charges of conspiring to commit a felony and are free on $5,000 bail each.

Hoeltje denied he or his wife planted the bomb. Police Capt. Frank Thompson refused to release any details, saying an investigation was continuing.

No one was hurt by the explosion, although a hole was blown in the building and nearby windows were shattered.

$400 Million Plan For Low Cost Housing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An assistant Democratic Assembly leader proposes that the state issue up to $400 million in revenue bonds to help build inexpensive housing for lower-income Californians.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, suggested the bonds be issued by a new Housing and Urban Affairs Agency, which would loan the money "at below market interest rates to people who want to buy homes in cities and rural areas.

Brown made the proposal in a television interview yesterday as the Legislature prepared to begin the eighth week of its session.

The pace of the meeting picked up, with major measures awaiting a vote on the Senate floor.

A three - month, one - cent-a gallon increase in the present seven-cent state gasoline tax to raise some $24 million to repair highway and roads damaged by recent floods.

A bill giving the state colleges $575,000 to hire faculty for 3,875 students who pushed enrollment above predicted levels. The Assembly had voted $2 million for as many as 8,525 students.

Brown, Democratic whip in the lower house, said the loan program is needed to solve the problems of big city slums.

19 Legislators Ask Missile Base Banning

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Missiles and jet planes were the targets today of fire by California legislators.

Eighteen assemblymen and senators joined Assemblyman John L. Burton in sponsoring a resolution asking the Legislature to tell Congress that California opposes the proposed antiballistic missile system.

Militar officials already are preparing sites for the network of missile batteries around the nation which would fire nuclear-armed rockets against what the Pentagon says will be a future missile threat from Communist China.

Burton noted the outcry against the system in Congress and elsewhere, and pointed out that the Los Angeles and Marin County areas are prospective sites for the missile bases.

The San Francisco Democrat said the legislature should add its voice to the "growing public concern over the continuing nuclear arms race and its drastic consequences on the quality of our lives."

Foran introduced several bills, which he said stemmed from hearings of the Assembly Transportation Committee last year. "We cannot continue to pollute our air with this racket from jet aircraft. I do not subscribe to the view that it is the public's responsibility to adjust to noise because it is the 'sound of progress'," Foran declared.

His bills would allow a $1,000 fine against aircraft creating noise above levels set by the state; require state approval of any airport's request for federal funds; and require that a homeowner whose property is condemned for airport uses is paid on the industrial value of that property.

Alto Density Boost Asked Of Planners

A request by Cal-Fong Investment Co. to increase the density from 3 to 5.4 dwelling units per acre on 27.5 acres in the Alto Bowl will be heard by the Mill Valley Planing Commission at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

Also scheduled are a discussion of 701 planning study, recommendations for Arroyo Corte Madera del Presidio and Miller Avenue and a request by the Bank of America to subdivide 31.37 acres on the Highway 101 Frontage Road at Westport Avenue into four lots.

Los Angeles Area Hit By More Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Waterlogged Southern California strained under more rain today that brought flooding, earthslides and an avalanche that buried two cars without injury.

The latest storm, which began Saturday, had deposited two more inches of rain by morning for a total of almost 23 inches since mid-January.

The Weather Bureau said the rain would taper off, but showers were expected intermittently through tomorrow, with more snow above 4,000 feet.

Flooding and earthslides damaged homes and closed roads in several areas of Los Angeles and other cities.

An avalanche brought on by deep accumulations of snow along Angeles Crest Highway buried two automobiles.

Sheriff's deputies said occupants were dug out of three-foot snow without injury and they and occupants of 35 other stranded cars were rescued.

Pathet Lao medical students pay close attention to their teacher at the Central Hygienic Management school which is located in a cave somewhere in Laos. A Yawn Once Every 60 Seconds

Though Mrs. Claudia Melton began her assault on the mark last Monday at the brisk rate of three or four yawns a minute, her pace is now reduced to one yawn every 60 seconds.

Mrs. Melton's physician, Dr. Rodolpho Gardey, says the affliction is caused by a minor, but unusual thyroid condition. The doctor says she can go home from the hospital in a day or two after an estimated 10,000 yawns.

Volcanic Eruption Is Tapering Off

HILO, Hawaii (UPI)—A volcanic eruption which destroyed three miles of public highway was tapering off early today.

Scientists at the Hawaii Volcano Observatory said lava fountaining appeared to be confined to an old pit crater. At the height of the eruption, which started Saturday, bubbling lava snaked through more than four miles of uninhabited brushland.

The eruption was at Mount Kilauea on the Island of Hawaii, the southernmost and largest island in the Hawaiian chain. The volcano, one of the most active in the world, has had 13 eruptions since 1960.

Lava flows ruined three miles of the scenic and heavily-traveled chain of craters road. The road winds along the edges of nine craters over a seven-mile stretch. At one point, the road was covered with a 40-foot high cinder cone.

Shortly after the eruption began, national park service ranger Theodore Picco, 45, was trapped between two paths of lava as he drove his car on the road. He was rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter.

President Preparing Debt Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is preparing a recommendation that would have the effect of raising the national debt limit of $17 billion to $382 billion — but the actual figure cited will be only $300 billion, congressional sources said today.

The shift in figures would be accomplished, if Congress goes along with the suggestion, by redefining the public debt to exclude government securities held by arms of the government itself. These would include the Social Security and highway trust funds and the Federal Reserve System.

Sources said the arithmetic being proposed would work out this way:

The present debt limit, the amount of borrowing the Treasury may not exceed at any one time, is $365 billion. The Treasury expects to need an additional $17 billion in borrowing authority, made up of $3 billion extra deficit from the fiscal year that ended last June 30 plus $7 billion for the present fiscal year and an equal amount for the next fiscal year.

To take care of needs through 1970, using the old definitions, therefore would require raising the debt limit to $382 billion.

However, by defining the debt subject to limit as consisting of only debt held by the public, the limit could be reduced by $82 billion, so the new limitation could be $300 billion.

Apartment Plans On Agenda For Novato Action

Use permits for apartments are the main items on the agenda of the Novato Planning Commission when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Novato community house.

James Bowler and Ralph Waltz are asking for a permit for a 96-unit apartment development on 4½ acres between Alameda Del Pardo and Highway 101 south of Ignacio Boulevard.

The commission will continue the public hearing on the master plan for 900 acres in Bahia at the end of Bugeia Lane for Union Bank of Los Angeles. It will also consider the change in zoning from multiple to single family on the lots on San Marin Drive between Novato Boulevard and Simmons Lane, and the establishment of a drive-in photo service in the Tresch Triangle west of South Novato Boulevard at Center Road.

National Output Expected To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate-House economic committee received today a forecast that national output will rise $60 billion in 1969 and, "a start will be made toward reducing the rate of inflation."

Dr. Robert M. Williams, economist at the University of California at Los Angeles and director of the UCLA Business Forecast, said business will expand more rapidly in the second half of this year than in this half.

"If this prediction is accurate, then it is important that the tax surcharge be retained through 1969," Williams testified as the committee's hearings on the state of the economy entered their second week.

If the 10 per cent surtax is permitted to expire on schedule at midyear, the UCLA economist said, production, prices and interest rates will exceed the UCLA forecast. If the surtax is retained, consumer prices are expected to increase less rapidly than in the past year and interest rates to decline slightly.

Dr. Williams concluded: "We believe that the economy in 1969 will grow at the respectable rate of 3.4 per cent in real terms and that a start will be made toward reducing the rate of inflation."

The predicted increase in total national output would be smaller than the $69 billion rise in 1968, but would carry the gross national product to a record total of $920.8 billion. The increase in the first quarter, as seen by the UCLA project, would be $9.2 billion, substantially under the recent rate. But the forecast shows a big jump in the second quarter of $14 billion and increases of $19 billion and $15 billion in the third and fourth quarters respectively.

The committee is devoting today and tomorrow to hearing testimony from college and university economists.

Cooking Oil Fire

Cooking oil which ignited caused an estimated $3,500 damage at 6:50 p.m. Friday to the kitchen of Francis Hoag, 44 Estrada Lane, the Corte Madera Fire Department reported. There was also smoke damage throughout the house, firemen said.

Homeowners Seek Road Safety Help

The Muir Woods Improvement Association has asked the county to place fluorescent buttons instead of white line road dividers on Panoramic Highway through the Muir Woods Park area, reported Elsie Heimann, treasurer.

Mrs. Heimann said when it is foggy the road becomes very dangerous because motorists can not see the lanes in the road. The association asked the improvement at Friday's meeting.

Novato May Name Park After Chief

The Novato City Council will consider naming the parkette at Highway 101 and Grant Avenue after the late Fire Chief George Cavallero at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the community house.

The Novato Federated Women's Club suggested the name for the park, which is adjacent to the fire station. Cavallero died of a heart attack Feb. 2 while enroute to a fire at the Burdell Mansion.

The council will also receive a report on accountant costs in making the annual audit, pass an ordinance amending the sign ordinance and receive applications for airport limousine service from National Executive Services Inc. and commuter bus service from the Eastshore Lines.

U.S. Gives Marin A Census Grant

The Marin County Planning Department will get a $4,700 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for preparatory work on the 1970 United States census.

Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said today he was notified by the Association of Bay Area Governments, which approves such grants.

The grant will allow the recording of census data by blocks instead of by large census tracts, Zucker said.

County planners are editing census maps of urbanized areas of the county and coding by blocks in areas which receive city mail deliveries. This will facilitiate the 1970 census in which questionnaires will be mailed to all urban households. In the past, census information was gathered in person by special enumerators.

The county expects to receive valuable benefits from this work in the form of population and housing data, said Zucker. For example, the county will be able to obtain the number of school-age children in a neighborhood, city, or school district simply by requesting the census to aggregate data on its computer by block code.

The census will take place in April of 1970. Zucker said there is speculation in Washington that the census may take place very five years thereafter.

RULES OF CHURCH

White Minister Resigns To Wed Divorced Negro

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A white Episcopal clergyman has resigned from the ministry and has married the divorced mother of nine who is a Negro.

The former minister, William Shepherd, 39, and Mrs. Dolores Jones, 40, were married in Fairhill Presbyterian Church yesterday. Church law banned them from marrying in an Episcopal church.

Under church rules, Episcopalians may be divorced only under certain circumstances and they must wait a year after the final decree before remarrying. Mrs. Shepherd's decree from her first husband on grounds of desertion was handed down Feb. 14.

Shepherd said he was obliged to leave the ministry because he was breaking cannon law.

Mrs. Shepherd worshiped at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, where Shepherd once served as vicar.

Shepherd said he discussed the situation with Bishop Robert R. DeWitt of the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania.

"I feel very close emotionally to the church," said. "I feel very close to the bishop. He and I had at least an hour together talking about this. He has to obey the canons."

Mrs. Shepherd, attending Temple University on a full scholarship, plans to teach social studies in a junior high school after receiving her degree in December.

Seven of her nine children, ranging in age from 11 to 19, attended the wedding. "The children really feel that they're gettying married, too," she said.

Shepherd's best man, George Jones, is a Negro, and the matron of honor, Mrs. Catherine Hagerty, is white.

Auto Lands In Bed Of Girls

Marcella and Emily Landis, 11 and 9 years old, were fast asleep Saturday night in a bedroom of their home that sits at the end of a one-way street.

Suddenly, a stolen car being chased by police careened into the bedroom and hurtled over the girls into a wall. It bounced off, and landed with its front wheels in their bed.

Firenen jacked the car up and let the air out of the tires, and 45 minutes later freed Marcella. One of her legs was broken by a wheel.

Then they cut a hole in the wall and yanked Emily to safety from the shattered bed under the car. She was unhurt.

Marin Banks Report Embezzling

Losses believed to be in thousands of dollars have been reported by five Marin County banks in an embezzlement operation in recent months, San Rafael police reported Saturday.

The latest success, at the main Wells Fargo Bank in San Rafael, was reported yesterday by Lawrence Searight, operations officer at the bank, after checks began coming back marked "not sufficient funds," police said.

Searight told police a man who said he was Russell Leo Smiley or Smilley of 2525 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, opened a checking account Feb. 11, police reported. Police said the name may be a ficticious one.

When the checks began coming back, officials learned the same thing had occurred at the Wells Fargo Bank in Sausalito, Crocker-Citizens National Bank in Fairfax and Corte Madera and Redwood National Bank in San Rafael. Police are seeking the amount of the losses.

The suspect is reportedly six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, with brown hair and eyes. He gave his age as 28, police reported.

Trustees Eye Tax Increase

A staff recommendation to submit a 75-cent tax rate increase to the voters for approval on June 3 will be discussed by the Mill Valley School District board at 8 p.m. today at Park School.

Supt. James A. Collins will ask that the increase be authorized for a three-year period with a maximum of 55 cents levied the first year.

In a memo to the board, Collins said the tax increase is necessary because of increases in the cost of materials and personnel, increased operational and maintenance expenses and a decrease in state support.

The district's present tax rate is $3.13, including 88 cents in override taxes.

The board will also discuss the summer school program, kindergarten admissions and the relocation of the community recreation center on district land at Project 17.

The work, on which bids are to be called, will include widening the roadway and installing guard railings, and adding left-turn storage lanes at Shoreline Highway's intersections with Panoramic Highway and at the main entrance to Stinson Beach State Park.

The commission approved the project Friday.

MUSIC REVIEW

Professionalism Is Keynote Of Concert

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

That a concert like last night's, which opened the new series at San Domenico School, could be performed so well by an "orchestra da camera" of 40 musicians of such disparate character was amazing.

It spoke highly of the caliber of participating San Domenico music faculty members, the outstanding music students, the professional and non-professional musicians and guest conductor Hugo Rinaldi, who had very little opportunity to rehearse. The reason was that rehearsal time is necessarily limited in concerts of this kind that are presented free through cooperation of Musicians Union Local 6, AFL-CIO.

What flaws there were, such as intonation problems of some soloists, could no doubt be attributed to insufficient preparation. On the whole, sonority in the very challenging program was impressive, such as one might expect from a larger and more experienced orchestra and it was enhanced by the excellent acoustics of Alumnae Hall.

All three works presented had unique aspects. They were Vivaldi's Concerto in C Major for Two Trumpets, featuring the teacher-pupil duo of Bert Truax and Joseph Alessi playing rarely heard Baroque D Trumpets, and the seldom performed "The Chinese Flute" by Ernst Toch, featuring soprano Marian Marsh and flutist Terry Summa as soloists and Beethoven's Triple Concerto in C Major, Opus 56, featuring three of San Domenico's quartet-in-residence: pianist Faith France, violinist Frances Shorr and cellist Jean Mitchell.

The last was the major work of the evening. Though there were some flaws, hearing it was a thrilling, for it requires three virtuoso performers and it is the only important concerto for this combination of soloists. Rapport in expression and timing of dialogue among the three was exceptionally fine.

Colorful orchestration in "The Chinese Flute" that included the tambourine, celeste and tymapani combined with the unusual modes and harmonies for strings and woodwinds was enormously successful in conjuring exotic Oriental scenes.

Because of its purity, clarity, suppleness and just right amount of vibrato for richness Miss Marsh's voice was ideally suited to the three vocal sections sung in English. The flute, which has an affinity for Oriental mood, was beautifully handled by Summa, with assistance from the other woodwinds.

Expert technique with few imperfections was shown by Truax and Alessi on the baroque D trumpets in the very floird Vivaldi concerto. These replicas of instruments of Vivaldi's time, when different trumpets were needed to play in different keys, had a very high, bright sound that was rather shrill at times.

ART REVIEW

Subdued Approach To Social Comment

By LAURA DEVENDORF

As "social statements," the visual comments made by four artists this month at Gallery III, 69 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera — are unusually subdued and quiet. Each has something to say but it often takes some inside knowledge to decipher it.

Of the four, Dennis Beall's prints are the most incisive. His badges, often housed in circles, a Norman cross or other shapes that are emblematic in the usual sense, deal significantly with parts of the human form.

A large eye centers a gray striped oval whose shifting dark-light pattern outlines a profile. And more specifically, there is Beall's "Venus Emblem." Centered within its aggressive red and black crestlike design is a tiny blue circle holding a delicately drawn nude.

Fred Berensmeier's icons share Beall's uncluttered treatment of form in space, but his statement rests more in the found materials he uses on his printing plates, such as beer cans and battered toys and their relationship to the prints' overall themes. These collographs are often intriguing and beautiful — which can't be said of his serigraphs.

In total contrast are Marva Cremer's deceptive renderings of children at play. They are so letter perfect that at first you miss the bizarre disorganization of nature and ideas that each one contains. In "Try Again," laughing children swing from ropes and branches over a chasm, unconcerned about one of their companions who is falling into it. And other like mixtures of Miss Cremer's gentle technique and grim outlook give her work a strange, unsettling aftertaste.

In a way, Margo Humphrey's splashy images have the same effect. In two works, recognizable things emerge from indefinite puddles of color in such a way that the lingering effect is one of positive social statement. Her more realistic jungle settings are decorative but lack the same substance.

For show emphasizing social statement, there are many artists who would provide a more substantive and provocative exhibit. However, these four do have something to say, even if you have to reach to find it.

Four Students Are Cited For Scholarship

Four Terra Linda High School students have been awarded plaques by the Bank of America for outstanding scholastic achievement, and 11 students have been presented certificates of achievement.

Plaque winners and their fields are Victor Klebanoff, science and mathematics; Steve Follin, fine arts; Nancy Wilkinson, liberal arts, and Shirley Meyer, vocational arts.

The plaque winners will go into zone competition April 10 in San Rafael for further cash awards up to $1,000.

Employees Ask County Pay Increase

The Marin County Employees Association, which presented fringe benefit demands last month, has followed up with a proposal for a minimum 10 per cent increase in salaries after July 1.

The association also asked for another 2.5 per cent raise on Jan. 1, 1970, and longevity pay.

Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the association, presented the wage proposal to County Administrator Alan Bruce. Prevo said the association had a paid membership of 645 and speaks for about 900 of the county's 1,200 employees.

Under the longevity pay proposal, a worker who is at the top of his salary range for 10 years would get a raise of 2.5 per cent. Longevity increments of 2.5 per cent would be granted at the end of each five-year period thereafter.

The association's wage demands are not so far reaching as those presented by the Social Workers Union Local 535, AFL-CIO, which proposed pay increases of 10 to 15 per cent, plus a 35-hour work week for its 170 members.

County Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott said Friday he had not yet computed the financial impact the employees association wage demands would have on the county budget.

Benefits and salary raises previously requested by the various bargaining units would add $2.5 million to the county budget, County auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell estimated.

A county negotiating team, composed of County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, Bruce and Elliott, meets almost weekly with employees negotiators over the various demands.

Books on the list deal with racial problems and the civil rights movements, some with Negro persons and others on Negro culture.

Marinite Is Booked For Grand Theft

A 24-year-old Tiburon Peninsula resident was arrested Friday evening by four sheriff's officers with a warrant charging him with 16 counts of grand theft in Los Angeles County.

Officers had information that Hansen was armed and dangerous, but he was arrested without resistance, Battaglia said.

Inspectors Bowen Bridges, Marco Melovich and Harold Sleezer and Battaglia were on vigil at the apartment area when Hansen arrived as a passenger in an acquaintance's car, Battaglia said.

Hansen was taken to Marin County Jail where he was held under $31,250 bail.

Trio Arrested On Airliner In Cuba Incident

CHICAGO (UPI)—Three of four men taken off an airliner at O'Hare International Airport after one of them mentioned taking the plane to Cuba and a gun was found on another were being held today.

Federal charges were filed against the three, William H. Getz, 19, San Francisco, Raymond Hewitt, 27, Los Angeles, and Dexter Woods, 21, San Francisco. The men denied they planned to hijack the United Air Lines Boeing 727 jet, which was preparing to leave for San Francisco early Sunday.

Getz, who is white and was carrying the gun, told police he was an art salesman. Woods and Hewitt are Black Panthers who denied knowing Getz, police said. Getz denied knowing the Panthers, they said.

Authorities said the three men were sitting at the rear of the plane—which carried 34 passengers and a crew of seven—when Marine Lance Cpl. William Swearingen, 22, Elkhart, Ind., told stewardess Patricia Whitcher, 22, San Francisco, that he saw Getz holding a gun.

Another stewardess, Susan Rittger, 21, San Francisco, reported that Hewitt told her, "If we have enough fuel to get to San Francisco, we must have enough to get to Cuba."

Police were called. As officers started along the aisle toward them, Getz rose and reached for his pistol, police said. Chicago patrolman Ronald Poedtke charged Getz and knocked him to the floor, and the gun fell into the aisle.

Israeli Warplanes Strike Across Border Into Syria

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli warplanes struck in force across the Syrian cease-fire line today for the first time since the 1967 war, bombed two Arab Guerrilla bases and engaged in dogfights with Syrain MIGs near Damascus.

Israel claimed its planes returned unharmed after shooting down one Syrian MIG17. Damascus radio said three Israeli jets and two Syrain fighters were shot down. Israel did not announce how many Israeli planes made the raid, but a spokesman said the Syrains sent up about 10 or 12 MIG17s and MIG21s. This announcement and broadcasts from Damascus indicated it may have been the biggest Arab-Israeli air clash since the 1967 war.

The cease-fire line between Israel and Syria had been relatively quiet since the June 1967 war, but the Israeli army said the raid was in retaliation for a sharp increase in guerrilla attacks along the border since Jan. 20, including the machine gunning of a civilian bus yesterday.

The army said two soldiers were killed and three were wounded in 12 incidents of mining and shooting in the occupied Golan Heights, which Israel captured from Syria in the six-day war.

A spokesman said the Israeli planes bombed two locations—Maisalun, on the main Beirut-Damascus highlay 10 miles west of the Syrian capital, and El Hamme, on the Sprian border.

"Your lunch, Daddy! You forgot your lunch!"

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Feb. 24, the 55th day of 1969 with 310 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1920 a group of Germans organized the National Socialist Party, a fore-runner of the Nazi Party to be led by Adolf Hitler.

In 1922 a Henri Landru, known as "Bluebeard," was executed at Versailles, France, for murdering 10 of his 13 sweethearts.

In 1966 President Nkrumah of Ghana was ousted from office.

A thought for the day: French writer Pierre Corneille said, "He who allows himself to be insulted deserves to be."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Best Time To Nail Frisky Foe Is On Low Doubtful Bidding

Your biggest profits at rubber bridge come from doubling an opponent when he steps out of line, and the best time to nail a frisky opponent is when he makes a doubtful bid at a low level. Keep your eyes open for an opponent's overcall after your partner has opened the bidding since that is the time an opponent is most likely to be venturing into unknown territory.

SAFE DOUBLE

It is safe to double a contract of two diamonds (or any lower bid) without a sure trump trick provided that you have four trumps of some reasonable value, as in today's hand. The less you have in the trump suit the more you need outside. If this type of double backfires, declarer will not score a game but will usually gain only about 100 points. If the double works, you will gain several hundred.

In today's hand, South's overcall was fairly normal, but he paid a heavy price for it. East won the first trick with the jack of spades and returned the seven of clubs up to dummy's weakness. South put up the jack, losing to West's queen of clubs.

PEEL SOUTH DOWN

West led his other spade to the king, and East returned the ten of clubs, giving West two more club tricks. West switched to the king of hearts, getting an enthusiastic signal when East followed with the jack of hearts. West continued with the queen of hearts and then with a low heart to the ace.

By this time South had been peeled down to his five trumps, but more was to come.

When East led a spade South's trumps were in the middle. South ruffed low, and West overruffed with the eight.

LAST HEART

West next led his last heart, and East shrewdly ruffed with the jack of trumps. South had to overruff with the queen, and West got a second trump trick with the ten. The defenders held South to his three top trumps, scoring 900 points for the five-trick penalty. This was about twice the value of the game which they might not have bid and might not have made.

DAILY QUESTION

♣ K J 6

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. It is safe to open a hand which provides only a doubtful overcall. Even if the cards are badly placed the opponents will have very difficult time doubling you for penalties and making the double stick.

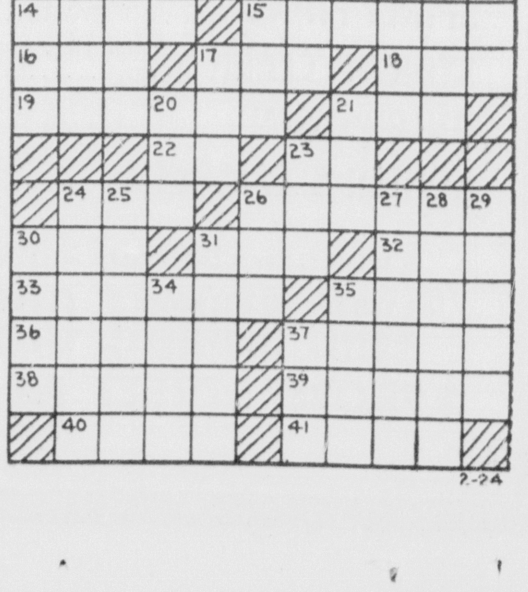
Saturday's Answer



California Gets Hearing In Prisoners Law Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today granted California a hearing in a dispute with 89 inmates of San Quentin prison over their access to law books and court opinions.

The issue is whether a three-judge federal court should be convened in San Francisco to hear this question. The Supreme Court will schedule arguments later this term and decide the matter by written opinion.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Aug. 16, 1968, said "a substantial question of constitutional law" was involved and a three-judge panel was required to resolve it.

The inmates sought an order barring enforcement of rules adopted in 1966 by the State Director of Corrections.

The director ruled that only 11 basic law book titles would be available in prison libraries, thus cutting down the small law libraries of San Quentin and Folsom prisons. The order came as a result of what state officials believed to be overproduction of writs in prison.

James W. L. Park, assistant warden of San Quentin Prison, today said he presumed that the 11 basic titles, dealing mainly with the state law, had been put into the other prisons but not into the state's 34 forestry camps. He said that law libraries at San Quentin and Folsom had not been reduced pending court decisions.

The state about a year ago also ruled that prisoners may purchase their own law books, Park said. Previously no prisoner was allowed to own law books.

The rule that prisoners may not aid one another in preparing writs still is in force, Park said. "It would be practicing law without a license and our position is that it leads to pressure and intimidation when a prisoner hires another one to prepare a writ and then can't pay."

The approximately 3,800 inmates of San Quentin turn out about 4,000 writs a year, Park said.

Foul Skies Cancel Air Hunt For Plane

Snow, rain and wind caused suspension today of all aerial searching from Hamilton Air Force Base, for the DC3 "gamblers" airliner missing since last Tuesday near Hawthorne, Nev., with 35 persons aboard.

However, a limited amount of ground searching was carried out by men in four-wheel drive vehicles and skis and snowshoes.

Pathologist Defends JFK Shots Report

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An Army pathologist testified at Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial today that President John F. Kennedy was hit by just two bullets—both definitely fired from behind him.

"That is my honest professional opinion," said Col. Pierre A. Finck, when asked if anyone in government had tried to influence his findings.

Finck, who took part in the Kennedy autopsy, was summoned by defense lawyer F. Irvin Dymond in a move to oppose the state's claim that Shaw and other conspirators set up a crossfire ambush for the President.

NO EVIDENCE

"Did you find any evidence that President Kennedy was hit by more than one shot in the head?" asked Dymond.

"No," said Finck, a lean, bespectabled physician who testified in accented formal English, frequently spelling words which he felt were not clear. Finck, a graduate of the University of Geneva in Switzerland, imigrated to the United States and was drafted into the Medical Corps in 1955.

He stepped down from the witness stand several times to stand in front of the jury and explain sketches of the President's wounds.

THE STATE'S CASE

In the state's case, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said photographs and witnesses back his contention that the President was also hit by a bullet fired from in front of him.

The major prosecution exhibit on that point was the home movie film of the assassination made by Abraham Zapruder, a Dallas dress manufacturer. It showed the President jerk backwards after the bullet threw a spray of blood and tissue from his head.

"The great value of the Zapruder film," said Col. Finck, "was that it established the position of the President and also the sequence of the shots. At the time of the autopsy, we could not determine the sequence of shots but this was established by the Zapruder film."

SIXTH WEEK

Shaw, 55, a retired New Orleans businessman, was charged with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to murder Kennedy, shot in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Finck, the seventh defense witness, was one of the three-man military medical team which performed the autopsy shortly after the body was flown back to Washington.

The medical findings, detailed in the Warren Commission report, concluded that Kennedy was killed by two high velocity bullets "fired from a point behind and somewhat above" him. The commission said Oswald was the lone sniper and that it found no credible evidence of conspiracy.

Court Rules Teen Has Right Of Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to consider giving juveniles accused of delinquency the right to be tried by a jury.

The right was asserted by Clarence J. DeBacker, a Nebraska youth committed to the boys training school at Kearney last March for possession of a forged check.

A court decision in May 1967 revolutionized juvenile proceedings throughout the country by giving youths accused of crime many of the procedural guarantees accorded adults under the U.S. Constitution.

Now, in hearing DeBacker's appeal next term, the court will decide if the right to a jury trial is also guaranteed to juveniles.

MERGER STUDY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to examine the proposed merger of the Northern Lines which would span the west with the longest rail system in the nation.

In a brief order without opinion, the court granted the Justice Department's request for a review of the merger and will schedule arguments sometime next fall or winter. The merger was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and upheld unanimously by a three-judge special court Nov. 20, 1968.

The proposed consolidation would merger the Great Northern Railway Co.; Northern Pacific Railway Co.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway Com; and the Pacific Coast Railroad Co.

It would create a 26,500-mile long system running from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Great Lakes to the Pacific. The merged company, as one of the largest private railroads in the world, would have total assets of $2.8 billion.

TO HEAR CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nebraska woman challenging the right of officials to order her sterilized was granted a hearing today by the Supreme Court.

The case, of Gloria Cavitt, 37, of Grand Island, could have rules governing the handling of far-reaching implications for mental deficiency by the states.

At the moment six states—California, Indiana, Maine, Nebraska, North Carolina and Wisconsin—authorize the forced sterilization of mentally deficient women without a showing that their offspring would inherit the illness.

PROTEST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court insured today the right of school children to hold protest demonstrations, but emphasized officials may impose restraints if there are intrusions upon the work of the school or the rights of other students.

"It can hardly be argued that either students or teachers shed their constitutional right to freedom of speech or expression at the schoolhouse gate," said Justice Abe Fortas for the court.

The ruling directly upheld the right of three Des Moines, Iowa, teen-agers to wear black armbands to school in December 1965 to publicize their objections to the Vietnam war and their support for a holiday season truce.

LEGAL ADVISE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jailhouse lawyers won in the Supreme Court today the right to dispense free legal advice to their fellow inmates.

A 7-2 decision said Tennessee state prison officials had no right to keep William Joe Johnson, an advice-giving convict, from helping illiterate or poorly educated prisoners who could benefit from his aid in preparing appeals.

The court majority, through Justice Abe Fortas, conceded that prison "writers" like Johnson are sometimes a menace to prison discipline and that the petitions they prepare are often so unskillful as to be a burden on the courts which receive them.

Paramount, however, the ruling found, was the right of poor and unschooled convicts to have access to all legal facilities as they fight for their freedom.

TEST CASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights lawyers won Supreme Court agreement today to look into the garnishment of workers' salaries by finance companies.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund lawyers picked Wisconsin's garnishment law for their test case. The court will hold a hearing in the new term that begins in October.

In 17 states wages can be garnisheed by a creditor without a hearing or a demonstration of special circumstances.

The case at hand involves Mrs. Christine Sniadach, 25, of Milwaukee and the Family Finance Corp. of Bay View. The company claimed she owed $420 and began an action in state courts in 1966.

STAMP ISSUE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today declined to involve itself in a California lawsuit where the government made a federal case out of a dispute over three cents.

The brief order left standing a lower court decision against a Marysville man who claimed the post office took his money for special delivery services it neglected to give.

R. Leon Hughes, a highway engineer, initiated the suit against Marysville Postmaster J. Herman Gengler in 1966 when an urgent special delivery letter addressed to Hughes' post office box was held several days by postal authorities.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Ailing Physician, Infant Son Need Surgery At Same Time

VAN DELLEN

A physician developed severe abdominal pain along with all the signs of peritonitis. Since his left side was involved, he suspected diverticulitis — with inflammation and rupture of a tiny pocket in the large intestine.

He was about to leave for the hospital when his 3-month-old son began to vomit. On examination, the infant was found to have a hard mass in the abdomen. Following an enema, the tot passed a bloody stool.

THE SICK MEDICO suspected a condition which one part of the intestine telescopes into the other (intussusception). One coil of the intestine behaves as though it was trying to move faster than the adjacent segment. And in so doing, invaginates or slips into the next part.

On the father's insistence, the baby was operated on first.

An intussusception was found and the segments were pulled apart to relieve the obstruction. A ruptures gangrenous pocket (diverticulum) was found in the father.

THE BOY MADE an uneventful recovery but the father developed complications that delayed his recovery for a few weeks.

The cause of intussusception is not known. In some instances, there is a polyp or nodule on the inside of the bowel. The intestine treats this as a piece of food and works so hard to push it ahead, that it telescopes itself into the next segment.

The sheathing or receiving loop pinches off the circulation and the parts begin to swell. This can be felt through the thin abdominal wall of a baby.

INTUSSUSCEPTION IS suspected whenever a healthy tyke suddenly develops abdominal colic and vomits. These symptoms may persist until the baby is prostrated. One normal stool is passed but after that there is only blood. The defect is easily detected via X-rays. The outcome is good, provided the disorder is corrected within 24 hours.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SLIPPING A DISK

D. D. writes: So many people seem to have a slipped disk. What causes this condition?

REPLY

This disk is the cushioning material between the vertebrae. It is held in place by fibrous bands of tissue. Deterioration of this protective capsule occurs with age or injury, and severe strain causes the disk to bulge or protrude from between the vertebrae. Symptoms stem from pressure of the displaced part against the spinal cord or root of the sciatic nerve.

TIN CAN STORAGE

B. J. writes: Is it dangerous to eat foods that have been left in a refrigerator in open tin cans?

REPLY

No, because modern tin cans are lined with noncorrosive and nonabsorbable materials. Years ago, some lead was used in the manufacture of these containers. However, from an esthetic point of view, the new plastic units are better for storage purposes.

CAUSE OF BURSITIS

T. C. B. writes: Is bursitis the result of an infection?

REPLY

The condition usually stems from wear and tear. Infection is a minor cause. When an epidemic of bursitis occurs, I am of the opinion that the origin is of a viral nature.

Californian Heads New Third Party

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The chairman of a new third party made up of a loose confederation of groups which backed George Wallace for president in November says "we have accomplished our goals . . . we are on the way to saving America."

William K. Shearer, advertising executive of San Diego and Los Angeles, made the statement yesterday following a total of 25 hours of meetings over the weekend.

Shearer pronounced the gathering of delegates from 26 states an absolute success compared with a rival effort held at Dallas early this month. He claimed that the Texas parley ended without forming a permanent structure to prepare for the 1972 election.

The common thread among the delegates here was the support last year of the former Alabama governor, who headed a third party presidential ticket. Wallace did not give his blessing to the weekend meetings nor has he indicated his plans.

Shearer was elected permanent chairman; the Rev. everly McDowell of Richond, Va., vice chairman; Mrs. Virginia Crawford of Dearborn, Mich., women's vice chairman; Mrs. Edna Russo of Seattle, secretary, and Dr. Francis X. Sommer of Barbourville, Ky., treasurer.

The formal name of the new party is "The National Committee of Autonomous State Parties known as the American Independent Party, the American Party, the Independent Party, the Conservative Party, the Constitution party, the Courage party and such other political parties as desire to affiliate with this national committee."

A panel discussion on regional government will follow the noon luncheon. Panelists are Victor Jones, political science professor at the University of California, and Richard Carpenter, executive director and general counsel of the League of California Cities.

Any $7,000 car looks good in a glittering showroom. The Mercedes-Benz 280S shines in a tight spot on the highway.

Look underneath, and you'll begin to see why.

Of all cars in the "luxury class" field, the Mercedes-Benz 280S is rated the safest, most roadworthy. Read why.

The Mercedes-Benz 280S does not have pin striping, a wall-to-wall grille, or a hood two feet longer than anything it pretends to enclose.

But its classic lines, free of faddish touches, will grace any driveway—and will still be pleasing long after newer styling furbelows have rendered this year's crop of "dreamboats" obsolete.

The real beauty of the 280S, though, lies not so much in how the car looks, as in what it does.

Endowed by Mercedes-Benz engineers with sophisticated, ultra-performance features that simply do not exist on domestic sedans in the so-called "fine car" field, the 280S steers, maneuvers and stops as if your life depended on it.

This is one reason why Car and Driver magazine, with a world of cars to choose from, concludes that the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

Racing car suspension

For a clue to the almost uncanny handling and evasive ability of the 280S, scrunch down and look beneath the rear bumper—at the axle. It's not the rigid "beam" axle of most domestic cars. It is articulated.

This Mercedes-Benz low-pivot swing axle permits each rear wheel to move up and down independently of the other, just as the front wheels do. The result is leech-like roadability.

If you know what you're looking for, you can also spot heavy-duty thrust arms, individual coil springs and shocks, and a horizontal hydro-pneumatic load-leveling device.

All in all, suspension ideas more common on 180-mph Grand Prix racing cars than 5-passenger sedans.

Engineering extravagance?

A passenger car doesn't need a suspension fit for a racer, argue some critics. True, reply Mercedes-Benz engineers. For everyday city driving, this is sheer engineering extravagance.

But some day you might have to get off the pavement, onto a stretch of potholed back road. You might have to enter a sharp curve or a turn-off faster than you intended. You might have to jockey out of a tight spot while cruising at 65 mph on a busy highway.

And, suddenly, you realize that this engineering extravagance is no extravagance at all.

Sharp reflexes

Occasionally, it is also necessary for a 3,400-pound automobile hurtling along at high speed to stop abruptly.

Once more, Mercedes-Benz engineers draw on their experience with World Champion racing machinery. They employ the more expensive, but clearly superior, type of brakes used almost universally on today's professional racing circuits.

Disc brakes.

The engineers don't stint, either—by putting disc brakes only at the front wheels, and settling for conventional drum brakes on the rear. They insist on attaching a massive disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Someday, doubtless, 4-wheel disc brakes will be offered on a domestic "luxury" car.

Accurate steering is vital for maximum control, too. In an emergency, you don't have time for a sweeping twirl of the wheel.

The ingenious Mercedes-Benz recirculating-ball-type steering system of the 280S eliminates sloppy play in the wheel—and blesses you with the "feel" of the road. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Taut, sensitive steering is retained even with Mercedes-Benz power steering—characterized by Car and Driver as "unquestionably the most precise unit of its kind ever developed."

If trouble comes

The responsiveness which makes the 280S such a joy to drive is its best defense against blundering motorists. However, if the worst happens, the car is designed to shield you. Naturally, it meets all the U.S. safety regulations. But Mercedes-Benz safety goes beyond the letter of these laws.

The entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear of the car are engineered to crumple in a crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

"A fellow hit me when I stopped at a toll booth," reports one Mercedes-Benz owner. "People in his car were hospitalized. But I just opened my door and stepped out."

Showroom experiments

The 280S is as habitable as it is roadworthy and safe.

Slip behind the wheel, and flex your back. This is no marshmallow seat. It supports you, hour after hour. It should: it was designed with help from orthopedic physicians.

Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Feel the underside of the dashboard. There's no spaghetti tangle of wires. It's fully finished off. Finger the wood trim—real walnut, not plastic.

No shortcuts

Every 280S begins life in a shower of sparks. It is not bolted into being, like a conventional car, but solidified by thousands of welds. After 50,000 miles or so, you may start to wonder if it will ever rattle.

More than four coats and 44 pounds of paint and primer rust protection are lavished on each car. Even the insides of the hubcaps are coated. As a final flourish in its armament against corrosion, the 280S gets a 24-pound factory slathering of undercoating.

Unconventional? Defiantly so. Mercedes-Benz does not build conventional cars—and never will.

Fuel injection available

Machined to racing tolerances, the 2.8 liter, overhead cam, six-cylinder engine of the 280S is built to run flat-out on Germany's autobahns for hours on end (it often does)—and can cruise at any posted speeds in America, with energy in reserve.

However, if you'd like even more power, you may choose the 280SE. The "E"—for Einspritzmotor—gives you a Bosch 6-plunger fuel-injection system that boosts horsepower by nearly 15 percent, at virtually no sacrifice in gas mileage.

NOTE: Another variation, the 280SEL, affords a wheelbase 4 inches longer, and with four inches additional legroom in the rear compartment. Maneuverability is unimpaired.

24-page brochure

To learn more details of the remarkable 280S—$7,000 complete with automatic shift, power steering and electric windows ($6,249* without frills)—mail the coupon for a color brochure.

Better still, drop by the showroom and arrange to test the car. Driving is believing.

Other models to ponder:

220 Diesel—the only diesel-powered automobile Mercedes-Benz makes, gives you small-car economy in a big, safe sedan that may well endure for decades, $4,780*.

Citrus Freeze Hits Housewives' Purses

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Housewives may be paying more for orange juice, thanks to a freeze which hit Florida citrus groves in December.

Robert W. Rutledge, executive vice president of Florida Citrus Mutual, is predicting a price hike at the consumer level on frozen concentrated orange juice.

THE CITRUS executive said demand for frozen orange juice was excellent last month, with consumers spending $7 million a week for it.

"This indicates that many in the industry are still underestimating demand and the prices should increase generally to $2 f.o.b. from the present $1.85 per dozen six ounce cans," Rutledge said.

ANY INCREASE at the f.o.b level would be passed along to the consumer.

Rutledge's comments came as the U.S. Department of Agriculture reduced its estimate of the size of the Florida orange crop for the second straight month. However, the second largest grapefruit harvest in history is expected.

A mid-December freeze was responsible for a drop of 3.5 million boxes from the USDA estimate of the 1968-69 orange crop, placing the figure at 126.5 million boxes, including temples.

THE GRAPEFRUIT estimate was increased by 1.5 million boxes in the USDA's monthly report. The anticipated crop is now 43.5 million boxes.

The late season valencia orange estimate was left unchanged at 56 million boxes, while the estimate was cut by three million boxes for early and mid-season valencias. The tangerine estimate was cut by 1.4 million boxes and now stands at 4.3 million boxes.

Fishing Is Woman's New Hobby

By DOROTHY NEWELL

MRS. HARLEY McAskill, wife of Novato's mayor, gets a few pointers on fishing, a new hobby she hopes to participate in with son, Kevin, while Scott looks on. The McAskill's have lived in Novato 16 years and have watched the city grow from a small town of about 1500 to nearly 30,000, the second largest city in Marin County. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

The sun was shining through the living room windows of the pleasant two story home as I sat and chatted over a cup of tea with Novato's first lady.

Speaking of her husband's position with the city, Mrs. Harley McAskill, wife of Novato's mayor, said, "I keep out of all that."

"The only time I attended a city council meeting was when Harley was sworn in," said diminutive, five foot, Betty Jo.

However, she keeps busy with a number of other activities and her family which includes two very active boys, Kevin, 12 years old, who is now four inches taller than his mother and Scott, five years old.

THE McASKILLS bought a home in San Marin when the subdivision first opened more than four years ago and Betty Jo enjoys doing all the gardening in their large corner lot. She also enjoys knitting, which she started as a hobby over a year ago, and she enjoys reading "anything." She was a volunteer at Novato Hospital but is now an inactive member.

"Harley is home only one day a week, so we try to have Sundays for the family," she said.

SHE IS LOOKING forward to taking up a new hobby, fishing with Kevin, now a sixth grader at San Ramon School.

Scott is a kindergarten student at the school which is in the same block as their home. Betty Jo feels they are fortunate in being so close to the school. The youngsters can now play ball on the school grounds rather than in the street.

Another member of the family, who greets one when the doorbell rings, is Siegfried, a most protective Dachshund.

Betty Jo was born in Haigler, Neb. (No one will know where that is, she said.) She spent some of her childhood in southwest Nebraska living on a ranch and was working in San Mateo when she met Harley, a native of Petaluma.

BEFORE THE McAskills moved to Novato and opened their store 16 years ago, Harley worked in his father's men's clothing store in Petaluma.

Betty Jo nostalgically says the town of Novato was so small then and not crowded. They have watched it grow from approximately 1500 people to nearly 30,000, the second largest city in Marin County.

THEY WERE MARRIED 12 years before Kevin was born and she says the youngsters really keep her "jumpin."

With two growing boys I asked if she liked to cook and in her straightforward way, she said, "I hate it."

Betty Jo is looking forward to the day when she will have a little more time to enjoy another hobby, browsing through antique shops looking for cut glass and pieces of old silver.

THE McASKILL home, decorated in cool shades of green, has many pieces of glass and silver displayed, which have been in the McAskill family for many generations.

Betty Jo may say she isn't involved with the problems confronting her husband as mayor, but she definitely is involved as Novato's first lady in representing the city at the social functions in the area.

IN BOSTON

Teen-Agers' Halfway House

By RICHARD GAINES

BOSTON (UPI) —"Place" is a rundown, offbeat, underground, understaffed struggling social service agency for kids who have no other place to turn.

Its drab four-story headquarters on a back street of Boston's South End acts as a sort of halfway house for teenage runaways, youths on everything from marijuana to LSD, outcasts and dropouts — all of whom come looking for help.

THEY ARE MET at Place by a core of resident theological and university students who have draw together an imposing group of professionals from the fields of law, religion, psychology, psychiatry and medicine.

"Place's primary interest is overcoming alienation —reconciling youngsters estranged from home with their families," explained cofounder Peter A. Callaway, 27, a Harvard Divinity School student who lives in a cluttered alcove at Place.

"We have made our work with runaways central,'' Callaway said. "This falls in line with the guiding purpose of place —that it be an enabler and protector of the young community."

For Place, with its limited resources and the necessity to remain outside the establishment, its existence becomes known to the young community only through an effective grapevine.

"PEOPLE WHO KNOW we're here come to us," a volunteer explained. "It could be parents concerned about their children and we are able to refer them and their kids to the various services available. Or it could be a person from the 'scene' who runs across someone who needs help."

The full time residential staff of place—six to eight students from Harvard Divinity School, Andover-Newton Theological School and Episcopal Theological School—expect and face a gamut of situations around the clock.

About 10 runaways a week find their way to Place's 31½ Dwight Street address, while innumerable others are assisted over the telephone or through field workers. In addition, four youths currently live at Place, three from the division of child guardianship and one with parental permission.

PLACE ALSO MAINTAINS a "bad trip" telephone number for persons on a bad LSD trip or those suffering from an overdose of drugs or poisoning. The callers' anonymity is guaranteed.

"If they're thinking of suicide or are shooting heroin or speed (amphetamines) or LSD, and if its real bad," said Rick Zybert, 21, a volunteer from Boston University who sometimes mans the "bad trip" phone, "we'll get someone over there and take them to a hospital where they can be treated. They're afraid to call the hospitals themselves because lots of times they're runaways and not older than 13 or 14."

Another Place worker said, "we get the farthest type speed freaks to the straightest older women on that line."

WHEN MEDICAL or clinical help is needed, Place can draw on the services of Dr. David Lewis of Beth Isreal Hospital, Dr. Alfred J. R. Koumans of Massachusetts Institute of Technology's psychiatric service and Dr. Joseph Herskowitz, among others.

Place also finds emergency accommodations in the homes of families of seminarians and other friends of Place when the cases call for it.

CALLOWAY, who co-founded Place in the fall of 1967 with David A. Andes of Andover-Newton, said the relaxingly unkempt appearance of Place and its people is planned.

"We are recognized and established but not crushed by the establishment," the Westport, Conn., native said. "It's important to these kids that we're a little sloppy."

In spite of its appearance and the preunderance of "hippy looking" types, Place has good relations with its neighbors and the local authorities.

"The police are great as far as we're concerned," one resident said. "I think they realize we're doing something good. It's certainly more than 'live and let live'."

Until recently, a grant from the Anna B. Stearns Charitable Foundation and speaking engagements by Place workers barely provided the $1,200 a month — Place's subsistance budget. That situation meant all workers remained at Place on a volunteer basis.

But after a highly active summer's work within the "Boston Common Crowd" and the summer underground community, Place's successes led to a substantial grant from the Godfrey M. Hyams Foundation and additional permanent charity from area church and religious groups.

NEVERTHELESS, even now salaries of $25-$30 a week alone are hardly enough to motivate the seminarians in Place's South End Mission.

Callaway explained his satisfaction with Place: "Kids come back. They graduate, I guess you could say and they come back and say, 'I'm doing something now.' And it's good."

Vows Said By Pair In San Diego Ritual

Sgt. James M. Kornegay claimed Kathleen Eleanor Birge of Santa Clara as his bride at the depot chapel at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego on Feb. 14.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Grandma And Grandpa Know They Did Not Invent Sex

DEAR HELEN:

May a grandma say a word about sex and "outmoded virgins?"

I am 69. My husband is 72. We celebrated our golden wedding at Christmas.

In my day a "nice" girl entered marriage a virgin. I take my husband's word for it that he was too. Opportunity for experience, outside of professionals, was slighter them.

Maybe we were inept on our wedding night. We were unpracticed but not stupid and whatever we did came from honest emotion, not Chapter Six of a sex manual or tricks learned from another partner.

If we failed to tune each other in like adjusting color TV, we were happy in our innocence.

As time passed, we learned how to please each other more and this is a joyous thing.

It will undoubtedly shock young moderns to know we still enjoy sex. No, kiddies, life does not stop at 40 or 60 or 70.

How did we innocents hold our men, sexologists may ask? Do these young cynics think our husbands stayed around just to buy the groceries? Because we didn't talk sex doesn't mean we didn't enjoy it. We just didn't feel that we invented it, like too many kids feel today.

Ovid, about 20 years before Christ, wrote a sex manual of sorts, and I'm sure the Egyptians did it before him. We read Ovid, as literature, back in the so-called unenlightened age.

So there was less "confusion" on our wedding nights than youngsters think of us squares. It was guys and girls, then as now. Who could get confused?

Why do those who want premarital sex get so upset over those who wait? It it envy at the self-control? If premarital sex or a manual by the bed is the solution, why is the divorce rate so high? Little old innocent me held her man for 50 years — and I do mean man! — GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY:

Thanks for a sock it to 'em letter, friend! I can see why Gramps love you. So do I! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband Joe is a terrible chaser. He comes home at 4:45 a.m. and says he's been working. On who? He also locks the bathroom when he takes a bath. Is this normal?

A young woman moved in next door. She is 22, and 42-22-37. Is she influencing his behavior? Also, should I tell my best friend that her husband visits this neighbor? Oh yes, I forgot to tell you she wears mini-mini shirts. Forget the skirts.

I try to make myself more glamorous by dousing myself with French perfume but when my husband comes near he goes into sneezing spasms.

He also gets mysterious telephone calls. I heard him say, "Cool it, man." Is he really talking to President Nixon, like he says?

Another thing, my husband is't with it. He refuses to wear a beard. — What would you do if your were me? — UNHAPPY TEEN-AGE BRIDE.

DEAR YOU-ALL:

Why not jazz up the plot with more sex and stuff, and sell it to a soap opera? — H.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

'No Greater Drive Than Desperation'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Penny Rich had a name to live up to. And she did. For a woman who today says that once upon a time "I didn't know a thing about selling," her sales career has been a spectacular one. It has gone from one item she "invented" out of necessity and a starting capital of $4.50 in 1953 to multimillionaire status in 1969.

SHE ALSO has gone from one employee, herself, to more than 5,000 persons engaged in her direct, or home selling, business.

PINNED DOWN to giving advice on direct selling, the blonde-haired widow advises that you start with a good product that is needed — "you've got to believe that it is the greatest in the world" — and then going out "and talking to people."

"At first I just sat hoping the world would come to me," said Miss Rich (she uses her maiden name professionally). "But I found you've got to work very hard . . . put in that extra step, be interested, be enthusiastic."

Recuperating from minor surgery in 1952, she began to put on weight. The added weight made uncomfortable all the usual bras and Miss Rich developed that all-American girl gesture of shoulder-strap tugging.

Finally her mother, annoyed with the habit, sat her down at a sewing machine and said: "Make a bra that you're comfortable in." Miss Rich, no seamstress, recalled that a lot of scissoring and stitching went into her repeated efforts to produce a comfortable bra. When she finally made a nostrain product, she figured ther women would be interested, too.

SHE QUIT her job, moved her family (mother and two daughters) to Sherman Oaks, Calif., and set up a bra-making corner in a dress shop.

"I was down to $4.50," she recalled. "I had to let my car go, charge the groceries..."

IT WAS WHEN she decided on the direct sales method and went into partnership with Tom Mowe, a West Coast boat builder whom she'd met in her attorney's office, that the bra business began to build. They're all sold through the "home party" method that some housewares and cosmetics manufacturers have found successful.

Membership is attained through chapter affiliation only.

All interested women are invited to visit chapter meetings held Mondays at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Proceeds from the rummage sale will go to help pay expenses of Marin chapter members' trip to Reno in April.

Donations for the sale are solicited. Further information may be obtained by calling sale chairman Mrs. Howard Henry of San Anselmo in the evening or chapter president Mrs. John Maillard of Tiburon.

THE LARKSPUR Women's Club will hold a spring hat luncheon and cards, on Wednesday noon in the clubrooms at the Larkspur City Hall. Prizes will be awarded for the most original, prettiest and funniest spring hat.

Mrs. Marvin McCarty is luncheon chairman; Carlotta Thomas, president, will greet guests; and Mrs. Frank Gunnar is in charge of reservations.

THE FOUNDERS DAY meeting of the Tomales Elementary P-TA will be held jointly with the Tomales High School P-TA this year.

This meeting will be held on Thursday in the high school music room at 8 p.m. Presiding will be Mrs. William Bonini, president of the Elementary P-TA, and Mrs. Walton Burbank, president of the high school P-TA.

An open discussion will be held considering two letters, one urging additional funds for social casework in adoptions, and another requesting amendment of the internal revenue code to allow deduction of adoption fees and expenses. In addition the group will plan a June camping trip in the Sierra-Tahoe region.

All adoptive parents and parents interested in adoptions are urged to attend.

BALLET STUDENTS of the Mill Valley Branch of the Pacific Dance Guild are inviting their parents to a series of special evening classes during the next two weeks.

Parents will be able to see the progress their children have made as instructor Hannah Nunn explains the exercises and movements during the class sessions.

Does She Tip, Streak Or Frost?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Do you know the difference between streaking, tipping and frosting? If you do, you are better informed than most women who admire the highlights effects on friends.

Streaking is the lightening of one-half-inch to two-inch areas of hair. Rarely are more than six light streaks put against dark in contrast in a hair fashion. The streaks are confined to the top layer of the hair on the crown.

Frosting is the fine threading of wisps of hair that are lightened throughout. It's a blonde effect that lasts for several months.

Each of the three haircoloring effects requires infrequent redoing. Streaking needs to be refreshed only twice a year. Frosting and tipping need to be revitalized only two or three times a year.

Paint Removing

For paint removing and brush cleaning, solvents labeled "nonflammable" are safest, the National Fire Protection Association says. If you must work with flammable ones, it is best to do it out doors but never in any area where there is an open flame or where anyone is smoking.

Great-Grandmother Retains Physical Fitness Program

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I like to be fit for myself to know."

The words come from a tiny great-grandmother who all her life has made physical fitness part of her daily regimen. Now at 82, Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, born a Philadelphia Biddle, has taken up jogging.

"Well, it pays dividends," said this sprightly, delicate blonde. Most days she will walk and jog at least half an hour, sometimes longer, figuring she averages adout four miles—"My age group all think I'll drop dead."

JULIA RUSH HENRY represents everyone's reason for keeping physically and mentally in tune. She's never had a serious illness — "although I'm afraid to mention this. Lightning might strike." She goes to Europe a couple of times a year. And at 89 to 90 pounds, she weighs the same as she did when she was a debutante in Philadelphia where her father, Alexander Williams Biddle, was a doctor.

Mrs. Henry is the product of a family long conscious of public service — three of her ancestors were signers of the Declaration of Independence. "We Biddles have always been into something," she smiles.

She grew up in a family conscious of sports too—golfing, swimming, tennis and the like. And each day of her adult life she has done one hour of exercise although she conceded, "Some days you just have to make yourself do them."

"But it's so attractive to look fit, don't you think?" she asked. And she looked quite so in a tunic-jacketed beige suit from Simonetta of Italy and her dark ranch mink coat.

I invited Mrs. Henry to join me in a jogging session around the Plaza Hotel but we settled for a walk—"Jog in a mink coat! The children whould think I'd gone crazy." Her walking and jogging clothes are casual when she takes to the high school track 200 yards from her home at Chestnut Hill in Philadelphia.

I MET THIS indefatigable widow when she came to New York for a gathering of the National Jogging Association, which is sponsoring a three-months tour by Robert Bob Richards, the Olympics champion. Richards will jog and cycle coast to coast to dramatize the need for fitness.

The association is a non-profit national federation of joggers, with R.L. Bohannon, former Air Force surgeon general, as its president.

"The body needs care. Jogging is preventive medicine," Mrs. Henry allowed. She began this easy-gain running last summer ("even when it'd hit 90, I'd be out") to the astonishment at first of her socially elite neighbors. But the jogging circle has widened— "now you'll see fathers out running with four or five of their children."

Mrs. Henry's husband was a Philadelphia attorney and a noted philatelist. He died in 1936. The couple had two daughters and there are seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, Mrs. Henry said.

She shakes her head as she says, "My daughters don't jog. I've got fat nephews who won't budge."

BURGLARY RING LOOT RECOVERED

Lt. Jay Fletcher checks part of the expensive merchandise stolen in at least 12 burglaries in San Rafael in the past two months. It was recovered Friday with the arrest of the three-man ring, which also led to the recovery of more than $5,000 worth of electronic equipment, most of it stolen in San Rafael. The equipment was being sold at a San Francisco bookstore.

Deep Split Reported Between Bonn, Paris

By COLIN LAWSON

BONN (London Express) — A startling admission — the first time in the history of the Franco-German Friendship Treaty — that deep differences now exist between Germany and France, coupled with a statement that Bonn and London are united in the essential European problems, was made last night.

It came from Chancellor Kiesinger's chief adviser in the chancellery, Secretary of State Baron von Guttenberg and is therefore seen to have the chancellor's full approval.

Von Guttenberg has up to now been the most fervent supporter of France-German cooperation to the exclusion of all other European problems.

In a broadcast Von Guttenberg said: "There now exists considerable differences between the governments of Bonn and Paris. I say considerable differences because I do not wish to minimize that which cannot be minimized.

He went on — obviously for French consumption — "there has been no change in Franco/German policies and Bonn proceeds from the point of view that there can be Europe without France or without German-French cooperation.

"But we neither want nor are in the position to join in one Eureopean front against another. In our view, Europe can only arise from European countries working with one another and not against one another."

In his job as foreign policy adviser, he has kept the chancellor steadfast on the road to Paris.

His statement yesterday appears to confirm French accusations that a London-Bonn axis has been in the work for some time.

President Charles de Gaulle, through his ambassador in Bonn, has already accused Kiesinger of this.

It is now officially confirmed here that Prime Minister Harold Wilson revealed De Gaulle's European plan during his talks with Kiessinger on Feb. 12.

Russia Offers Travel Bid To W. Germany

BONN (London Express) — The Berlin crisis took on a new twist last night with the Russians offering an apparent big concession if West Germany calls off the presidential election due to be held in the city on March 5.

It began in dramatic fashion with an urgent request by Russian Ambassador Semyon Zarapkin to call on Chancellor Kiesinger.

Only Saturday he saw the chancellor who had handed him a note rejecting Russian demands to cancel the Berlin meeting.

Kiesinger left Bonn Saturday to spend the weekend in his country home nearly 200 miles away.

When he received Zarapkin's request he ordered his helicopter to bring the ambassador to Stuttgart.

There Zarapkin made his offer — an agreement to issue passes for travel between the two halves of the city over Easter in return for calling off the controversial meeting.

Kiesinger is being cautious over the offer which he nevertheless described as encouraging.

He warned that transferring the election meeting could only be agreed when a positive and concrete decision on passes had been reached.

Any agreement, he emphasized, must be long-term and cover all kinds of traffic between both parts of the city.

College Housing: Survival Test

By BRUCE COLEMAN

College of Marin students come to a campus nestled in one of the nation's highest rent districts, but many go home at night to shelter in converted garages, trailers and chicken coops.

Perhaps Charles G. Robertson Jr. sums up the housing problem most succinctly. The Marin Council of Churches campus minister says: "There isn't enough housing and, what is, is exorbitant."

No one has any statistics on the number of student communes but a psychology major, Mary Griffin of San Rafael, estimates that the majority of students who don't live with their parents are sharing rents out of necessity.

"We do," she said matter-of-factly.

"I live with five people — my husband and two other guys and girl. My husband and I share a room. The other girl and two guys, they are friends."

Mrs. Griffin, who is doing a paper on communes for a class, says a commune is "when you share with more than four people."

Art major, Mike Hartsock, says "a commune is the only way to survive. You've got to have other people living with you."

His communal affair, with a population of nine, splits the $225 rent for their seven-room house in San Anselmo and each person "does his own thing" in the kitchen.

He added that everyone would like the commune to be more of a family-type situation but it's not possible. "People have to work and so we're not always there. But, it's a good thing."

Hartsock said he thinks there is enough housing in Marin for college students but that "the rent is too high." He and fellow commune man, Robert Lawson, were sitting on the lawn listening to another man playing the guitar. The guitarist said he is in a "really large commune — the Army."

Communes are also the answer to the housing problem for Reggie Woods of Forest Knolls. He explained how his works:

"You get a bunch of people you can flow with and you put all your resources together to pay the rent. Sometimes, if you don't have a job, the other persons will pay the rent or food.

"Usually there are about three or four guys and usually one girl to do the kitchen work," he added.

Uda Danziger, an Israeli student, said he lived in a seven-person commune but that this had to be split up because former tenants of the house had given the place a bad name.

He now resides with one other man. Communes are not new to Danziger, he said, since he lived on a kibbutz in Israel.

Before the bust, Danziger said there were seven students living together. "We shared the rent and food and work. We cooked together. At one time there were two girls and we were sharing love."

Danziger said that it is not uncommon to rent a house, at one price, fix it up, patch the roof and then find the landlord hiking the rent. Within seven months, he said, his rent was raised from $100 to $120.

Mrs. Griffin said that there is another side to the story because some students move in and wreck a house. Then, she said, landlords think all the people will be like that."

Many students, questioned about housing, said they have no problems since they live at home.

However, those poeple who are married or prefer to live alone, often have to live in some sort of converted structure or house on wheels.

For example, Mursalin Machado lives in San Anselmo in a converted garage with a leaky roof. Living with his wife, he says he pays $70 a month rent and that it's difficult to find anything of any size under $150.

Joe Ward said he ended up renting a garage when he couldn't find a place within his $50 budget. "I insulated and put electricity in all according to code," he said.

Steven Bright and his wife lived in a housetruck last semester and parked it in back of a Sausalito store at night. "I would drive to school with my wife and she would sit in it with the dog and cat. When I finished class, I would drive back to our parking space," he said.

The Brights now rent a converted trailer at 329 Auburn Drive in San Rafael. The bathroom, he said, is in an attached shed. "You go out the front door to get into it. The house is a little better than a truck," said Bright.

The college provides a set of cards listing people who have places to rent. This is in the office of Charles P. Herndon, director of placement and financial aid.

The cards number from about 100 at the start of the semester and drop down to about 20, Herndon said. "We always have cards on file," he added.

Herndon estimates that 30 to 40 per cent of the students don't live with their parents but he has no statistics on what types of domiciles students do live in.

There have been more housing requests this semester, he said, and surmised it is because people are "bailing out" of San Francisco State and San Francisco City Colleges.

Most student requests fall in two categories — students who want to share a place with another student and those who want to work for their room or room and board.

"We get a lot of mamas who come in with daughters saying, 'Where can I put my daughter?' We refer the mamas to the card file and I recommend them to those who want someone to live in to take care of children."

There are no plans now to provide student housing such as a dormitory, Dale A. Fleming, college director of planning and research, said, adding that there is no land space until some land is filled.

Last year a plan for a 100-unit dormitory was submitted by Jules Becker of Ross and other businessmen to be run on a lease basis at no cost to the college. This was turned down, Fleming said, because of other long-term uses for the proposed site, a Kent Avenue parking lot.

Signs of the times at the college are the bulletin boards which display such messages as: "Looking for apartment to share in Marin. Call Ray." "Needed: Ride to and from SF or Berkeley. Will share gas and tolls. Call Ben." "Comfortable living space required by transcendentalist meditator. Share apartment. House, Flat. Contact Eric."

COZY QUARTERS—Mursalin Machado, a College of Marin student, studies on the bed in his tight little house in San Anselmo. Photograph taken in the kitchen; open door leads to bathroom.

CHECKING FOR LEAKS—Machado checks for leaks in his converted garage home in San Anselmo. Machado and his wife pay $70 a month and the student says anything of any size would be $150.

Chamber To Hear Army Commander

Lt. Col. William F. Vernau, post commander of the Two Rock Ranch Army Station, Petaluma, will be the guest speaker at the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce banquet on March 8 at 7 p.m. at Chesney's Carriage House.

Another highlight of the chamber dinner will be the naming of "Man and Woman of the Year, 1968." Plaques will be presented by the 1967 winners, William H. Wiggins and Mrs. Wesley H. Faust.

Auditorium Due Completion In Late December

The Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, under construction by Paul V. Wright Inc. and Ben Ordtsky Inc. of Santa Rosa, will be completed on Dec. 31 at a cost of nearly $4 million.

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported that construction costs will be slightly under $2 million, but other expenses such as site development, architectural and engineering fees, landscaping and contingencies will bring the total cost to $3,961,731.

Mitchell said the cost will be shared thusly: 48 per cent state (1,895,291) and 52 per cent local ($2,066,440).

A total of $1,587,205 has been spent to date. The auditorium will have nearly 800 fixed seats. A flat exhibit area in the rear will have about 15,000 square feet of space, about one-third the size of a football field.

Bullet Fired Into Marin Apartment

Sheriff's deputies reported that someone fired a pistol Friday night, sending a bullet through a window at the second-story apartment of Marcia D. Williams, 215 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

The bullet also went through a closet door and stopped on a shelf in the closet deputies said. Nearby residents reported they heard what appeared to be two pistol shots, deputies noted. The incident was reported at 9:05 p.m.

Wide Choice Offered To San Rafael Voters

San Rafael voters are assured plenty of choice for mayor and two city councilmen in the April 15 municipal election, though none for two board of education members.

A last-day rush of filings Thursday produced a three-way race for mayor and an eight-candidate contest for two positions on the city council.

THIS IS ALL to the good. Regardless of how well public officials are doing their jobs, challenges are healthy. Knowing that others seek the positions of authority — and the responsibility that goes with them — keeps the officials on their toes. It is for this reason that we regret lack of competition with Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. and Paul L. Jones, who are assured no-contest re-election to the board of education.

Aby served 16 years on the city council, the last two of them under Bettini as mayor. He tried for the mayoralty when John F. McInnis vacated the seat in 1965, but lost to Bettini. After serving out the remaining two years of his council term, he stepped out of public office.

Now, like the proverbial retired fire horse that cannot resist the sound of the fire bell, he has entered the lists again.

Both Bettini and Aby have long records of public service — Bettini having been 10 years on the board of education before his election as mayor. Both are well-known. Both are forceful individuals. The contest promises to be highly interesting.

The third mayoral candidate, Arthur F. Deiters, probably can be dismissed as an unlikely threat to unseat the incumbent, though the votes he draws may affect the outcome of the Bettini-vs.-Aby race.

THE RACE FOR CITY council is even more crowded.

Harry A. Barbier is seeking a second full term. He first served two years by appointment, then was elected four years ago. Frederick C. Robbins Jr. has the advantage of a slight incumbency, having been appointed in January to fill the few months remaining of the term of Louis H. Baar, who moved up to the county board of supervisors.

Two others who sought the January appointment also are in the race: attorney Joseph D. Dahlman, who was an unsuccessful candidate two years ago, and John J. Adams, a member of the city planning commission (on which Robbins also served).

Another second-time aspirant in the race is George S. Burton, truck dealer who ran two years ago. Since his defeat in that race, Burton has been a regular attendant at city council meetings.

Also seeking one of the two council positions are Thomas H. Litz, a systems analyst; Ray White, executive manager of the Redwood Empire Sheet Metal and Air Conditioners Association, and Benjamin Franklin Walton, a swimming pool serviceman who is best known for his campaign last year to preserve the Marin County Courthouse for a historical museum.

WE HOPE THAT ALL sorts of organizations in San Rafael will invite the candidates to address them, so that the views of all the aspirants may be as widely aired as possible. We hope, too, that some organization — perhaps the League of Women Voters or the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce — will arrange a major "candidates' night" to give everyone an opportunity to see and hear the vote-seekers.

We will follow the campaign in the Independent-Journal, along with those for school boards throughout the area which are under way at the same time.

Solitude And Tranquility

As populations expand and even suburban communities, like those in Marin, become more urbanized, it becomes increasingly difficult to know the tranquility of solitude. Few people in this exciting pinpoint in time in which we live really want to opt out of society and become hermits. But neither do they want to become like the masses of Asia, who never know the tranquility of solitude and for whom five minutes of silence is a frightening thing.

For that confrontation with oneself, which is the beginning of all understanding, one requires a modicum of solitude and silence.

Two Measures Seek To Give Youth Better Chance To Work

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — For years, it has been acknowledged that California's stringent laws on employment of minors have been conducive to idleness and juvenile delinquency.

All types of roadblocks are thrown in the path of a young man or woman seeking employment by these laws and the rules of the state Department of Industrial Relations, to the point where many employers actually refuse to hire minors.

THE MAJORITY of these laws were enacted years ago with the support of labor unions, under the guise of protecting young people from the abuse some employers once made of the privilege of putting young people to work. If all the facts were known about labor's support of the child labor laws, it no doubt would be found that labor was interested particularly in protecting the jobs of union members. Even now, apprentices are limited in many occupations.

Although this has been a matter of common knowledge for years, little, if anything has been done by the Legislature to alleviate this situation, for the simple reason that offending labor was a step toward political suicide.

THIS YEAR, however, there is the possibility of a change in attitude. Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, has introduced bills which could point the way to relaxing the measures which prevent minors from securing employment in at least some fields.

"We have been painfully aware that unemployment by youths is higher than any other type category," Campbell said, "and unemployment by minority youth is the highest of all."

One of his measures would allow young people to work between the hours of 10 p.m. and 5 a.m. with school and parental consent and approval by the labor commissioner.

A second bill would reduce the 50 different type jobs in which minors are forbidden to work. These include jobs on railroads, boats, on scaffolding, around printing presses, in bowling alleys, and in the manufacturing of leather, as well as many others.

The measure would make it the responsibility of the state labor commissioner to determine whether the job was detrimental to a minor's health of safety.

Marin Head Start In Financial Straits

The Head Start pre-school program in Marin is in serious financial trouble. They are existing on a budget established over two years ago. The very excellent pre-school teachers have not received a salary increase in two years. Some are now having to look elsewhere for better paying teacher positions. This year field trips had to be limited to only one or two. There is one bus which picks the San Rafael children up at 8:30 and arrives in Marin City, after all the other stops, at 9:45. These children ride two and one-half hours a day on the bus.

Our limited and frozen budget is provided by the federal government which expects the community to share some responsibility by contributing volunteer teachers, donations of books and preschool equipment, outdoor play equipment, and needless to say, money.

On March 8 and 22 we will have two volunteer work days. Any groups or individuals interested in working will be greatly appreciated.

Please, people of Marin, visit the school. Go into the classroom and observe what the Head Start program is accomplishing. Only then will you understand how very important it is.

We need your support!

Military Justice Outrages Three

Three women (a teacher, a director of Christian Education, and a nurse) were escorted to the military police station by the Presidio provost-marshal, Colonel Ford, and 13 military police and officers. The reason — we had come to discuss our concern about the mutiny charges with Lt. General Larsen, commanding officer of the Sixth Army. We took this action only after experiencing the frustrations of writing and telegraming Larsen, Secretary of the Army Resor, and elected national officials expressing our outrage about the severe charge of mutiny. We received no response. We asked Colonel Ford for other suggestions of ways to make our opinion heard. His answer: "Frankly nothing."

The message we got from several military officers was: "The military exists for the military man and we don't care what the public thinks."

The most frightening response of all was: "Many people here agree with you, but we've learned it's better to keep our mouths shut." For those who lived during World War II, this has a familiar ring.

What's happening to us? Is the military no longer accountable to the public? Why have three women been indefinitely barred from entering the Presidio for merely attempting to express their concern? What kind of justice sentences a Marine to two years for murdering a Vietnamese woman, and sentences Nesrey Sood to 15 years for peacefully protesting the killing of Richard Bunche?

We believe that things can be changed if enough people express their concern through letters and telegrams, personal visits to key people at the Presidio, and contacting elected officials.

National Symbol: Outstretched Palm

It was a relief to read in Monday's paper (Feb. 16) that someone in Marin County is trying to call a halt to the benefits being showered on county employees.

The idea of giving three weeks vacation after only one year of work is an extravagance most of us are choking over. I, personally, wouldn't feel so outraged over it, except that I, personally, have to pick up the tab (along with several hundred others who work long and hard for their money).

My husband has run a business in Marin County for neary 20 years and during that time he's managed one three-week vacation, and otherwise contented himself(!) with a week here and there and an occasional long week end. Of course, he might be considered a fool to work so long with so little leisure, but that's the kind of fool who earns the tax dollar that's being distributed so lavishly. . . .

Perhaps our national symbol — the American Eagle — should be quietly drowned and replaced with a large hand, outstretched and suitably tatooed with "I DEMAND" on the palm.

Disabled Group Needs Medicare

Why not an editorial on the following items of interest to many?

1. We who are on Social Security disability payments are not covered by Medicare unless we are 65 or over. This is an area I would think it would be needed most. This would lessen the cost of state and county welfare considerably.

2. The cost of living has gone beyond our ability to cope with. If we had an increase of 41 per cent (that seems like a nice round figure) it would lessen the state and county welfare load a huge amount.

Any support or promotion you might be able to give would be appreciated by many.

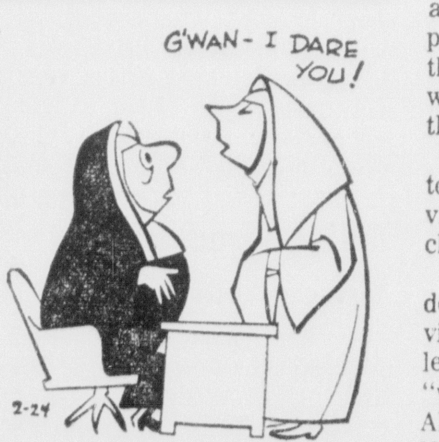
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A CANDID Mother Superior who guided the destinies of a 400-bed hospital was asked, "What was the most difficult thing you had to learn when first you were put in charge of this great hospital?" The Mother Superior reflected, sighed, then answered, "That one cannot fire a nun."



SUPREME COURT Justice Tom Clark tells about a lady who was a paragon of virtue on earth, but upon her death, was dismayed to find herself ticketed for Hell. She phoned St. Peter, who begged her to be patient, because Heaven was temporarily overbooked he couldn't make room for her.

Two weeks later she buzzed St. Peter again, warning him that they were teaching her to drink, and smoke. Patience and fortitude, counseled St. Peter; he would soon be able to accommodate her — but not just yet.

A fortnight later, the paragon of virtue made a final call: "Hi there, Pete? Forget it!"

Cancellation Of Warsaw Talks Indicates Peking's Confusion

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

1. Continuing confusion and strife among the leaders of mainland China make it impossible for them to conduct a coherent foreign policy.

2. China is isolating itself from the world, not the world from China.

3. The government of Mao Tse-tung is not in control and no one else is, either. Peking is only a symbolic capital whose authority hardly extends beyond the city limits.

Peking suddenly finds that it just can't deal with such a "vicious" administration as that of President Nixon which showed its viciousness by "committing a shameless crime against the 700 million Chinese people."

The crime? The United States gave political asylum to the Chinese charge d'affaires in The Hague after he had defected to the Dutch government.

No wonder Secretary of State William Rogers remarked: "I would be surprised if that were the reason."

There is good evidence that it isn't, that the incident was the only excuse at hand to give some kind of pretext for Peking having to call off the Warsaw meeting.

TO MAKE ANY sense out of this let's - talk, let's - not - talk course, we need to understand that there is no effective central government on the mainland today and that Mao's Cultural Revolution and the violence and chaos which attended it have left the Communist Party apparatus and the regime itself limp, shaken and divided.

This is the nearly unanimous view of the most careful and informed China-watchers. No one has described the situation inside China more forcefully and more factually than the former deputy U. S. consul general in Hong Kong, Allen S. Whiting, who recently left government service to teach at the University of Michigan, and thus can speak bluntly.

He puts it this way:

"In retrospect it is clear that Mao took quite literally one of his most quoted thoughts: 'It is necessary to have destruction before construction.' Mao's personal tragedy, and that of China, is that he was unable to move beyond the destructive stage . . . Maoism is now dead as a source of national unity or a force for constructive action." (Life, Feb. 21)

PRESIDENT NIXON and Secretary Rogers are quite understandably "disappointed" and "regretful" that Peking has found it necessary to isolate itself again from contacts with the United States at Warsaw. But this on-again, off-again decision is itself evidence of the internal struggle among Mao's potential successors in the party, in the army and among government administrators. Evidently the decision to resume talks with the United States (and we never suspended them; Peking did) was overruled by those who prefer self-imposed isolation.

Because the United States was about to propose a mutual exchange of journalists, scientists and scholars, perhaps the Nixon Administration is being spared some very untoward incidents. Many who have been allowed to visit Red China aren't being heard from today. The cruel and uncivilized treatment of Reuters correspondent Anthony Gray is only one of many cases.

Peking is holding under duress an unknown number of other foreigners — a dozen British citizens, a like number of Japanese businessmen and journalists, resident bankers and overseas Chinese who disappeared while on legitimate commercial trips.

Probably only a new regime in China can bring it out of chaos and isolation.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

LBJ Set To Challenge Humphrey's Leader Role

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Former President Lyndon Johnson is talking privately as if he is spoiling for a fight over the leadership of the Democratic party.

To visitors at his Texas ranch, he has dropped hints darkly implying he is not taking kindly to the claim of his former teammate and 1968 presidential standard bearer to be the party's "titular" leader.

Johnson is described as maintaining that, under existing political circumstances, the party's leadership is rightfully vested in the hands of the "elected" Democratic leaders of Congress.

Not only does former Vice President Hubert Humphrey emphatically reject that contention, but he is bluntly making it clear he is prepared to forcefully assert his claim as leader.

JOHNSON'S argument that with a Republican President in the White House it is up to the Democratic congressional leaders to exercise party leadership is an old story with him.

That's the stand that he, as Senate Democratic leader, and the late Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, adamantly professed throughout the eight years of the Eisenhower administration. They flatly refused to recognize the late Adlai Stevenson as "titular" leader, and when he set up a national policy advisory committee, they would have nothing to do with it — thus effectively scuttling it.

Humphrey not only intends to establish a new policy advisory committee, but to be chairman of it.

Johnson and former President Harry Truman will be invited to be members — with leaders and authorities from a "wide spectrum" of fields. Also included will be several Negroes. If Johnson declines, no tears will be shed.

KEEPING a firm hold on the Democratic party's leadership is only one of Humphrey's ambitions.

In this strongly held but still unannounced aspiration, Humphrey is fully aware he is up against two tough hurdles:

One is the certainty of powerful Republican opposition. Two outstanding and impressive Minnesota GOP congressmen have evinced keen interest in going to the Senate — Clark MacGregor, 47, serving his fifth term, and Albert Quie, 46, on his seventh term. Either would be a formidable Senate candidate.

The other hurdle is Sen. Eugene McCarthy, whose seat will be the prize in next year's congressional elections.

Last fall, McCarthy said he wouldn't seek re-election, but that if he did it would not be as a Democrat. Now latest inside word is that he has told Minnesota Democratic leaders that if they will nominate Rep. Donald Fraser, 45, a fourth termer and fellow "peacenik," McCarthy will support him as his successor. But if Humphrey is the party's candidate, McCarthy will run as an independent.

The life of every man is a diary in which he intends to write one story, and writes another; and his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with what he vowed to make it. — James M. Barrie.

Americans Prone To Violence? History Would Indicate Otherwise

With increasing frequency these days, you read that we Americans are a violent lot; that our history is steeped in violence.

That is a shoulder-shrugging statement for it is without significance. Meaning comes only if comparison is made.

Conversely it can be said, and with enough evidence to make it stick, that throughout our history there runs a thread of restraint, an aversion to overt violence. As in the early days of the nation, in Concord, Mass., the words, "Don't fire unless fired upon, but if they want war, let it begin here!" typify our disinclination to initiate violence. And, for better or worse, this has been our general attitude ever since.

TELEVISION and movie Westerns titillate us with practically an unbroken stream of violence, yet, almost as a cardinal formula, the hero never draws his pistol first. Motion pictures, too numerous to count, have as their plot the story of a man who shuns his guns in search of peace and is goaded, insulted, humiliated and abused until finally, unable to avoid violence any longer without sacrificing his most cherished values, he dramatically straps on his six-guns and comes out shooting.

Gary Cooper was perhaps the leading exponent of this sort of hero, the man who did what he had to do and hated every minute of it and did it only because he knew it was the right thing, the only thing he could do at the time.

ALTHOUGH our history is beaded with incidents of violence, this, by itself, does not necessarily stamp us as a violent people per se. Most of it can be accounted for by the explosive national growth, the expanding frontiers to the West and all the attendant obstacles, which by their very nature were violent and lent themselves to violence and demanded violence to resolve.

Perhaps an error is committed when we are believed to be violent simply because we do not fear violence. Perhaps this may be the key.

THE VIOLENCE recorded in the total history of America does not begin to approximate the violence exhibited in the short years of Hitler's Germany, Stalin's Russia and Mao Tse Tung's Red China.

Yes, there is violence in our society and yes, I do deplore most of it. But the "group violence" such as the riots and campus uprisings, have for the most part, been violence directed against property. Injuries and deaths have played a relatively small part. The violence of individual crimes is a serious phenomenon and must be dealt with positively and firmly.

And while violence is evident to a growing degree, it is also equally manifest that the great majority of people are reluctant to move against the minority committing violence. This is indicative of the prevailing attitude of the majority to lean over backward rather than use violence to cope with violence.

This then, lends credence to my theme, that Americans do not have a propensity for violence but will use it only as necessary and then only with great reluctance. Perhaps if we Americans were indeed as violent as we are credited we wouldn't have so much of it.

At least not within our borders.

Minister Hit For Behavior

LONDON (AP) — The Lord Mayor's Court convicted a young Presbyterian minister from Northern Ireland today of "indecent behavior" for blocking the Archbishop of Canterbury's way at an ecumenical service Jan. 22 and shouting, "Go back! Hypocrite!"

Rev. Thomas Foster, 25, was ordered to pay nearly $50 in fines and legal costs.

He was charged under the Ecclesiastical Courts Jurisdiction Act, which says interruption of a church service is indecent. Another charge of riotous behavior was dropped.

Rev. Foster was arrested in St. Paul's Cathedral during a demonstration opposing a sermon by John Cardinal Heenan, Britain's Roman Catholic primate.

Charter Service Proves Bus Neither Shunned Nor Outmoded

Take Eastshore Lines of San Francisco, a private firm which has been making inroads into Marin in the Terra Linda-Lucas Valley area with its yellow and white, air-conditioned buses.

The charter service has been so successful that it expanded into the San Marin area of Novato this year. They've even got a waiting list of commuters in Terra Linda who are eager to get in on the charter service.

The main attraction seems to be that these charter buses don't limit their routes to Highway 101 but wind through local roads from Merrydale to San Marin Drive, picking up their clients almost at their doorsteps.

Goes to show that the bus is far from being outmoded. It could be the coming thing for Marin commuters. Given convenient service and reasonable rates, commuters will jump for buses.

TELEPHONE GIRLS at the Civic Center switchboard are cool under fire.

During last week's bomb scare, when the alarm began buzzing, I rushed down the hall to the administrator's office to see what the commotion was about. I headed into the office of the administrator just as Alan Bruce and staff were headed out.

On impulse, I picked up the nearest phone to call I-J headquarters, with the administrator at my elbow insisting there was no time.

"Oh yes there is," I smiled to myself as the switchboard girl came on, and asked for an outside line.

But the administrator had the last laugh. "You can't have an outside line," barked the switchboard girl. "You're supposed to evacuate." And plunk, she cut us off.

WHY WAS THE ambulance delayed in getting to the stricken Novato fire chief at the time of the Burdell mansion fire?

There's been no official report on the incident to the county supervisors as yet. But Kenneth Hall of Doctor's Ambulance gave this explanation:

It was a foul-up in dispatch. The ambulance men got instructions to head for a fire on San Marin Drive. So they ran up and down San Marin looking for fire or smoke. "All this time," said Hale, "the dispatcher kept saying, 'Look for the flames; can't you see the flames'?" Actually the victim was on Highway 101 north of San Marain Drive, where he was stricken while heading for the Burdell mansion fire further north.

New procedures adopted for the communications system should help reduce such foul-ups in the future. They're going to have additional dispatchers so that one man won't have to handle all calls by himself. Further, the ambulance, firemen or police who get dispatched will repeat the destination address as a double check to make sure the message is accurately transmitted.

THE PROPOSAL to swap land north of the Civic Center for the old San Rafael courthouse gives you some idea of inflating land values. They're talking of $30,000 to $40,000 per acre, whereas back in 1956 the present Civic Center site was acquired for something like $3,000 per acre.

Hovercraft's First Runs Described As 'Fantastic'

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Passengers were skimmed across the Straits of Georgia yesterday in a Hovercraft, an air-cushioned craft vessel its backers hope will revolutionize transportation methods in the northern regions.

Byng Heeney, executive vice president of Pacific Hovercraft Ltd., said the 35-passenger vessel made two return trips between here and Nanaimo, located 40 miles away on Vancouver Island.

Supported by a four - foot cushion of air, the 10-ton, 48-foot Hovercraft is capable of speeds exceeding 60 miles an hour, whether on land, snow or water.

Yesterday's runs were Canada's first scheduled Hovercraft passenger service.

"It was just fantastic," Heeney said. "Mind you there were a few empty seats on the first trip to Nanaimo but on the way back and on the other return trip we actually had to turn passengers away."

Heeney said public reaction has been "terrific" and added there has been no adverse comment to date "although we are expecting some."

He did not elaborate.

"I do a lot of business in Nanaimo and the Hovercraft will save me about two hours a day," Muye said.

"The Hovercraft is not as comfortable as the B.C. Ferry," Miss Karen Henderson said. "But it sure is faster and I guess that's what counts since it's mainly for the businessman."

Powered by a 900-horsepower Bristol Siddeley gas turbine, the Hovercraft is capable of traveling from Vancouver to the island in less than 50 minutes.

By comparison the 1,000-passenger B.C. Ferry take almost two hours.

At present, Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. has only one air cushioned vehicle ferrying the 40-mile distance across the Straits of Georgia to Nanaimo but two other SR-N6 models are expected here in March or April.

Heeney said that by this summer the company will be operating six return trips daily to both Nanaimo and Victoria.

Construction of roadway improvements on Mount Lassen Drive between Lucas Valley Road and Miller Creek Bridge, Marin County, California; consisting of grading, paving, and other related construction.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin. Request for forms or information shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Plans, cross sections and Specifications (but not including Standard Specifications, or other documents included by reference), and Proposal Forms may be obtained by prospective bidders upon payment of a deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) (cash or check made payable to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin) to guarantee safe return of the plans and specifications within ten (10) days after bid opening. Failure to so return the plans and specifications will cause forfeiture of the deposit to the County.

The bid bonds of bidders, other than the successful bidder, may be retained by the Board of Supervisors for a period of thirty (30) days after award or until the successful bidder executes the contract and furnishes bonds, whichever occurs first. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded fails, or refuses, to execute the contract within fifteen (15) days of notice of award, as herein provided, the Board of Supervisors may award to the next lowest responsible bidder and apply the bid bond of the bidder failing, or refusing, to execute contract, against the County's damages resulting from such failure. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded executes the contract as herein required, the bid bonds of bidders to whom no award was made will be returned upon request.

Said proposals will be opened and read at 2:00 P.M. in Room No. 343, Marin County Civic Center, on the day specified above for receiving bids. Only the total amount bid will be read and not specific items going to make up said total unless written request for reading of each sub-total and individual items of the bid is requested in writing at the time of the submission of proposals. Bidders will be at liberty to inspect and review bids in the Office of the Director of Public Works to which they will be removed for the purpose of checking after the opening and reading of the totals.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will award the bid at 1:45 P.M. March 4, 1969, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein, and neither partial bids nor contingent bids will be considered.

High School Open Campus Issue Raised

Proposals for an open campus at San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools will be discussed by the San Rafael Board of Education, meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

Students at San Rafaedl High have voted in favor of a plan to allow students in all four grades to leave the campus with parental permission at noon and during free periods. A similar plan is proposed for Terra Linda.

The plan has, however, received some outspoken opposition from parents who believe such a program might create problems of discipline.

The board will also consider the hiring of three new teachers, additions to the adult evening education courses and summer school courses.

Job Clarified

Leslie I. Hood Jr. of Mill Valley, selected last week as public relations consultant for Fair-Marin, is a former director of public information for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, and is no longer with the district, as reported incorrectly Thursday by the Independent-Journal.

Baseball Sides Still Working Toward Settlement

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Take it from Ernie Banks: "Everything will be fine in '69!"

Banks, of course, is the eternal optimist. And the Sunshine Kid really wasn't thinking about the general state of the game of baseball this winter when he issued his annual pronouncement on the Chicago Cubs' pennant prospects.

Or was he?

Despite the impasse in the owner-player pension hassle, with its accompanying player boycott of spring training camps, there were indications from a couple of high places during the weekend that a 1969 season might come off after all.

Saturday, American League President Joe Cronin declared that AL play will begin, on schedule, April 7, "no matter what."

Last night, new Commissioner Bowie Kuhn cut short a Florida vacation-orientation trip and returned to New York for today's scheduled pension negotiations, saying he believes a settlement can be reached this week.

Carl Yastrzemski, Boston's three-time A.L. batting champion, hinted yesterday he might sign a Red Sox contract and be on hand Wednesday for the club's first full scale workout at Winter Haven, Fla. Ken Harrelson, signed by the Red Sox last summer, said earlier he intends to report to camp.

Unsigned pitcher Tom Seaver, a 16-game winner for the New York Mets last season, told newsmen in St. Petersburg, Fla., "I think you'll be seeing me shortly. I will not strike."

Shortstop Luis Aparicio, who signed his 1969 pact last fall, reported to the Chicago White Sox' Sarasota, Fla., training base and said he'd be in uniform for today'sk drill.

The New York Yankees reported that 37 of the 43 players on their spring roster either have signed contracts or agreed to terms, and the Mets said they were prepared to play their exhibition schedule with or without established players.

The owners turned down a players' compromise proposal of a $5.9 million pension package last Friday and asked that their own $5.3 million offer, rejected unanimously by the 24 club player representatives, be put to a vote of all the players.

They agreed to another bargaining session today but refused to join the players in a meeting with a federal mediator.

The players' negotiators said they would attend the meeting with Frank Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, anyway.

Cronin said the American League will open for business on schedule, regardless of the outcome of the dispute, because "I don't see any reason to take any other attitude. Both sides want to resolve the issues and that is a good situation."

Kuhn visited the Mets' training base Sunday and took a few swings in the batting cage before flying to New York "to do everything I can to help get the people together."

The commissioner, an attorney for the National League before his election to the game's top executive job earlier this month, said he couldn't "act as an arbitrator in my position, but I will do everything in my power to help them reach a fair settlement."

Yastrzemski, one of the game's few $100,000-a-year performers, arrived unexpectedly at Winter Haven and conferred at length with Boston General Manager Dick O'Connell, and later with pitcher Jim Lonborg, the Red Sox' player representative.

"I am going to talk to O'Connell again Wednesday morning," he said.

Was it possible he would sign Wednesday? "It's not impossible," he replied. "This is a difficult situation because so many people are watching and waiting to see what I do."

"If Yaz signs, I think most of the club will fall rapidly into line," O'Connell said.

O'Connell said the Red Sox have loaned players as much as $5,000 in the past and "in some cases, when a player has been in difficult financial straits, we have not asked for repayment of the money.

"Perhaps in the future, when some player wants to borrow $5,000 for a down payment on a new home, we may have to suggest he borrow it from the union or tell him there's a bank down the street."

Griffith promised stiff penalties for any Minnesota player who isn't in shape for the opening of the regular season because of his late arrival in camp.

"If any of my players haven't reported by March 1, they'll see some surprises," he said. "If they want to be union men, we'll treat them as union men instead of socialites."

Novato Wrestlers Win Norcal Title

Donaldson Twins Bag Top Honors

Led by the fabulous Donaldson twins, Kirt and Ken, Novato High School won the Northern California High School wrestling championship Saturday in thrilling finals matches at Civic Auditorium in Stockton.

With a crowd estimated at 4,000 persons looking on, Kirt Donaldson won the 115 pound individual championship and Ken took the 123-pound crown, both on valuable falls, and each piling up 15 points with four consecutive victories. And in an unprecedented gesture, tournament officials voted both boys winners of the outstanding wrestling award.

SECOND

Novato's Rod McCown placed second in the 148-pound division for 10 points and Paul Robertson picked up a vital point in the 136-pound class to help the Hornets total 41 points to runner-up Los Gatos High's 40.

Thus, with an extra point for a fall, both Donaldsons came through under tremendous pressure in the finals. After scoring a fall and then 1-0 and 3-0 decisions, Kirt pinned defending champion Bill Daugherty of San Juan High of Citrus Heights. Ken scored a 910 victory in his first match, a fall in the second, an 18-3 decision in the third and added the coup de grace by pinning Mitch Penny of San Jose's Lynbrook High in the finals.

"SWEATED"

Novato Coach Ralph Cutler said, "We really sweated it out Saturday night. Going into the evening finals we had a 33-30 lead over Los Gatos, but in the first match they (Los Gatos) went ahead 34-30. Then along came Kirt to make it 37-34 for us and Ken's victory gave us our 41 points. Los Gatos could have tied us, but their boy was unable to score a fall in the 130-pound finals so we beat them by a point."

Approximately 85 schools participated in the California Interscholastic Federation-sanctioned tournament. Novato's victory marked the first time since the tourney started in 1951 that the championship was won by a school north of San Francisco.

Other leading schools and their points: Ukiah 27, San Juan 23, Tennyson of Hayward 23, Mountain View 20, Fremont of Sunnyvale 19 and Andrew Hill of San Jose 17.

TUCSON OPEN

Trevino Breezes To Big Victory

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Lee Trevino dropped putts in the wind, rain, snow and also in the sunshine as he won the $100,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament and observed:

"Putting is like a wife. Sometimes she'll be good to you."

The 29-year-old ex-Marine from El Paso, who hit the jackpot U.S. Open with his first victory on the pro golf tour in 1968, visited the winner's circle for $20,000 yesterday.

He met one early challenge and then flew off to a seven-stroke victory with a 66 on his final round, on a balmy day, and a 271-total-equalling the tournament record since the event moved to the Tucson National Golf Club course in 1965.

"If you putt good, your game goes good," declared Trevino, who will leave the tour for a week to visit his wife and 3-year-old daughter in El Paso.

"You know, I called my wife on Saturday night and told her I had a five-stroke lead, and she didn't believe me. I wish she could have been here."

Trevino had fired a 68 on Sat- then added his six under par yesterday to capture the title, 17 under regulation figures for the 72-hole tournament.

Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., finished second with a 68-278, with Bert Yancey of Tallahassee, Fla., third at 69-279 for $11,400 and $7,100, respectively.

Tied for third were Don Bies of Seattle at 69-280, Gene Littler of San Diego with a 68, and Dr. Ed Updegraff, 46, a urologist, who shot a 67 on his final round. Then he failed to sign his card.

Technically, he was diaqualified, but Dr. Updegraff, couldn't collect money anyway since he chooses to remain an amateur. Bies and Littler each got $4,400.

"At the fourth hole, I saw the handwriting on the wall" he observed, You have to have some luck to win."

At the fourth, Yancey teed off first and put his ball 12 feet beyond the cup on the 165-yard, par-3 hole. Trevino was off the tee next. His shot hit Yancey's ball into a trap and spun back.

Trevino estimated he stopped four feet from the hole. Others thought it twice the distance, but Lee sank the putt for his second birdie of the day.

Yancey replaced his ball on the green, as he could according to the rules, but two-putted.

Yancey had birdied the first and second holes, cutting Trevino's lead to three strokes, before Lee birdied the second.

Trevino sank his putt from 16 feet at the fifth and from 2½ feet at the sixth, a par-5. He dropped a 20-footer at the eighth and made the turn six strokes in front of his nearest rival.

Right now, it's home to El Paso, for Trevino, and even though the Doral Tournament at Miami might be lucrative, he's skipping that as the other pros move from the West to Miami.

"I promised my wife and little girl that I'd be home," Trevino explained. "That's where I'm going."

Lonely Spot In Arizona

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Casa Grande, a pretty busy place at this time of the year, was a lonely spot in the Arizona desert today as the San Francisco Giants opened their spring training camp.

There were supposed to be 18 pitchers and five catchers on hand when new manager Clyde King opened camp. The only ones who did show up were the rookie hurlers and catchers and veteran Gaylord Perry. There was no indication, though, that Perry would work out since he has not signed his 1969 contract.

Others on hand, known to Giants fans by virtue of previous brief flings with the club, included infielders Bobby Etheridge and Bob Burda, plus the coaching staff of Larry Jansen, West Westrum and Ozzie Virgil.

Willie Mays also was in camp but for another reason. The Giants outfielder turned television sportscaster was here to tape some shows and not to work out.

He and the other Giants veterans—as well as some 400 others around the majors—are boycotting spring training until a Players Association dispute with the club owners over an improved pension plan had been resolved.

"I'm itching to go," said Mays. "I haven't touched a baseball in more than four months. But I won't sign or report until the dispute is settled."

That just about summed up the feelings of the other San Francisco veterans, including Willie McCovey, Jim Hart, Juan Marichal and Ron Hunt.

Russian Booters Triumph

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dynamo Kiev of the Soviet Union won the first game but the California Clippers showed once again they can play on a par with the world's best soccer teams.

Speedy forward Anotolidy Puzach scored all three Dynamo goals yesterday as the Soviet team beat the Clippers, 3-2, in the first game ever played between the United States and the USSR.

A crowd of 11,815 who turned out on a cold and rainy afternoon at Kezar Stadium saw the Clippers dominate the action in the second half. It was a bit late by then but the host club earned a lot of respect in the process.

Puzach scored 45 seconds after the opening whistle for a 1-0 lead. After the Clippers tied it on a goal by Cirilo Fernandez 15 seconds later, Puzach booted in a six-yarder for his second tally in the 19th minute. He got his final goal in the 33rd minute after faking two Clipper defenders out of position.

Fernandez scored California's second goal as well, getting it on a 20-yard penalty kick early in the second half. A third Clipper goal—by Ilija Mitic—was not allowed.

At first, head linesman Henry Landuer signalled goal on a 20-yard boot but referee Rigo Bolanos overruled him, saying Soviet goal keeper Yevgenyiy Radakov had possession of the ball and that not all of it had penetrated the net area.

The two teams meet again next Sunday in Los Angeles and then come back for a third match at Kezar Stadium March 9.

A third-period goal by Ted Irvine from a faceoff in front of the Oakland net at 7:26 of the third period broke a 3-3 tie last night and lifted the Kings to a 4-3 win over the Seals. In posting their first win at the Coliseum-Arena, the Kings broke a five-game losing skein.

In five meetings this season, Los Angeles has won three and tied two with the Seals who have at least one victory over every other club in the NHL this season.

Oakland center Ted Hampson then tallied his 20th and 21st goals of the campaign before Carol Vadnais tied the score at 3-3 at 14:19 of the middle period with his 14th goal of the season, high for NHL defensemen.

A crowd of 5,485 watched glumly as Irvine zipped the puck past goaltender Gary Smith in the final period to put the third-place Kings seven points behind second-place Oakland in the Western Division.

Determination, Skill Win For Yarbrough

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sheer determination and skill brought Lee Roy Yarbrough his biggest payoff in eight years of big time stock car racing. But pit crews will debate for a long time whether a tire change might have made the difference between the winner and second-place Charlie Glotzbach in the Daytona 500 yesterday.

In the background of the mechanical controversy were two former champion drivers—Junior Johnson, who prepared Yarbrough's 1969 Ford Talladega, and Cotton Ownes, who did the same with Glotzbach's 1969 Dodge Charger 500.

BY A LENGTH

Yarbrough, who was runner-up in both the Daytona 500 and Firecracker 400 at Daytona International Speedway last year, passed Glotzbach one mile from home and finished a car length in front.

"I was going flat out and I couldn't slingshot past him off the fourth turn," Glotzbach said.

Yarbrough, giving his account of the final laps, said: "I actually caught him on the lap before but decided to wait till the last lap, ahere he could not gain enough momentum to pass me back."

They waged a two-car duel through the last 100 miles after Donnie Allison—who led 87 of the 200 laps around the 2.5-mile high banked track—brushed the wall and lost some of his speed.

TIRE CHANGE

The crucial tire change came 50 miles before the finish. Yarbrough pitted 21 seconds. In addition to fueling, the changed the left rear tire. Glotzbach was in the pit only 18 seconds, just for fuel.

"''We put on a soft tire,' 'said Herb Nab of Yarbrough's crew. "It wouldn't go a long distance but it grabbed the track real good the time he needed it."

Ownes said he decided against a tire change on the last stop because "we were trying to save seconds."

When both cars went into the final laps, it appeared the three-second difference had won the race for Glotzbach, the comparative newcomer from Georgetown, Ind. But Yarbrough steadily closed in.

DANGEROUS

After he got past a dangerous situation just before passing Glotzbach, he had the tiny speed margin that brought him $38,950 in prize money compared to $18,425 for Glotzbach.

That dangerous situation cropped up when the two cars overtook a slower one on the backstretch.

"I went past him on one side and Charlie on the other side," Yarbrough recalled. "I just hoped he was experienced enough to look in his rear view mirror and wouldn't just move over the other way when he saw the first car come by."

He was

It was a big double over the weekend for Yarbrough. He also won the Permatex 300 race for older sportsman type cars Saturday and collected $9,225 for that one—a weekend total of $48,205 to take back to Columbia, S.C.

Death At Race Track Brings Safety Review

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The death of driver Don MacTavish during a stock car race here this weekend will bring about a review of safety precautions at the huge Daytona International Raceway.

A speedway spokesman said films of the four-car accident in which MacTavish died Saturday will be studied and a minute inspection made of the section of the track where it occurred.

MacTavish, a 26-year-old veteran from Dover, Mass., was killed when he lost control of his car, spun into the grandstand wall and was struck virtually head-on by a car driven by Sam Sommers of Savannah, Ga.

MacTavish's car actually rammed into a heavy steel wire gate that closes one of five entrances that carry spectator traffic across the track into and out of the vast speedway infield.

During races, these gates are closed and become part of a concrete wall that runs the entire length of the grandstand straightaway.

"We watch for them," said Bobby Allison, who drove in the 300-mile race in which MacTavish lost his life.

"They're no more dangerous than other points on the track, but the one MacTavish hit is probably the worst because it is located at a point where you're at top speed coming off the fourth turn," Allison said.

McTavish, barrelling down the straightaway at about 180 miles an hour, suddenly swerved into the wall, with the biggest portion of the front end of his car striking the wire gate.

The give of the gate bounced the car back onto the track, where it was fair game for Sommers, who had no chance to avoid a collision.

Most of the drivers who competed in the 800 miles of racing Saturday and yesterday saw MacTavish's crash. Several were of the opinion that the New Englander simply lost control coming off the turn.

Daytona Speedway President William H.G. France said that prior to Saturday, 517,889 miles of high speed racing had taken place on the track without a fatality. None of five previous deaths at the track came in a stock car race.

Meantime, MacTavish's body was being sent to Needham, Mass., for funeral and burial services later in the week.

sweet one for the Ford factory team, denied use of its new 429-cubic inch stagger-valve engine and forced to rely on the old 427-cubic inch tunnelport power plant with a single fourbarrel carburetor. Last year, Ford could use two carburetors, but the rules changed.

Aerodynanic design of the Talladega model was credited for faster speeds, and Yarbrough actually set a race record of 157.950 m.p.h. It wiped out the 154.334 mark set by Richard Petty in 1966.

Ford took the next two places behind Glotzbach.

Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., finished third, one lap back, and collected $13,275. A.J. Foyt of Houston was fourth and got $5,800. Buddy Baker of Charlotte, who started a Dodge on the pole, came home fifth for $10,050.

RECORD

David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., who set a qualifying record of 190.029 m.p.h. in his Ford, ran into multiple troubles including fan belt bolts but managed to finish sixth for $5,600.

Benny Parsons of Detroit, who won the ARCA 300 a week earlier, drove the same Ford to seventh place in the faster NASCAR competition and won $3,450. He got a special award as rookie of the race.

Defending champion Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., was the only driver taken to the hospital. He was checked for foot and nose injuries—with no broken bones found—after his Ford hit the outer wall and rode along the concrete until it ground off the body on the right side.

Rains May Stop J.C. Baseball Tournament

College of Marin baseball coach Pete Limm kept a wary eye on the skies today to see if his Tars can complete their schedule in the Chabot College Invitational Tournament at Hayward after Saturday's games were rained out.

"If it rains much more we may just have to cancel the tournament," said Limm, whose Tars won their first game and tied the second game Friday.

In the opener it was Mike Terry who pitched the Tars to a 4-0 victory over San Josquin Delta College on a one-hitter. Gary Dinkel's bases-loaded triple gave Terry all the help he needed.

In the second game Marin's Kevin Wilson pitched his heart out for 10 innings before the Tars' game with Cabrillo College of Santa Cruz was called on account of darkness, tied at 2-2.

Marin was still awaiting word from Chabot Coloege today on its remaining schedule in the tournament. The Tars' next regularly scheduled competition will come Friday and Saturday at the Santa Rosa Junior College Invitational Tournament.

Bruins Coming To The Bay Area

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA can lock up its third straight Pacific-8 Conference basketball title against Stanford and California this week but in the West Coast Athletic Conference, the race figures to go down to the wire now that San Jose State has knocked off high flying Santa Clara.

The Bruins, No. 1 nationally since the season started and overwhelming favorites to win the Pac-8 crown, whipped Oregon State, 91-66, and Oregon, 103-69, during the weekend to run their victory total to 38 straight and 85 in the last 86 games. They also improved their conference mark to 10-0 with four games left to play and their overall mark to 22-0.

This week, the Bruins play at Stanford on Friday night and at California, in Berkeley, Saturday night. A victory over the Indians would clinch a tie for the league title and another over Cal would lock things up.

In the WCAC, it's an entirely different story.

San Jose State upended Santa Clara, 73-69, in double overtime Friday night and then downed USF, 75-66, Saturday to move to within a game of the nationally No. 2 ranked Broncos, who recovered on Saturday to rout Santa Barbara, 91-71.

Pacific, which had been in a contending position, fell out of the race by bowing to Pepperdine, 66-64, and to Loyola, 67-59. That left the Stockton Tigers at 6-4 and out in the cold.

This week, Santa Clara, now 9-1 in the conference and 22-1 overall, plays Pepperdine and Loyola while San Jose State, 8-2 and 13-7, meets Pacific and St. Mary's. The two contenders don't meet again this season so the Broncos are still in the driver's seat, providing they win all of their remaining games.

Elsewhere in the Pac-8 last Saturday, Southern California defeated Oregon State, 71-61, and Washington routed California, 85-65.

The WCAC has an almost identical situation in the middle of the pack with Santa Barbara tied with Pacific at 6-4 for third place and Pepperdine, which won twice the past weekend, a step back at 5-5.

In UCLA's victory over Oregon, the Bruins led by only four points at the half, then ripped off 12 straight points at the start of the second to put the game away with ease. Lew Alcindor led all scorers with 25 points, although he left the game with seven minutes remaining.

Canada College of Redwood City registered a mild upset Saturday night by defeating the College of Marin Tars 56-50 in a Camino Norte Conference basketball game at Redwood City.

"They did a good job of containing us; we just couldn't get to them," said Marin Coach Cal Riemcke, whose Tars had defeated Canada 74-59 in their previsous meeting last month at Kentfield.

Marin's conference won-lost record dropped to 6-4 and overall mark to 10-14 and prospects aren't getting brighter as Wednesday night the Tars host undefeated Contra Costa College of San Pablo at Kentfield starting at 8 o'clock.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, hopeful of tightening their grip on third place in the National Basketball Association's Western Division, take on the visiting Chicago Bulls tonight, 8 o'clock, in the Civic Auditorium.

The Warriors were idle yesterday. They needed the rest after losing 129-122 Saturday night to the Philadelphia 76ers.

The defeat dropped San Francisco's record to 32-35. Chicago, 26-40, trails fourth-place San Diego by just two games and the Rockets, with a split of weekend games, are just 3½ behind the Warriors.

Billy Cunningham's 41 points plus 25 by Chet Walker and 21 by Darrell Imhoff paced the 76ers' attack. Jeff Mullins, with 37, and Rudy LaRusso, with 26, led the Warriors.

Oaks Lose To Pipers 104-102

DALLAS (UPI)—The Oakland Oaks, tasting defeat from an Eastern Division team for the first time this season, tonight tackle the Dallas Chaparrals.

Playing without their respective super stars—Connie Hawkins and Rick Barry, the Minnesota Pipers built up a 104-96 lead over Oakland with two minutes to play at Minneapolis-St. Paul Sunday night and fought off a late surge for a 104-102 victory. It was the first time this season an Eastern Division team of the American Basketball Association defeated the Oaks who beat the Pipers in their three previous meetings.

Marin Junior Hockey Team Triumphs, 4-3

Robbie Hutten scored two goals and Don Presley and Jamie Edwards contributed one each to give the Marin Junior Hockey Club's Bantam Division team a 4-3 victory over the Berkeley Bantams yesterday at Berkeley.

Marin's Peewee team, meanwhile, lost a 4-1 decision to San Francisco at San Francisco. Maury Carmody's unassisted goal was Marin's only score.

Masters: 59 Golfers Invited

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Fifty-nine golfers from the United States have been invited to compete in the Masters Golf Tournament April 10-13.

Nine of the Americans are amateurs, with the invitations going to 50 professionals, Masters officials announced Saturday.

Six other pros who have the best showing on the pro tour for the past year will be invited later, along with one player—amateur or professional—picked by former Masters champions.

Defending champion Bob Goalby, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gay Brewer Jr., Art Wall Jr., and Sam Snead are among the 17 former titlists back for another try.

Among the well-known pros missing on the list was Charlie Sifford, veteran golfer who in the past has charged that he was never asked because he is a Negro. Masters officials have said he will be welcome as soon as he qualified.

Sifford did not meet any of the qualifying requirements for pros in 1968. Invitations can be won by finishing in the top 16 in the U.S. Open or the top eight in the PGA Tournament, winning the British Open, membership on the Ryder Cup Team or by finishing in the top 24 in the last Masters.

STILL POSSIBLE

Sifford still could qualify with a strong run in the spring tour that would make him among the top six pros for the past year. He also could be invited by former Masters champions.

Clifford Roberts, chairman of the Masters Tournament Committee, said that a drawing was held to determine which of the two players that tied for eighth in the U.S. Amateur received an invitation. Allen Miller III of Pensacola, Fla., won the berth over William J. Patton of Morganton, N.C.

Cochran Wins Men's Ski Slalom

BEAR VALLEY (AP) — Bob Cochran of Madonna Mountain, Vt., skiing in a heavy snowstorm yesterday won the men's special slalom in the National Alpine Ski Championships.

Cochran, battling a storm which dumped three feet of new snow since Saturday night on the Super Cup Trail, covered the course in 59.19 seconds in two runs.

Skiers had trouble finding the gates along the three-eighths of a mile trail, with a vertical drop of 532 feet.

Meet officials were forced to cancel the women's special slalom because of the snow, which was blinding skiers by midafternoon.

The race will be rescheduled next week by the National Ski Association.

Second in the men's slalom was Mike Pocarelli, Ironwood, Mich., 1:01 in his two runs. He was one of the last qualifiers to finish and recorded his time after second place had been awarded to Tyler Palmer, Kearsarge, N.H., 1:03.

Palmer was dropped to third, followed by Ken Corrock, Crystal Mountain, Wash., 1:03.25; and Rob Bell, Sun Valley, Idaho, 1:03.28.

Efren Torres Reigns As Flyweight Champ

Which pretty well fits Efren "Scorpion" Torres, a light-tan 25-year-old from the little town of La Palma in western Mexico, who reigns today as the smallest man on the list of world boxing champions, at 112 pounds.

Torres crowned himself world flyweight champ last night, beating Chartchai Chionoi of Thailand, who held the title since December 1966, with much less trouble than anyone expected.

Torres won a technical knockout over Chionoi, 111 pounds, when ring doctor Herrera Franjutti climbed between the ropes after the end of the eighth round, and declared Chionoi—whose left eye was swollen tightly shut—was no longer able to defend himself.

It was the 43rd victory in 49 fights—27 by knockouts—for the new champion, who has five losses and one draw on his record.

Sonoma State Nine Splits Doubleheader

Sonoma State College's baseball team opened its season Saturday by dividing a doubleheader with the St. Mary's Gaels of Moraga, winning the opener 4-2 and losing the second game 8-3 at Rohnert Park.

Bing Kunzig and Larry Lefor shared the pitching duties for the Cossacks in the opener, yielding eight hits. John Bussman led the Rohnert Parkers at the plate with two doubles, two singles, and two runs-batted-in for the afternoon.

Prep Cagers Get Ready For Final Week Of Play

Redwood and Novato high schools, running 1-2 most of the season in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race, continue along their collision course in this final week of the season with a head-on meeting scheduled Friday night at Novato.

But first the front-runners must take care of the some unfinished business in tomorrow's round of action when the Redwood Giants put their 11-1 won-lost record up against dangerous Terra Linda (8-4) at Redwood's Larkspur gymnasium while the Novato Hornets (10-2) have it relatively easy against Marin Catholic (3-9) at Marin Catholic's Kentfield gym.

Elsewhere tomorrow, San Rafael (7-5) hosts Tamalpais (4-8) and Drake (4-8) invades San Marin (1-11) at the new Novato high school's gymnasium. All varsity games start at 4 p.m., followed by junior varsity contests.

Redwood, winner of 11 straight since a league-opening loss to San Rafael, has the inside track toward the league title and invitation to the annual High School Tournament of Champions at Oakland Coliseum Arena next month, but has two dangerous hurdles to clear. Terra Linda, which challengers the Giants tomorrow, proved it can score big last Friday with an explosive 99-67 victory over Marin Catholic.

However, the last time Redwood met Terra Linda the Giants took a 75-66 decision.

Should Redwood and Novato win tomorrow as expected, Friday night's showdown at Novato should be a sellout. In their first round meeting Redwood beat the Hornets handily, 78-63, but this time Novato will have the home court advantage.

Should Novato and Redwood wind up in a tie for the title, they would meet in a playoff game at a neutral court to determine the league's representative in the T of C.

This also is showdown week in the junior varsity standings with Redwood (10-2) playing Terra Linda (9-3) in the key game tomorrow. In their last meeting Terra Linda handed Redwood its first loss, 48-37.

Mutuals Are Good For Retirement

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. As a working couple we are looking forward to retirement in three years. I am covered by my employer under the Keogh plan. I have almost 300 shares of Mass Growth Fund and can add $700 annually to this. Recently we purchased $5,000 in Keystone S-4 hoping that reinvestment will build it up to the minimum required for a monthly withdrawal plan. Do you approve of our program? — F.C.

A. Keystone S-4, a performance fund, and Mass Investors Growth, a diversified common stock fund, are above-average representatives in their respective groups and should stand you in good stead for retirement.

I would by all means take advantage of the tax shelter offered for voluntary contributions under the Keogh act. With only three years to retirement it is improbable but not impossible to achieve the 100 per cent increase needed to build your Keystone S-4 shares to the $10,000 required for income.

Q. My portifolio consists of a few shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey, Du Pont, General Motors, Southern Pacific and Pioneer Fund. I am a widow, 75, depending entirely on dividends, interest and Social Security. I wonder if I should look for better-paying stocks. that are equally safe. — B.L.

A. An increase in your dividend income is entirely possible and can be accomplished in relative safety. Two high-grade preferred issues, Consolidated Edison $5 and Union Electric $4.56, sell to yield an average 6.4 per cent. Equal-dollar amounts of these preferreds should replace your holdings of Standard Oil of New Jersey, Southern Pacific and Du Pont which yield an average 3.9 per cent.

Market On Low Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Concern over tight money, Vietnam and the Middle East helped drive prices lower today. Shortly before the final bell, declines were topping advances by better than 4-to-1 in active trading.

Volume approximated 12-million shares, versus some 10-million shares at the same time in the previous session.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Tax Free Gain For Old House If Invested In A New Home

Wikel

If you sell your old residence and buy and move into a new one within a year before or after the sale of the old one, any gain realized on the sale of the old residence is tax free to the extent it's invested in the new one, Section 1034.

So, if you spend at least as much for the new home as you got for the old home, the gain is tax free at this time.

If you spend less for the new home than you got for the old home, but more than the old home cost you, then you may be able to exclude the part of the gain represented by the excess of the cost of the new home over the cost of the old home.

If you can sell your old home within a year after you buy the new home it looks like you may be able to deduct your costs and depreciation on the old home and defer tax on any gain.

COURT MEMO

However, before making this deduction, check with your tax advisor. The IRS may not follow these court decisions and may disallow any such deduction.

If you are 65 years old or over, you may be able to exclude any capital gain in the first $20,000 of the sales price of your personal residence if you have owned the personal residence for at least eight years and have actually used it as your principal place of residence for at least five out of the last eight years.

CAN DEDUCT ALL

If the sales price is $20,000 or less, you can exclude all the capital gain.

If the sales price is more than $20,000, you can exclude only the proportionate share of the gain that the adjusted sales price bears to $20,000.

This is a once in a lifetime exclusion. You cannot claim it more than once. Either husband or wife will satisfy the age, ownership and use requirements where one of them satisfies such requirements for a residence they own as joint tenants, tenants for the entirety, or community property and if they file a joint return.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Feldron Industries Is Taken Over By Sonoma Pair

Two Sonoma County men, Marvin Van Leuven of Rohnert Park and Jerry Dermake of Petaluma, have taken over the Marin and Sonoma vinyl repair, dying, maintenance and processing of Feldron Industries, Inc., under the franchise held by Edward R. Wolford.

Wolford, who originally started out doing this servicing, has since become plant manager for Feldron, which is located at Northgate Industrial Park. But the company's production and sales have stepped up so much in the past year he has had no time to work his franchise.

Look for Feldron to get more and more into national distribution. Major airlines, hotels and institutions are now among its customers and franchises are extending into other areas.

NEW APPOINTMENTS at California State Automobile Association have been given to two Marin County men.

Melvin Brockhoff of Corte Madera has been appointed manager of accounting. He began his career with the association as assistant cashier in 1932 and became assistant controller in 1963.

Milton Gruenwald of Novato has been made assistant manager of accounting. He started with CSAA in 1960 as assistant statistician and was appointed accounting supervisor for the inter-insurance bureau last year.

Alexander

Korn

JAMES E. ALEXANDER of Larkspur has been elected vice president of the western region for Marketing Continental, Inc., a San Francisco-based firm specializing in marketing programs and field sales management. Before joining the company three years ago he was division manager for S and W Fine Foods, national sales training director for Ray-O-Vac Co., and a partner in Merrick and Alexander, a Hawaii brokerage firm.

JOHN J. KORN of San Rafael has been appointed third vice president, personal insurance, at the Pacific Coast head office of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco. He has been with the company since 1932 and has recently served as assistant vice president of data processing.

This appears to be a day for corrections.

Straightening out an apparently garbled item of Feb. 12, Fred Salcedo of Cedos TV Co., Kentfield has been elected president of the Marin County chapter of the California State Electronics Association. Leonard Schaub of Westland TV, San Rafael is new vice president. Josef Zemann of Zemann's TV, Corte Madera is secretary-treasurer.

And of Feb. 18, it should have been Albert Grimm — not Robert Grimm — who has joined the Dreyer-Wilson and Co. real estate office.

Kay

TWO SAN RAFAEL MEN, M. A. (Kelly) Gearety and Alan M. Kay, both owning construction companies bearing their names, have been installed as officers of Associated Home Builders, Inc. for San Francisco, Marin, Napa and Sonoma Counties. Gearety is new vice president. Kay is new secretary.

A FLEA FAIR and auction is being held every Sunday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the main exhibit building of the Sonoma-Marin Fair grounds in Petaluma. Space is rented to individuals to sell their own items or for a fee articles may be placed on the block for bid with auctioneer Wayne A. Snodgrass.

Pacific Telephone Shows Earning Hike
